2000 Season Outlook
Men's Soccer

In 12 seasons at the helm of the Seattle University men's soccer program, never before has Peter Fewing's team suffered consecutive losing seasons. For the first time since 1991, however, that streak is in jeopardy. Fewing's Redhawks take the field this season trying to rebound from a discouraging 7-9-4 record in 1999, but it will not be easy. The Redhawks face a handful of key losses, return a relatively inexperienced group and welcome 13 newcomers to face the toughest schedule the program has ever known.

A Redhawk offense that sputtered all last season must find a way to recover from the loss of several key players. Seattle loses the second and third leading scorers from 1999 in Gavin Hewitt and Manuel Ruiz. With their departures, sophomore Joe Watson returns as the only proven consistent goal scorer. He led the team in goals (9), assists (5) and total points (23) on his way to being selected as the Freshman of the Year in the Pacific West Conference.

Also returning to the Redhawk front line is sophomore Joe Hubley, a midfielder/forward. Hubley has not seen significant action in his career and will be looking for an opportunity to earn minutes in the regular playing rotation. With a rare lack of firepower last season, Coach Fewing brought in a handful of fierce goal scorers to bolster the SU attack. Tyler Bernius, a freshman from Sentinel High School in Missoula, Mont.; Ian Chursky, a sophomore transfer from Tacoma Community College; Danny Ferris, a junior transfer from Skagit Valley Community College; and Joseph Supang, a freshman from South Whidbey High School, all join the team this year with very impressive résumés, ready to make their marks with the Redhawks.

The biggest blow to the middle line and to the team's leadership is the loss of four-year starter Jamin Olmstead, who graduated after last season. Olmstead did not connect offensively last season but he was always around the ball. Along with Hubley, Jon Yamauchi and Tim Dapar return to the midfield. Yamauchi is one of just two seniors and the lone four-year SU letterwinner on this year's team. Because of his experience, Yamauchi needs to step up as a leader. He plays a defensive midfield position, so he won't bring huge numbers to the table, but his ability to control the tempo of a game and transition the Redhawks from defense to offense will be vital to SU's success. As a freshman last season, Dapar brought a lot of energy off the bench. A hard worker with good speed, if Dapar wants to work his way into the starting rotation, he must provide more of a scoring punch. After transferring to Seattle

*Team Captains

University las season Matt Hulen redshirted the 1999 campaign and will vie for a spot in the midfield.

With his midfield in nearly the same situation as his front line, Fewing set out to add depth there as well, especially increasing his number of attacking midfielders. His first two signings during the offseason were freshmen midfielders Andrew Stromberg and James Vert, two players that can add a lot of scoring to this team. Vert is a powerful central midfielder who has the ability to dominate games and pace the Redhawk offense. Stromberg is an outside midfielder with amazing speed and ball control. Unfortunately he suffered a severely broken leg during the spring and will be forced to redshirt this season. Seattle Prep standouts Craig Johanson and Shea Robinson, along with Elliot Fauske, a freshman from Mead High School in Spokane and Tony Volpe, a freshman from Bellevue Christian High School will be welcome additions to the Redhawk midfield.

Fewing put together arguably the toughest schedule the program has ever known for the upcoming season. The Redhawks open the season with an exhibition contest at Division I powerhouse University of Washington. Last time these teams met in 1996, the Redhawks upset then undefeated and second ranked UW 1-0, so bragging rights will be at stake here.

The backline will be without the team's vocal leader and a player that personified the team during his entire career in a Seattle uniform. Jason Oliver was a tough, intelligent leader who always made sure his defense and middle lines were perfectly aligned. He brought a spirit and an air of confidence that will be desperately missed by the Redhawks. Despite the loss of Oliver, the Redhawks return a bulk of their impressive defense from last season.

Junior Kevin Houck had an outstanding season in 1999 and is a player the coaches hope can take Oliver's place as the vocal leader in the back. Fellow Montana native Mike Eiseman joins Houck as another reliable outside defender for Seattle. Eiseman transferred to SU last season and his 6-2 frame gave the Redhawks a dominating presence in the back. Both Houck and Eiseman like to make long runs out of the back line and have even filled in as outside midfielders when called upon. Nick Thurber came on as a freshman last season and had an excellent season as a central defender, where he will continue to play this year. Each of these players are outstanding in their own right, but as a group, they are nearly impenetrable for opposing attackers.

The Redhawks do not return a true sweeper, so Fewing will look to either Houck or newcomers Justin Miller and Jeff Stock, Jr. to fill that position. Both Miller and Stock are tough defenders that could see a lot of action as freshmen this season. If Houck doesn't move to sweeper, Miller is a likely candidate to play the position for the Redhawks.

Even if the Redhawk backline is broken, attackers still must get by one of the best goalkeepers around. From day one, Jeremiah Doyle has filled the enormous shoes left by Jason Palmer, SU's all-time saves and shutouts leader. Doyle enters his third consecutive season as Seattle's starter in the net. He was unable to match his outstanding stats from his freshman season in which he was named an honorable mention All-American, but Doyle is poised to return to his stalwart ways. Charlie Burke, a redshirt in 1999, will be ready to prove his worth in the net as he hopes to earn playing time this season. Freshman Brandon Sewell has been very impressive in early workouts and, if he doesn't redshirt, will make a strong case to be Doyle's backup.

Fewing put together arguably the toughest schedule the program has ever known for the upcoming season. The Redhawks open the season with an exhibition contest at Division I powerhouse University of Washington. Last time these teams met in 1996, the Redhawks upset then undefeated and second ranked UW 1-0, so bragging rights will be at stake here. SU next hosts Cal-Poly Pomona, and then faces two formidable Canadian squads in British Columbia and Victoria when they come into town for the third annual Seattle University Cup.

The road gets even rockier as the Redhawks embark on a journey to California where they will meet up with Westmont College and Fresno Pacific University, two teams that regularly finish in the NAIA's top 10. A trip to the University of Portland one week after returning to the Northwest once again pits SU against one of the nation's best. The Redhawks also square off against Division II powerhouse and cross-town rival Seattle Pacific University twice this season. Seattle also meets with arch nemesis Simon Fraser University twice during the regular season and will likely meet them in the playoffs as well. Last season marked the first time in six years these two teams did not meet in the regional final as Concordia University knocked the Redhawks out in the semifinals. Oh yeah, Seattle faces Concordia twice in consecutive games this season providing what could be a new and exciting rivalry. The remainder of SU's schedule is filled with tough Pacific West Conference games as the Redhawks get a taste of what their new conference has to offer.

Given the onslaught of proven, tough opponents the Redhawks face this fall, improving on last season's losing record will not be easy, but this team is ready for the challenge. Fewing has assembled a group of youthful, but very talented soccer players to carry on the rich tradition of SU soccer. Last season, they squandered all the mistakes and exhausted all the growing pains necessary to become successful collegiate soccer players. With that behind them, the only way is up for the Redhawks. Look for Fewing's athletes to play intelligent, intense and exciting soccer all season long.

Charlie Burke #0

Year: Freshman
Height: 6'
Hometown: Seattle
Previous School: George Fox University
Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 190
High School: Lynnwood
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

Charlie left George Fox University early in the fall of 1998 and enrolled in Seattle University the following semester. After redshirting last season, he still has four years of eligibility left. Charlie is a strong keeper, who will not let opposing players push him around in the box. He has a strong work ethic and constantly improved in practices last season. He will enter this year as a backup keeper behind Jeremiah Doyle, but he could be in position to earn some time in the net as the Redhawks' number two goalie.

Tim Dapar #20

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5' 5"
Hometown: Kent, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 145
High School: Kentridge

Although Tim did not score as a true freshman last season, he was a valuable contributor to the team. He started in four games for the Redhawks last season, and his solid play at outside midfielder was a boost to the SU offense. Despite his small frame, Tim is a fearless player who will challenge anybody for the ball. His great speed and tenacious play make him a great asset, both as a starter and a player Coach Fewing can turn to for an instant spark off the bench.

Jeremiah Doyle #1

Year: Junior
Height: 6' 5"
Hometown: Vancouver, WA
Major: Ecological Studies
Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 190
High School: Evergreen

Although his numbers weren't as impressive as those of his All-American freshman season, Jeremiah had arguably a more impressive season last season as a sophomore seemingly worthy of All-American recognition again. With Seattle playing the nation's best game-in and game-out, Jeremiah was a main reason the Redhawks were close in every game. He has the ability to win games for his team with clutch saves. At 6-5, Jeremiah is a towering keeper with great athleticism and can snatch dangerous crosses away from attacking forwards. He also has a long reach, enabling him to deflect away what would seem to be sure goals. Jeremiah started in all 20 games for the Redhawks last season, logging 1873 minutes. He recorded 139 saves, gave up just 26 goals and finished the year with five shutouts.

Mike Eiseman #6

Year: Senior
Height: 6' 2"
Hometown: Missoula, MT
Previous School: Skagit Valley CC

Position: Defender
Weight: 190
High School: Sentinel
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

A solid 6-2, Mike is an imposing defender in the Redhawk back line. He made an immediate impact last season in his first year at SU. Mike uses his size and strength to wear down opposing forwards as an outside back, and he is a tough defender for players to beat one-on-one. Another hard-working player, Mike refuses to let players beat him, which has drawn the yellow card on him occasionally. His relentless play and ability to make bone-crunching tackles add an intimidating presence to the SU defense. Mike notched his first and only SU goal on October 24 in a 3-1 victory over Colorado Christian University. One of just two seniors, Mike will serve as a captain this season.

Kevin Houck #12

Year: Junior
Height: 5' 8"
Hometown: Missoula, MT
Major: Civil Engineering

Position: Defender
Weight: 165
High School: Big Sky

After stepping into his own as a freshman, Kevin has emerged and staked his claim as a leader for Seattle. His hard work and constant improvement led to a starting role in 1998, a move Coach Fewing did not regret making. He has been a steady contributor to a very stingy and pesky SU defense. Kevin played in all 20 games last season, starting in 19 of them. Kevin is a player that can control the ball out of the back line and help set up the offense through the midfield. His patience and poise helped solidify what was at times an erratic defense last season. Kevin will serve as a team captain this year.

Joe Hubley #4

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5' 8"
Hometown: Helena, MT
Major: Electrical Engineering

Position: Midfielder/Forward
Weight: 165
High School: Helena

Joe was a pleasant surprise to the Redhawks as a red-shirt freshman last season. With depleted roster numbers early in the season, Joe stepped in and filled the difficult task of contributing right away. He netted his first collegiate goal in the first game of the season as Seattle defeated Whitworth College 2-0 September 1. He continued that play with solid contributions in the Seattle University Cup against two of the nation's top 10 teams. Joe finished the year playing in 11 games for SU and tied for fifth on the team in overall scoring.

Matt Hulen #11

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5' 10"
Hometown: Seattle
Previous School: Shoreline CC

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 155
High School: Woodinville
Major: International Business

A transfer from Shoreline Community College, Matt is ready to step foot onto the field for SU after redshirting last season. A three-year letterwinner for Woodinville High School, he helped guide his team to a third place finish in the 1996 high school state tournament. As a senior at Woodinville, Matt was a first team All-KingCo and an All-Eastside selection, and he was named his team's MVP. That same year he helped his club team, the Lake Washington Sounders, to the state semifinals. In his one season at Shoreline CC, Matt started at center midfield and tallied one goal and five assists.

Ryan Renshaw #13

Year: Freshman
Height: 6'
Hometown: Boise, ID
Major: General Science

Position: Defender
Weight: 180
High School: Timberline

A redshirt freshman last season, Ryan will be fighting for playing position on a stacked back line. In his senior campaign at Timberline High School in Boise, Idaho, he was a first team All-Metro selection. He also served as Timberline's captain and was named the team's MVP. A captain for his club team, the Boise Nationals, from 1992-2000, Ryan helped lead them to state title in 1997 and 2000 and second in the state in 1998 and '99. A Seattle University Campion Scholar, Ryan was also awarded the Presidential Award at Timberline his senior year for finishing in the top five percent of his class.

Nick Thurber #19

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6' 1"
Hometown: Burien, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

Position: Defender
Weight: 190
High School: Kennedy

Nick was another one of Coach Fewing's talented freshmen that stepped into a starting position and became a key contributor immediately. At 6-1, with good leaping ability, Nick is tough to beat in the air, and he is equally as tough on the ground. He was Seattle's most consistent defender last season, playing the center back position. Nick is recovering from an off-season foot injury but should be 100 percent by the time fall training begins. The coaching staff is looking forward to another solid year from Nick, as he was one of the main reasons the Redhawks boasted such a solid back line.

Joe Watson #9

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5' 8"
Hometown: Auburn, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

Position: Forward
Weight: 160
High School: Auburn-Riverside

A lethal threat both with and without the ball, Joe led the Redhawks in every offensive category last season as a freshman. In just 16 games played, he recorded nine goals and five assists for a total of 23 points, tied for third in the Pacific West Conference. His amazing play earned him honors on the All-Conference first team and recognition as the PacWest Freshman of the Year. Joe possesses a great touch and can hold the ball very well up front. He has a knack for putting the ball in the net, and combines that with precise passing abilities to set up opportunities for his teammates. He has good speed and great turning abilities, forcing teams to double team him nearly every time he has the ball. One-on-one, there are not many defenders that can shut him down. The Redhawks will again look to Joe to carry the offensive load and dictate the tempo up front by helping Seattle hold possession. In order for the Redhawks to be successful, Joe will have to improve on his already impressive numbers.

Jon Yamauchi #7

Year: Senior
Height: 5' 9"
Hometown: Redmond, WA
Major: International Business

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 160
High School: Lake Washington

One of only two seniors on this year's squad, Jon is the lone player on the team that has been at Seattle U. all four years. The only player left from SU's 1997 NAIA national championship team, Jon has been a solid contributor throughout his career. Although he doesn't put up big numbers, his presence in the midfield is huge. As a central midfielder, Jon plays a vital role in dropping back on defense and setting up the offense. He is a crafty player with good ball control, and he distributes the ball well. He does not get credit for many assists, but often times the play starts through him. The Redhawks like to play a game of possession, and Jon will be a key figure in making sure the team doesn't give the ball away which proved to be costly at times last year for the Redhawks. Jon will serve as a team captain this season.

2000 New Player Profiles
Men's Soccer

Tyler Bernius
Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 11"
Hometown: Missoula, MT
Major: General Science
Position: Forward
Weight: 160
High School: Sentinel

A four-year letterwinner for Sentinel High School in Missoula, Mont., Tyler was an All-Western Conference and All-State selection in his junior and senior seasons. He recorded 10 goals and eight assists to help lead Sentinel to a second place finish in the state tournament last spring. As a junior, he led the state in scoring with 17 goals. Tyler was a captain for the Missoula Strikers the past two seasons and guided them to a state title in 1999 and a third place finish at the regional tournament in 1998. Tyler will redshirt this season.

Ian Chursky #10
Year: Sophomore
Height: 6'
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Previous School: Tacoma CC
Position: Forward
Weight: 160
High School: Decatur
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

A transfer from Tacoma Community College, Ian scored 39 goals in just 16 games last season, breaking the school and NWAACC single season scoring records both of which were held by former SU soccer player Manuel Ruiz. He was named the MVP of the NWAACC South Division and scored a hat trick in the league All-Star game. Ian was also a three-time All-SPSL selection at Decatur High School and was named the league's MVP in 1998. He was also named to the Tacoma News Tribune All-Area Team twice. Ian will be a welcome addition to a Redhawk front line that struggled to put the ball in the net at times last year, and the coaching staff hopes he can make an instant impact on this team.

Redhawks
Men's Soccer
2000 Coaching Staff

Head Coach: Peter Fewing (13th year, 137-91-22)

On an SU campus jammed with ambitious students, progressive Jesuit priests, and fierce intellectuals, men's soccer head coach Peter Fewing is arguably the most passionate and respected of anyone. In 12 seasons at the helm of the SU men's soccer program Fewing has transformed a mediocre program which had never strung together consecutive winning seasons into a world-class soccer institution, his teams always a threat to make a run for the national crown.

Fewing led the men's soccer team to the school's first ever national championship in 1997 in the program's first trip to the national tournament. He followed that up the following season with a return trip to the NAIA tournament where his team advanced to the Final Four. After a disappointing 7-9-4 season in 1999, Fewing has his team primed and ready for another title run. He has placed SU soccer in the national spotlight, not only for its success and intensity on the playing field, but for his players' sportsmanship and academic achievement as well. To his players and colleagues, Fewing is not just a coach, but a role-model, guidance counselor, cheerleader and friend, all rolled into one.

After a successful career at the University of Washington, Fewing took over as SU's head coach in 1988. He played professional soccer with the Seattle Storm from 1985-90. In 1997, on the road to becoming the first SU soccer coach to record 100 wins, Fewing was named the NSCAA and Pacific Northwest Region coach of the year in the NAIA.

Elliot Fauske #8

Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 9"
Hometown: Spokane, WA
Major: Communication Studies
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 150
High School: Mead

Elliot joins the Redhawks from Mead High School in Spokane where he was named the team's MVP after leading them to a fourth place finish at the state tournament. A three-year letterwinner and two-year starter for Mead, Elliot was named to the Greater Spokane League All-Conference team twice. Elliot played club soccer for the Spokane Falcons who captured second in the state and advanced to the quarterfinals of the regional tournament. Elliot also helped the Falcons to the semifinals of the 1998 Surf Cup in the Super U-19 Division. Most recently he was a member of the Spokane Shadow, a semi-pro team, for just over a year.

Danny Ferris #14

Year: Junior
Height: 6' 1"
Hometown: Yakima, WA
Previous School: Skagit Valley CC
Position: Forward
Weight: 175
High School: Eisenhower
Major: History

A native a Yakima, Danny has spent the past two season scoring goals for Skagit Valley Community College. He led the NWAACC North Division with 35 goals last season and finished his career with a total of 49. Danny was an NWAACC All-Star selection and was runner-up to his new SU teammate, Ian Chursky, for the MVP award. At Eisenhower High School, Danny led the Big-Nine League in scoring his senior season on his way to being named to the All-League and All-Regional teams. In his junior season, Danny helped his club team, the Sun City Strikers to the state finals.

Assistant Coach: Jeff Koch (12th year)

An All-Conference and All-Region selection during his career as a goalkeeper at the University of Washington, Koch has been an assistant with Seattle since 1989. Along with Fewing, Koch has overseen the rebirth of Seattle U. soccer during his tenure with the Redhawks. Under his expert tutelage, Seattle U. has routinely fielded some of the area's top goalkeepers including All-Americans Jason Palmer and Andrew Szalay, both of whom participated in the Collegiate Senior Bowl, and current keeper Jeremiah Doyle, an All-American selection as a freshman.

Assistant Coach: Bill Colello (7th year)

A former Seattle University standout, Bill Colello continues to impart his knowledge and experience to the current crop of Seattle U. players in his seventh season as an assistant coach. Colello played at Seattle U. from 1989-92, earning All-American recognition in 1991 and 1992. He was named team captain and team MVP three times, and was honored as the Conference Player of the Year in 1991. His expertise and passion for the game have earned him tremendous respect from his players and fellow coaches.

Craig Johanson #2
Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 11"
Hometown: Seattle
Major: Premajor
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 160
High School: Seattle Prep

A four-year starter for Seattle Prep's varsity team, Craig was a three-time All-Metro first team selection and a three-year captain for the Panthers. He helped Prep to a third place finish at the Washington 3A state tournament his freshman year and a trip to the quarterfinals his junior year. He was named MVP of his Emerald City club team once, and his team represented the United States at the 1997 World Street Soccer Tournament in Germany. A four-year state ODP player, Craig brings a lot of skill and tremendous work ethic to the Redhawks. He is a player that can come in and make a contribution right away, and the SU coaching staff hopes he can continue to flourish into a solid all-around player.

Justin Miller #3
Year: Freshman
Height: 6'
Hometown: Kent, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences
Position: Defender
Weight: 160
High School: Kentlake

A four-year letterwinner for Kentlake High School, Justin was a four-time All-SPSL selection, three of those as a member of the first team. He served as a team captain and was named Kentlake's MVP in his sophomore, junior and senior seasons. Justin led his team in goals and assists his junior year and led them in assists his senior year. Last season, Justin helped his Solaris club team to the Washington state championship and to the quarterfinals at the regional tournament. A solid defender with good speed, Justin is expected to step in and play a lot of minutes right away and could fill the void at sweeper. Justin also lettered two years in football at Kentlake where he was an All-SPSL selection as a kicker and punter in his senior year. His longest punt was 79 yards and longest field goal was 48 yards.

2000 Coaching Staff

Assistant Coach: Frank Bartenetti (5th year)

To the Redhawks, Bartenetti brings an upbeat, positive attitude that has enhanced the personal and team goal-setting process. He is a motivator that every player on the team respects in the highest regards. On paper, what Bartenetti brings is an immeasurable wealth of experience with many winning athletic programs. Bartenetti was a coach on a local national championship American Legion baseball team. He was an assistant coach on the SU baseball team when it was in existence and he coached football at Evergreen High School in Olympia. A former CEO of the Pacific Institute, Bartenetti is also a west coast champion cribbage player.

Assistant Coach: Matt Potter (2nd year)

Another former SU standout, Potter has been a welcome addition to the coaching staff since returning to Seattle two years ago. A pesky, hard-working defender he was an All-Conference honorable mention on two separate occasions for his tireless efforts keeping opposing attackers from scoring. Coach Fewing hopes the tenacity and intensity Potter played with will rub off on his players. After graduating from SU in 1996, Potter received his teaching credentials from Western Washington University where he was an assistant coach for the men's soccer team. He currently teaches at Eastside High School.

Shea Robinson #21

Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 11"
Hometown: Seattle
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences
Position: Midfiedler
Weight: 165
High School: Seattle Prep

A two-sport standout at Seattle Prep, Shea will play both soccer and basketball at Seattle University. A four-year letterwinner in soccer, Shea was a three-time All-Metro first team selection. He finished his career second all-time in scoring behind Peter Hattrup, and was named the team's Most Inspirational Player in his junior and senior seasons. Shea also claimed many honors for Prep's basketball team and led his team to the school's first-ever state basketball championship last year. A captain on Prep's soccer and basketball teams in both his junior and senior seasons, his leadership, team concept and athleticism will be huge assists to a young Redhawk squad.

Brandon Sewell #24

Year: Freshman
Height: 6' 3"
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences
Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 175
High School: Kennedy

After attending junior high school through ninth grade, Brandon moved on to Kennedy High School where he not only became an instant starter, but was a first team All-Seamount selection in all three of his high school seasons. During his three years in the net, Brandon helped lead Kennedy to the Seamount championship every season including a Washington state 3A title this past spring. Along with his third straight selection to the All-Seamount first team last spring, Brandon was named Kennedy's defensive MVP. A member of the Federal Way Solaris, he has competed on the Washington state soccer team the past four seasons. As a freshman, Brandon will begin his SU career as a backup to Jeremiah Doyle, but it might not be long before he challenges for some playing time.

Assistant Coach: Herbie Hoffman (2nd year)

Hoffman joined the men's soccer coaching staff last season, shortly after earning a graduate degree from Seattle University. He will assist in some of the recruiting duties and is skilled in graphic and video production. A native of Maryland, Hoffman was a three-year varsity captain for his Glenelg High School soccer team. He also played collegiate lacrosse while attending Westpoint. Hoffman received his bachelor's degree from Westpoint in Mechanical Engineering in 1987 and received a Masters of Education in Student Development Administration from SU in 1998. He currently is a noise engineer at Boeing.

Jeff Stock, Jr. #16
Year: Freshman
Height: 6' 1"
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Business

Position: Defender
Weight: 175
High School: Bellarmine Prep

A four-year letterwinner for Bellarmine Prep in Tacoma, Jeff helped his team to four straight seasons of undefeated play in the Narrows League. A two-time All-Narrows selection, Jeff was named his team's defensive MVP last season after guiding Bellarmine to the quarterfinals of the state tournament for the third time in four years. He was also a member of FC United, who captured the Washington state title in 1999. A defender with good size, as Jeff transitions into the collegiate game he could become an imposing presence in the Redhawk back line.

Andy Stromberg #22
Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 9"
Hometown: Port Orchard, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Business

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 150
High School: South Kitsap

A member of the 1998 U-18 national championship FC United, Andy was one of SU's top recruits during the offseason. Unfortunately he will not be able to showcase his talents this year after suffering a severely broken leg during his high school season last spring which will force him to redshirt this year. Andy was a first team All-Narrows and team offensive MVP selection in his sophomore and junior seasons at South Kitsap High School. He was also named the Narrows League MVP as a junior. Andy is a feared outside midfielder with blazing speed and tremendous ball control. A healthy return for Andy will be a huge boost for the Redhawks.

Joseph Supang #17
Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 10"
Hometown: Whidbey Island, WA
Major: General Science

Position: Forward
Weight: 175
High School: South Whidbey

A quick and strong forward, Joseph is going to add some needed firepower to the Seattle front line. A four-year starter for South Whidbey High School, Joseph was selected to the All-Conference first team in all four seasons. Last season, as a senior, he was named the WesCo North Conference MVP and made the Snohomish County All-Area team after tallying 26 goals and 20 assists in helping South Whidbey to a second place finish in the Washington state tournament. He was named the Everett Herald Player of the Week in back-to-back weeks for scoring a hat trick in four consecutive games. Joseph was also named South Whidbey's MVP three straight times (1998-2000), after leading the team in scoring in all three of those seasons.

James Vert #5
Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 9"
Hometown: Seattle
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 160
High School: Kennedy

A four-year letterwinner at Kennedy High School, James will bring a lot of talent and intensity to the Redhawks. He is a strong and crafty midfielder who holds the ball well and can distribute it with precision. The past three seasons at Kennedy, James was a first team All-Seamount and All-Area selection, as well as being named his team's MVP. Last spring he was named the South County Journal Athlete of the Week and was nominated for Athlete of the Year as he helped lead Kennedy to the state championship. James served as Kennedy's captain his junior and senior seasons and has been a captain on the state team for the past five years. He was in the national team pool in 1996.

Tony Volpe #15

Year: Freshman
Height: 5' 7"
Hometown: Issaquah, WA
Major: Business

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 145
High School: Bellevue Christian

A three-year letterwinner for Overlake High School, Tony helped his team to a second place finish in the state tournament his sophomore and senior years. He is a smart midfielder with good speed and a player the coaching staff hopes can add some firepower to the Redhawk midfield. Tony's Eastside FC team finished second in the state in 1999 and advanced to the regional semifinals. He was also a member of the state ODP team this past season.

1999 Season in Review
Men's Soccer

The 1999 season did not turn out as head coach Peter Fewing expected as his men's soccer team recorded its first losing season since 1990. Despite playing arguably the toughest schedule in program history and the difficulty of bringing together an extremely young and inexperienced yet talented squad, Coach Fewing expected better results. Although the team missed out on a trip to the NAIA national tournament for the first time in three years, the 1999 campaign was still a good one for Seattle University soccer.

Seniors performed heroically in their final run while freshmen made a smooth transition to the collegiate game, leaders emerged to guide a group that needed direction and players gave their all to the team when it was needed most. When all was said and done, the team had the talent to win, but mental errors and poor control of the ball kept the Redhawks from their winning ways—something the coaching staff hopes to eliminate this season.

Fewing led a melange of veteran players and wide-eyed freshmen into a transition from the NAIA to the NCAA Division II Pacific West Conference. He had lost all but three of the players from his national championship team, namely Kurt Swanson, the most prolific scorer in program history. The bulk of the middle line was also vacated. Former national champions Jeremy Brown, Craig Gauntt, Shane McCorkle, Tate Miller, An Nuon, Jamin Olmstead, Tony Pyle and Stan Thesenvitz all graduated in 1998.

Needless to say, Fewing's squad was hurting on the offensive end. He looked to seniors Gavin Hewitt, Manuel Ruiz and freshman Joe Watson, but together they were unable to consistently put points on the board. Fortunately, the tremendous play of the Seattle back line kept opponents from lighting up the scoreboard as well. Led by senior captain Jason Oliver, and sophomores Kevin Houck and goalkeeper Jeremiah Doyle, the back line allowed just 1.3 goals per game against a multitude of prolific scoring teams. Doyle finished the season with 139 saves (second in the conference), five shutouts (third in the conference) and a 1.25 goals against average.

The Redhawks, ranked 11th in the NAIA, opened the season on Sept. 1 with a 2-0 shutout over a doomed Whitworth team. Joe Hubley scored his first ever collegiate goal and midfielder Jon Yamauchi scored his first on the season.

The following weekend, Seattle hosted the Seattle University Cup at Championship Field. The Redhawks faced two of the nation's finest teams in Birmingham Southern College and eventual national champion Lindsey Wilson College. SU fell to Birmingham Southern 3-2 and to Lindsey Wilson 4-1 and, despite the stiff competition, the two losses brought forth doubts if the Redhawks would once again be a dominant force.

Whatever doubts arose following the SU Cup were quickly erased the following weekend in a tournament at Westmont College. The Redhawks tied a tough Azusa Pacific squad and then defeated host and fifth-ranked Westmont College for the first time ever to win the tournament. And just like that this team seemed like it was ready for whatever challenges the season presented.

Although they moved up in the rankings to ninth, the Redhawks were unable to carry over any momentum from their victory over Westmont. They finished their California road trip without a goal in tying Life University and losing to Fresno Pacific University and Hawaii Pacific University.

Seattle broke the three-game skid upon returning from California with a narrow 2-1 victory over Concordia University in Portland. One week later the Redhawks hosted an important game versus eighth-ranked Simon Fraser University. Both teams' defenses shined, but SFU connected on two of seven shots to blank the Redhawks 2-0. After the SFU game, Seattle's NAIA ranking began to free fall and, by the first week of October, had already dropped to 22nd nationally.

Seattle defeated regional rival Pacific Lutheran University and Brigham Young-Hawaii both 1-0 on a three-day span, giving Doyle his third and fourth shutouts of the season.

The Redhawks lost their third PacWest game of the season on Oct. 10 versus Humboldt State at Championship Field. It was Seattle's third consecutive overtime game but, for the first time, they were not on the winning end. Seattle dominated play and held a 1-0 lead before a second half ejection of defender Mike Eiseman. The ejection proved the difference as Seattle was unable to score in the remainder of the contest, giving the Lumberjacks a 2-1 victory.

One week later , the Redhawks recorded their largest margin of victory for the entire season and gained some confidence, dominating a hapless Evergreen State College team. Ruiz earned a hat-trick and Watson score twice as the Redhawks combined for a 7-0 victory. The staunch Redhawk back line allowed the Geoducks just one shot on goal for the whole contest.

Evergreen was the last sub-par team the Redhawks would face as they finished the regular season and the postseason against tough squads. On Oct. 18, Seattle and Wheaton College played 120 minutes of soccer, regulation and two overtimes, but were unable to decipher a winner as the game ended deadlocked at 1-1. Once Seattle scored, the game began to spin out of control as the Redhawks found themselves in one of the most physical games of the season. By the end of the game a total of 46 fouls, seven yellow cards and a red card had been had been tallied between the two teams. It was déjà vu all over again just four days later as the Redhawks again played two overtimes and could not break a 1-1 tie, this time against seventh-ranked Barry University. For the second straight games Seattle got on the board first and tempers began to flare. A total of 67 fouls were whistled, including four yellow cards.

After chalking up a game in the victory column against Colorado Christian University, the Redhawks nearly upset third-ranked Simon Fraser in an important regional showdown in Burnaby, B.C. SFU dominated play, outshooting the Redhawks 26-6, but Seattle managed to make it interesting. Goals from Hewitt and Watson helped Seattle come back after being down 3-0 early in the second half.

The Redhawks played their final game of the regular season versus Western Washington University on the familiar digs of Championship Field on Halloween. It was a welled played match by both teams offensively and defensively but once again, Seattle was unable to put any points on the board, finding themselves on the wrong end of a shutout for the fourth time.

Seattle traveled to Portland for the NAIA Region I tournament where they were to face Concordia, and hopefully, Simon Fraser. The Redhawks had previously defeated Concordia in their regular season meeting, also in Portland, giving them the mental edge heading in. Perhaps Seattle was looking past the task at hand to their inevitable matchup with Simon Fraser in the regional championship game. But it was not to be. Like clockwork, Seattle went up 1-0 only to let the game slip away in the second half. As stormy skies enveloped the field, the Redhawks lost all intensity, giving up three straight scores, including an own goal off a Concordia corner kick.

For the first time since 1996, Seattle was kept out of the national tournament. Chalk it up to inexperience, a change of conferences, or a difficult schedule, but the Redhawks did not live up to the high expectations that Fewing and his coaching staff had set. The men's soccer dynasty under Fewing did not crumble last season, but it did suffer a setback. But like any proven winner, Fewing and his Redhawk dynasty are sure to bounce back.

2001 Season Outlook
Men's Soccer

After two straight seasons without a trip to the NAIA national tournament, Peter Fewing and his Redhawks have their sights set on a trip to nationals and a chance to bring home their second championship in their final season of NAIA play before becoming a full member of the NCAA next season. Not to be overlooked, Fewing's troops are also out to defend their 2000 Pacific West Conference co-championship after finishing league play with a 6-1 mark last season. Although Seattle has joined a new league, the Great Northwest Athletic Conference, the teams all came from the PacWest and are very familiar with each other.

Taking on this challenge will be one of the most talented teams Fewing has ever assembled. Fewing returns 18 letterwinners from last season, including eight starters. Needless to say, the Redhawks are still a very young team on paper. Seattle has just two seniors on its roster this year, but six of this year's 10 sophomores were starters last season, adding quite a bit of experience to the SU underclassmen.

Anticipating a healthy return from a couple of key players injured last season, the Redhawks are solid at every position. Up front, the coaching staff is anticipating the combination of Ian Chursky and Joe Watson. The 1999 Pacific West Conference Freshman of the Year, Watson led the Redhawks in scoring as a freshman but is also highly touted for his tremendous play-making ability. Chursky led the Redhawks in scoring last season despite playing in just seven games last year after tallying goals at a record pace. The two played in just four games together last season due to injuries, with Watson assisting on three Chursky goals.

The Redhawks lose Danny Ferris, last season's second leading scorer, but also return two young talented players in Shea Robinson and Joseph Supang. A strong and athletic forward, Supang provided a surge to the Redhawk offense early in the season and finished tied for third in goals scored (4). Robinson finished with two goals as a reserve forward and provided the Redhawks with energy and tenacity every time he set foot on the field.

In the midfield, the Redhawks lost two of their more consistent players in Jon Yamauchi and Elliot Fauske but return a crop of energetic and entertaining players to support the attack. Leading the young midfield are sophomores Craig Johanson and James Vert. Johanson played in 18 games and made 15 starts for Seattle last season, finishing with two goals. He is the team's workhorse, doing everything possible to win the ball in the central midfield and moving the Redhawks up the field. Vert was one of just two players and the team's only freshman to start in all 21 games last season. He finished the year third on the team in scoring with 10 points and led his mates with six assists.

Defensively, the Redhawks will be led by co-captain and the only four-year letterwinner on this year's team in Kevin Houck. A first-team all-PacWest selection last year, Houck is a very talented player with a great work ethic and is the leader of this team.

Juniors Matt Hulen (central-mid), and Tim Dapar and Joe Hubley (outside-mids) played instrumental roles as reserves last season. A junior-college transfer, Hulen (15 games played, four starts) tallied three assists and provided the Redhawks with good ball possession. A player with tremendous speed and work ethic, Dapar (15 games played, five starts) was a huge spark off the bench and finished seventh on the team in scoring with three goals and two assists. Hubley (13 games played, three starts) did not chalk up a point but also gave the Redhawks speed and energy on the flanks. Tony Volpe (seven games played) made the most of his minutes and proved to be a reliable player that can distribute the ball well. The Redhawks will also welcome Evan McNeley and Andy Stromberg, both of whom expect to challenge for starting roles immediately. Stromberg joined SU in 2000 but redshirted last year because of an injury sustained that spring. He is an extremely fast player with great ball control who will create numerous scoring opportunities. McNeley is a true freshman who had an outstanding career at Cascade High School in Everett and is a great addition to the Redhawk midfield.

Defensively, the Redhawks will be led by co-captain and the only four-year letterwinner on this year's team in Kevin Houck. A first-team all-PacWest selection last year, Houck is a very talented player with a great work ethic and is the leader of this team. A poised defender with good skill, Houck has also spent some time in the SU midfield. Other returning starters to the SU back line are Patrick England, Justin Miller and Nick Thurber. Another very skilled player in the back, Miller was honored as the PacWest Newcomer of the Year in 2000 and will again start at sweeper. Thurber is returning from a torn ACL sustained in the first game of the 2000 campaign, and his presence on the field will be a big one. He has great speed and tremendous athleticism, and is one of SU's best players at winning balls in the air. England was a walk-on last season but earned a starting position in the second game of the year and held it for the remainder of the season. Jeff Stock (10 games played, two starts) and Ryan Renshaw (four games played) provided SU with solid depth at defense and will be looking to increase their playing time this year. Fewing also added local standout Jacob Besagno during the offseason, another incoming freshman who is expected to challenge for a starting role early in the year.

Following recent tradition, the Redhawks will again boast a solid goalkeeping rotation. Sophomore Brandon Sewell begins his first season as SU's No. 1 keeper after winning the starting job late last season. He is a very intelligent player who reacts quickly and distributes the ball well. The Redhawks also added Skyline High School's Julian Cotrell, one of the top high school goalies in the state last year. He is a big, athletic keeper who is an imposing presence in the net and will stay on Sewell's heels all season.

It seems every year the Seattle schedule keeps growing more challenging, and this season's will prove no different. The Redhawks open with a week-long road trip to California where they will face four NCAA Division II opponents in seven days. After a non-conference match versus an always-tough Western Washington in Bellingham, the Redhawks travel to Oregon to face NCAA Division I power University of Portland on Sep. 14. The Redhawks nearly upset the Pilots last year, but fell 3-2 in overtime. Seattle also travels down to Montlake for a match against the University of Washington on Sep. 20. Throw that in with a home-and-away series with NAIA power Simon Fraser, home matches against NAIA Region I rival Concordia and NCAA Division II opponents San Francisco State and California State-Bakersfield, and a very competitive GNAC schedule, every game will be a battle.

2001 Returning Player Profiles
Men's Soccer

Ian Chursky #10

Year: Junior
Height: 5-10
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Previous School: Tacoma CC
Position: Forward
Weight: 155
High School: Decatur
Major: Computer Science

The SU coaching staff looked for the sophomore goal scoring transfer from Tacoma Community College to step in right away in 2000 and produce for the Redhawks. Ian did just that, as he ignited the Seattle offense with 12 goals in the team's first seven games of the year. Unfortunately, his season came to a screeching halt in the seventh game when he suffered a broken leg against the University of Portland. Despite playing in just seven games, Ian led the Redhawks in goals (12) and total points (25). He was also selected to the all-PacWest first team. Twice, Ian was selected as the PacWest Player of the Week, and he was named the MVP of the Seattle University Cup after his hat trick against British Columbia helped the Redhawks to the title. Ian scored in five of the seven games he played in, including four multiple-goal games. Along with his hat trick, Ian also had a four-goal performance in a 5-3 victory at Fresno Pacific on Sept. 8. As a freshman at Tacoma Community College, he set the NWAACC scoring record with 39 goals in 16 games during the 1999 season, earning recognition as the South Division MVP and the MVP of the NWAACC All-Star match. He was a three-time all-SPSL selection at Decatur High School, earning honors as the league MVP in 1998. Ian is the son of former Seattle Sounder Tony Chursky.

Tim Dapar #20

Year: Junior
Height: 5-5
Hometown: Auburn, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Arts and Sciences
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 145
High School: Kentridge

After being held without a point in his freshman season, Tim chipped in eight points on three goals and two assists in 15 games, including five starts last year. He scored what was voted as the goal of the year by his team at conference foe Western Washington University on Nov. 4 to give the Redhawks a 1-0 victory and a share of the Pacific West Conference championship. A great addition to the SU arsenal since joining the team in 1999, Tim has been a tremendous presence off the bench. He gives the team energy and a huge spark every time he steps onto the field. Tim is one of the team's hardest workers, and he combines that with blazing speed and a fearless demeanor on the field. Tim was a member of FC United, the 1999 U.S. Youth Soccer U-18 national champions

Patrick England #18

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Lakewood, WA
Major: Pre-Med
Position: Defender
Weight: 180
High School: Lakes

Patrick joined the team as a walk-on last season but moved into the staring line-up after just one game. His consistent and solid play landed him the position for the rest of the season. Patrick did not put up any points as a freshman, but he provided the Redhawks with solid play day in and day out in the back line. Patrick is both tough to beat off the dribble, as well as being a solid presence in the air. He was also one of the team's better players last season at bringing the ball out of the back and serving it over the top to the forwards. As he continues to mature, look for Patrick to be a mainstay in a traditionally very tough SU defense.

Kevin Houck #12

Year: Senior
Height: 5-8
Hometown: Missoula, MT
Major: Civil Engineering

Position: Defender
Weight: 165
High School: Big Sky

One of Seattle's most consistent players, Kevin has established himself as the leader of this young Redhawk team both on and off the field. A redshirt in 1997, Kevin immediately stepped into a starting role during his 1998 freshman campaign and has become the backbone of the SU defense. Not only is he a tenacious defender, but he has great poise and control out of the back and can work the ball forward under heavy pressure. Kevin was one of two Redhawks named to the all-PacWest first team last season. After watching his teammates capture the NAIA title in 1997 as a redshirt, Kevin wants to lead this team to a shot at the title in his final season. He will serve his second straight year as a team captain.

Joe Hubley #4

Year: Junior
Height: 5-8
Hometown: Helena, MT
Major: Electrical Engineering

Position: Midfielder/Forward
Weight: 165
High School: Helena

Joe is another Redhawk reserve that has consistently provided the team with speed and energy off the bench at the outside midfield position. He worked his way into the regular playing rotation in the first week of his freshman season in 1999 with two strong performances against NAIA top-10 teams when the SU line-up was depleted due to injuries. Now with two years of experience under his belt, look for Hubley to continue to find ways to contribute for SU and add some punch to the Redhawk attack.

Men's Soccer

2001 Coaching Staff

Head Coach: Peter Fewing (14th year, 147-101-23)

On an SU campus jammed with ambitious students, progressive Jesuit priests, and fierce intellectuals, men's soccer head coach Peter Fewing is arguably the most passionate and respected of anyone. In 13 seasons at the helm of the SU men's soccer program Fewing has transformed a mediocre program that had never strung together consecutive winning seasons into a world-class soccer institution, his teams always a threat to make a run for the national crown.

The winningest soccer coach in school history, Fewing led the men's soccer team to the university's first ever national championship in 1997 in the program's first trip to the national tournament. He followed that up the following season with a return trip to the NAIA tournament where his team advanced to the Final Four. He has placed SU soccer in the national spotlight, not only for its success and intensity on the playing field, but for his players' sportsmanship and academic achievement as well. To his players and colleagues, Fewing is not just a coach, but a role-model, guidance counselor, cheerleader and friend, all rolled into one.

After a successful career at the University of Washington, Fewing took over as SU's head coach in 1988. He played professional soccer with the Seattle Storm from 1985-90. In 1997, on the road to becoming the first SU coach to record 100 wins, Fewing was named the national coach of the year by both the NAIA and NSCAA.

Matt Hulen #11

Year: Junior
Height: 5-10
Hometown: Seattle
Previous School: Shoreline CC
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 155
High School: Woodinville
Major: Marketing

Matt had a successful inaugural campaign for the Redhawks last season, recording three assists in 15 games. He provided Seattle with great ball control and sharp passing in the central midfield. Matt is a player that works hard to get the ball and holds it well, creating chances for his teammates. He also excelled at pushing the ball forward through the center of the field. A transfer from Shoreline Community College, Matt joined the Redhawks two seasons ago, but redshirted the 1999 campaign. He tallied a goal and five assists in one season at Shoreline. Matt was a first team all-KingCo 4A and all-Eastside selection as well as his team's MVP while playing at Woodinville High School.

Craig Johanson #2

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5-11
Hometown: Seattle
Major: Pre-Major, Business
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 160
High School: Seattle Prep

Craig had the daunting task of coming in as a true freshman and doing the dirty work in the central midfield for the Redhawks. However, this young talent handled the pressure well, playing in 18 games, including 15 starts last season. A fundamentally sound player, Craig doesn't post huge numbers or provide a lot of flash, but is often times a catalyst for many of Seattle's attacks. A player with a great work ethic, Craig has trained hard during the offseason and should be able to mix it up with some of the bigger players on the field this season. A three-time all-Metro first team selection for Seattle Prep, Craig helped the Panthers to two trips to the class 3A state quarterfinals. He was also named MVP of his Emerald City club team.

Assistant Coach: Jeff Koch (13th year)

An all-conference and all-region selection during his career as a goalkeeper at the University of Washington, Jeff Koch has been an assistant with Seattle since 1989. Along with Fewing, Koch has overseen the rebirth of Seattle U. soccer during his tenure with the Redhawks. Under his expert tutelage, Seattle U. has routinely fielded some of the area's top goalkeepers including all-Americans Jason Palmer and Andrew Szalay, both of whom participated in the Collegiate Senior Bowl.

Assistant Coach: Bill Colello (8th year)

A former Seattle University standout, Bill Colello continues to impart his knowledge and experience to the current crop of Seattle U. players in his eighth season as an assistant coach. Colello played at Seattle U. from 1989-92, earning all-American recognition in 1991 and 1992. He was a three-time team captain and MVP, and he was honored as the conference Player of the Year in 1991.

Justin Miller #3

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Kent, WA
Major: Computer Science

Position: Defender
Weight: 160
High School: Kentlake

After missing the first six games of the season due to eligibility reasons, Justin stepped in and quickly became one of Seattle's premier players. As sweeper, he served as the vocal leader for the Seattle University defense, and the team's numbers represented just how much of a presence he made. Justin played in six of the team's seven PacWest matches last season, in which the Redhawks allowed a conference best three goals. SU's goals-against averaged dropped from 1.64 to 1.10 with Justin in the line-up. A solid defender with good speed and great skill with the ball, Justin was named to the all-PacWest second team and was honored as the conference Freshman of the Year. He was a four-time all-SPSL selection and three-time team MVP for Kentlake High School.

Ryan Renshaw #13

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Boise, ID
Major: Business

Position: Defender
Weight: 185
High School: Timberline

After redshirting the 1999 season, Ryan made the most of limited action last year in his freshman campaign. He played in just four games as a reserved defender/midfielder, but netted a goal in a 4-0 victory at Evergreen on Oct. 14. Already having come a long way since joining the team two years ago, as Ryan continues to improve, look for him to increase his minutes on the field. He is a strong and quick player that can knock people off the ball and retain possession for his team, and gives the Redhawks a player that can contribute both in the back line and in the midfield. Ryan was an all-league first team selection and team MVP his senior year at Timberline High School in Boise, Idaho.

Redhawks
Men's Soccer
2001 Coaching Staff Cont.

Assistant Coach: Frank Bartenetti (6th year)

Frank Bartenetti adds to the Redhawk coaching staff an upbeat, positive attitude that has enhanced the personal and team goal-setting process. He is a motivator that every player and coach on the team respects in the highest regards. On paper, what Bartenetti brings is an immeasurable wealth of experience with many winning athletic programs. Bartenetti was a coach on a local national championship American Legion baseball team. He was an assistant coach on the SU baseball team when it was in existence and he coached football at Evergreen High School in Olympia. A former CEO of the Pacific Institute, Bartenetti is also a west coast champion cribbage player.

Assistant Coach: Mike Colello (4th year)

A former SU player, Mike Colello is now in his fourth season as an assistant coach with the men's soccer team. He was a four year starter for Seattle University, earning all-Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference honors in his senior season.

Shea Robinson #21

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5-11
Hometown: Seattle
Major: Undecided

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 165
High School: Seattle Prep

A two-sport standout at Seattle University, Shea netted two goals in 12 games as a reserve forward last season for the Redhawks. He recorded his first collegiate goal on Sep. 16 at then-ranked No. 4 Portland in the 72nd minute to tie the game 2-2 and force overtime. Shea also scored in a 6-0 victory at Evergreen on Oct. 16. He is a quick player with a great shot and is always looking for a way to put the ball in the net, providing SU with a solid scoring threat off the bench. Shea was also the starting point guard for the men's basketball team last season. He was a four-year letterwinner and three-time all-Metro first team selection for the Seattle Prep soccer team. Shea finished his high school career second in all-time scoring behind Peter Hattrup.

Brandon Sewell #24

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6-1
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Major: Business

Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 185
High School: Kennedy

After entering last season as SU's reserve goalkeeper, Brandon enters this season as Seattle's No. 1 goalie after winning the starting job late in the 2000 season. He allowed just six goals in 10 appearances, finishing with a 1.01 goals-against-average and a 2-2 record in five starts. He made 35 saves on the season and recorded 2.6 shutouts. Brandon is a smart keeper with quick reflexes and superb hands. The Redhawks hope he can continue what is becoming a tradition of outstanding all-American goalkeepers. Brandon lettered all three years at Kennedy High School and was selected to the all-Seamount first team every year. He helped the Lancers to three straight league championships and the 2000 Washington 3A state title, earning honors as Kennedy's defensive MVP that season.

Assistant Coach: Matt Potter (3rd year)

Another former SU standout, Potter has been a welcome addition to the coaching staff since returning to Seattle three years ago. A pesky, hard-working defender he was an honorable mention all-conference selection on two separate occasions for his tireless efforts keeping opposing attackers from scoring. Coach Fewing hopes the tenacity and intensity Potter played with will rub off on his current players. After receiving his bachelor's degree in history from Seattle University in 1997, Potter earned his master's in education from Western Washington University in 1999 where he was an assistant coach for the men's soccer team. He currently teaches at Eastside High School.

Assistant Coach: Herbie Hoffman (3rd year)

Hoffman joined the men's soccer coaching staff in 1999, shortly after earning a graduate degree from Seattle University. He will assist in some of the recruiting duties and is skilled in graphic and video production. A native of Maryland, Hoffman was a three-year varsity captain for his Glenelg High School soccer team. He also played collegiate lacrosse while attending West Point. Hoffman received his bachelor's degree from West point in mechanical engineering and 1987 and received a Masters of Education in Student Development Administration from SU in 1998. He currently is a noise engineer at Boeing.

Jeff Stock, Jr. #16

Year: Sophomore
Height: 6-1
Hometown: Federal Way, WA
Major: Business

Position: Defender
Weight: 175
High School: Bellarmine Prep

A tenacious, young defender, Jeff provided the Redhawks with some quality minutes off the bench along with two starts last season. He is a hard worker who gives a relentless effort to keep opposing attackers turned away from the net. Jeff also has good footwork and can win a lot of balls out of the air for the Redhawks. A four-year letterwinner for Bellarmine Prep in Tacoma, Jeff was twice selected to the Narrows League all-conference team and was named the Lions' defensive MVP his senior year. Jeff also captured a Washington state championship with FC United in 1999. He is the son of former Sounder standout Jeff Stock, Sr.

Andy Stromberg #8

Year: Freshman
Height: 5-9
Hometown: Port Orchard, WA
Major: Pre-Major, Business

Position: Midfielder
Weight: 150
High School: South Kitsap

Over a year after suffering a severely broken left leg and having redshirted last season, Andy is still trying to recover from his injury sustained his senior year of high school. It would be an enourmous boost to the Redhawk attack if he is 100 percent by the start of the season. Andy is an absolutely explosive player with tremendous speed. He is a player that can dominate a game without scoring just by the opportunities he creates for his teammates, and the Redhawks hope to have him in the line-up this year from day one. Andy was a first team all-Narrows and team offensive MVP selection in his sophomore and junior seasons before missing most of his senior campaign with the leg injury. He also was a member of the 1999 U-18 U.S. Youth Soccer national championship team FC United along with current Seattle teammates Tim Dapar and Joe Watson.

Joseph Supang #17

Year: Sophomore
Height: 5-10
Hometown: Whidbey Island, WA
Major: Business

Position: Forward
Weight: 175
High School: South Whidbey

A powerful forward that blends a good combination of size, speed and strength, Joseph found a spot in the normal playing rotation, playing in 20 games and starting in 17 on the year. He responded by helping ignite the SU offense early in the season. Joseph had an impressive debut, netting two goals in Seattle's first game of the year, a 5-2 victory over Cal Poly Pomona on Aug. 21. Five games later, Joseph scored a goal in a 3-2 victory over Seattle Pacific University that helped the Redhawks share the conference title with their cross-town rival. He finished the year tied for third on the team with four goals. A three-time team MVP, Joseph led South Whidbey in scoring in his final three seasons. As a senior, he was named his league's north division MVP and was selected to the Snohomish County all-Area team after tallying 26 goals and 20 assists. He was named the Everett Herald Player of the Week in back-to-back weeks that year for scoring a hat trick in four consecutive games.

Position: Defender
Weight: 200
High School: Kennedy

After flourishing as a freshman and stepping in as a leader on defense, Nick tore the ACL in his right knee in the first game of the 2000 campaign and missed the rest of the season. He is another player the Redhawks hope to have 100 percent by the start of the season because he is an integral part of the team, and his presence in the back line is important. His strength, athleticism and quickness make him both tough to beat off the dribble and in the air.

Joe Watson #9

Year: Junior
Height: 5-8
Hometown: Auburn, WA
Major: Business

Position: Forward
Weight: 160
High School: Auburn-Riverside

After an outstanding 1999 season in which he led the Redhawks in scoring and was honored as the Pacific West Conference Freshman of the Year, Joe was yet another Redhawk who had to endure through an injury-plagued season. He played in just seven games on the year and started in all of them. He did not find the back of the net, but showcased his play making ability with five assists. Now that he is healthy, Joe is ready to have another superb season in a Seattle uniform. He is one of the Redhawks most talented players and is always a threat to score. One-on-one, he is nearly impossible to shut down. There is no doubt the Redhawks will need a healthy Joe Watson to make a run at the NAIA title. Joe led Auburn-Riverside High School in scoring his final two seasons and was the leading scorer on FC United, the 1999 U-18 U.S. Youth Soccer national champions. He was also twice named the South County Journal all-Area Player of the Year.

High School: Kennedy

A fierce and passionate player, James was one of just two Redhawks and the only freshman to start in all 21 games last season. He is not afraid to go in on any tackle and is a player that gives it his all for the full 90 minutes. His hard work and desire on the field has earned him tremendous respect from his teammates. He led the Redhawks in assists (6) and finished third on the team in total points (10) last season. James scored in his very first collegiate game, helping the Redhawks to a 5-2 victory on Aug. 21 in their season opener. A four-year letterwinner at Kennedy High School, James was a three-time all-Seamount League and all-Area selection. He was named Kennedy's MVP and was nominated for the South County Journal Athlete of the Year in his senior season after leading the Lancers to the Washington Class 3A state championship.

Tony played in 10 games as a reserve midfielder for the Redhawks last season. Although he did not tally a point, Tony provided Seattle with hard work and energy off the bench, often times distributing to his teammates. He is a creative player that can hold the ball well and sees the field well. A three-year letterwinner at Overlake High School, Tony helped his team to a second place finish in the Washington Class 2A state tournament in his sophomore and senior years. He also helped Eastside FC to a second place finish in the state and the semifinal round of the regional tournament in 1999.

2001 New Player Profiles
Men's Soccer

Jacob Besagno #15
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-2
Hometown: Maple Valley, WA
Major: Undecided
Position: Defender
Weight: 175
High School: Kennedy

A four-year letterwinner at Kennedy High School, Jacob adds size to a tough Redhawk defense. He is a strong player with good skill and his defensive ability could land him a spot in the regular playing rotation right away. This past spring, Jacob was named Kennedy's defensive MVP and earned honors on the South County Journal all-Area Team. He was a member of the Lancers' 2000 Washington Class 3A state championship team along with current SU sophomores James Vert and Brandon Sewell. Jacob also captured consecutive state titles with the Federal Way Storm in 1999 and 2000.

Julian Cotrell #0
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Issaquah, WA
Major: Business
Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 205
High School: Skyline

Regarded as one of the top high school keepers in the state, Julian gives the Redhawks a very talented backup goalie capable of being called upon if need be. A four-time all-KingCo 3A selection, Julian was named Skyline's MVP after leading the Spartans to their first ever KingCo 3A title and to the quarterfinals in the state tournament where they lost to eventual champion Monroe High School. A four-year captain at Skyline, Julian also captained his club team Nemesis, helping them to a U-17 state championship in 2000.

Robert Graudins #22
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-1
Hometown: Olympia, WA
Major: Mechanical Engineering
Position: Defender
Weight: 170
High School: North Thurston

A three-year letterwinner, Robert was named an all-league and all-area first team defender after helping North Thurston to the quarterfinals of the class 3A state tournament this past spring. He served as a team captain and was honored as North Thurston's Most Inspirational Player. Robert also captained his Black Hills FC '82 team from 1997-2000 and helped them to a WSYSA Division III title and the Washington State Commissioner's Cup championship in 1999. Robert was also a three-year letterwinner and two-time team captain for North Thurston's basketball team. Along with a plethora of academic honors from his school, Robert was honored with a Washington State Principals' Scholar Award and an Olympian Award of Excellence for outstanding academic excellence.

Weight: 145
High School: Garfield HS

A four-year letterwinner during stints at O'Dea High School and Garfield High School, Quauhtli was a starter in all four seasons and served two years as a team captain. He was a member of the Eastside FC team that advanced to the semifinals of the U-17 state tournament. He was also captained the Highline Heat for four seasons and was awarded the U-15 golden boot award.

Evan McNeley #6
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Everett, WA
Major: Undecided
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 180
High School: Cascade

A very talented player, Evan is another incoming freshman capable of jumping into the regular playing rotation and possibly into a starting position. A skillful midfielder with a cannon for a shot, Evan has received most of his attention for his play making and number of assists. He led Cascade in both goals and assists in his junior and senior seasons. He was also a three-time first team all-KingCo 4A selection and all-area selection with the Bruins. A co-captain on Nemesis along with fellow incoming freshman goalkeeper Julian Cotrell, Evan helped his club team to three consecutive state championships from 1998-2000. He was awarded the Fair Play Award at 1998 state tournament as the individual MVP.

Mikel Samaniego-Schafer #23
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-0
Hometown: Burien, WA
Major: Business
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 170
High School: Highline

A three-year letterwinner at Highline High School in Burien, Mikel was a first team all-Seamount selection after helping the Pirates to the league championship in the spring. A U.S. National Soccer awards winner, Mikel was a member of the Washington State Olympic Development Program from 1998-2000 and played four years at the Premier Division I level with the Sparta Blackhawks and the Highline Heat. A member of the National Honors Society in all four years at Highline, Mikel was honored with the President's Achievement Award.

Anthony Sardon #26
Year: Freshman
Height: 5-8
Hometown: Sacramento, CA
Major: Business
Position: Midfielder
Weight: 165
High School: Jesuit

A three-year letterwinner for Jesuit High School in Carmichael, Calif., Anthony was a three-time all-league selection after helping the Marauders to three straight Metro League championships. During those three seasons, Jesuit posted a combined record of 63-3-4. Anthony also won numerous league titles with his club teams: with the Sacramento United Attack from 1994-98 and with the River City Rush from 1992-93 and 1999. He also helped the Rush to the state title in '99. Anthony was also a member of the northern California State Olympic Development Program from 1997-99.

Ben Shelton #25
Year: Freshman
Height: 6-2
Hometown: Bainbridge Island, WA
Major: International Business
Position: Goalkeeper
Weight: 170
High School: The Northwest School

A four-year starter for The Northwest School's varsity soccer team, Ben will start the season as Seattle's third-string goalie. He helped Northwest to the semifinal round of the class 1A/B state tournament last season. Ben was also a member of the Emerald City FC '82 team and the Storm King. Ben will be challenging for minutes behind two of the area's best keepers but has proven in the preseason that he can step in at anytime for the Redhawks.

2000 Season in Review
Men's Soccer

Having watched a team comprised of 7 or 8 freshmen starters throughout most of the season, one would have expected youth and inexperience to be the biggest hindrance for the 2000 Seattle University men's soccer team. But Peter Fewing's young Redhawks played like a mature group of seasoned upper classmen as they played with and defeated some of the nation's finest programs. It was, rather, a handful of key injuries that proved to be the biggest roadblock as the Redhawks very rarely had all of their talent readily available on game day.

The injury bug bit well before the first day of practice in mid-August. One of SU's top recruits in Andy Stromberg suffered a severely broken leg in his senior year of high school that spring, forcing him to redshirt last year. In the team's first game of the season, starting central defender Nick Thurber went down with a torn ACL. Then, six games later, Ian Chursky—the conference's leading scorer—was lost for the season to a broken leg, similar to the one suffered by Stromberg. Along with that, Joe Watson, the 1999 PacWest Freshman of the Year missed 14 of the team's 21 games with injuries.

However, with great leadership from the coaches and team captains, the Redhawks overcame the most adverse of situations and came home with a share of the conference title in their first year as an official member of the PacWest. On top of that, the team rebounded from its first losing season in nine years to help Fewing avoid his first stretch of back-to-back losing seasons as a collegiate soccer coach. The Redhawks finished with a mark of 10-10-1, playing a difficult schedule of nationally ranked opponents.

After opening the season with a 5-2 victory over Cal Poly-Pomona, the Redhawks tied Victoria 1-1 and defeated British Columbia 4-1 to claim the first place trophy in the Seattle University Cup. Seattle then split two games of a California road trip, falling to NAIA power Westmont College 1-0, but rebounded with a 5-3 victory over Fresno Pacific. Chursky scored four goals in the victory to boost his season total to nine in five games.

The following week, behind two more goals from Chursky, the Redhawks defeated cross town rival Seattle Pacific 3-2, which proved to be instrumental on the road to the conference title. Chursky added another goal three days later against the University of Portland to help him earn his second PacWest Player of the Week award, and the SU record books opened its pages just waiting to greet the most prolific single season scorer in program history. However, the records would have to wait as Chursky suffered his season-ending injury in that contest, leaving him with 12 goals in just seven games played—enough to finish the year as SU's leading scorer.

The Redhawks fell to the nationally ranked Pilots 3-2 in overtime and proceeded to drop their next two matches to fall to 4-4-1 on the season. A pair of conference victories had Seattle back on track, but the Redhawks suffered a 1-0 loss at Humboldt State on Oct. 8 which cost them the PacWest lead. Danny Ferris took over for the wounded Chursky, pounding in five goals in four matches to keep the Redhawk attack stable.

After a 6-0 pounding of Northwest Nazarene, the Redhawks dropped their next three matches to dip below the .500 mark for the first time during the 2000 campaign. However, Seattle bounced back with back-to-back conference victories to close out the regular season, including a 1-0 victory at Western Washington to clinch a share of the conference championship. The Redhawks entered the regional tournament as the No. 3, seed which pitted them against longtime regional nemesis Simon Fraser. The Redhawks were hoping to avenge their two losses to the Clan during the regular season, but again came up short, bringing the 2000 season to a conclusion. This marked the second year in a row Seattle did not advance to the regional final after making it to the championship game the five previous years.

Although making it back to the national tournament was one of the team's goals, winning the PacWest title was a great accomplishment for the young Redhawks, and their accomplishments did not go overlooked. Senior Jon Yamauchi, junior Kevin Houck and sophomore Chursky were honored as first team all-conference selections. Ferris and Justin Miller were named to the second team, and Miller was honored as the conference Freshman of the Year. Houck and Yamauchi were also all-regional selections.

"What a wonderful season," beamed Pete Fewing, Seattle University's men's soccer coach, as he led a celebration for the 2004 National Championship team at its awards banquet in March 2005.

Almost 250 people, including SU President Stephen Sundborg, S.J., and Chancellor William Sullivan, S.J., jammed into Campion Ballroom to honor the team's success, recognize individual achievements and relive a season for the ages.

And what a season it was. Just four years after moving up from the NAIA level, the Redhawks captured the Division II title, the university's first NCAA championship in any sport. The team went 22–0–1, becoming the first undefeated team in school history. Four players — Bobby McAlister, Jeremiah Doyle, Alex Chursky and Santa Maria Rivera — made the Division II All-Far West Region team. The victorious Redhawks also galvanized the university, drawing enthusiastic crowds of almost 500 people at Championship Field, where a $1.8 million campaign to renovate field facilities is under way.

"You're a legacy team," Fewing told his players. "You won a national championship that will always be a part of your fabric and your identity. It's a title you'll be able to use for the rest of your lives."

Fewing, who won the 2004 Division II Coach of the Year Award, introduced each player, presented awards and handed out NCAA rings. Telling stories and cracking jokes, he lauded team members, giving just as much time to less-heralded players and substitutes as he did to his star athletes. "You don't win a Division II National Championship with 11 guys," he said. "You win because you have 30, day in, day out, who are pushing each other and providing support."

The 2004 season started long before the first September game. During the previous year, the Redhawks showed flashes of brilliance, defeating top teams, but lost to several weak squads and missed the playoffs. After the season, players vowed not to let that happen again, pledging themselves to intense off-season workouts. "That kind of commitment is so powerful when it comes from the players, not just from coaches," Fewing said.

Going into the season, Fewing, in his 17th year as the Redhawks coach, was confident he had a strong offensive attack, but was unsure about his defense. Offensively, the team averaged an impressive 2.3 goals per game, but by season's end, the defense had stolen the show. The Redhawks boasted Division II's No. 1 defense, shackling opponents with a goals-against average of just 0.47. During the final 15 games, the stifling Redhawk defense limited opponents to a paltry three goals.

Dominant in many games, the Redhawks also played exciting, crowd-pleasing soccer, demonstrating a knack for thrilling finishes. They won three games in overtime, including a gripping 2–1 duel against New York's Dowling College in the NCAA tournament semifinal. They triumphed in several other games in cardiac-kid fashion — for instance, scoring the game-winner against Incarnate Word of San Antonio in the quarterfinals with three seconds left in regulation. "They had tremendous focus all year," Fewing said, noting that the team withstood the pressure of being ranked No. 1 for the final eight weeks of the season.

The 2004 season included its share of dramatic personal stories as well. In October, the team was building momentum for the playoffs when disaster struck. Star midfielder and captain Nick McCluskey suffered a broken leg during a game against archrival Seattle Pacific University. Hospitalized for two and a half weeks and forced to the sidelines for the remainder of the season, McCluskey refused to feel sorry for himself. Instead, he motivated teammates with one unwavering message: "Go out and win."

McAlister, the team's exceptional forward, had his own personal story of triumph. One of four Redhawks whose fathers played professional soccer for the Seattle Sounders, McAlister transferred from the University of Washington four years ago but was sidelined by injuries. He missed the 2001 season with a groin problem and forfeited the next season when he tore an anterior cruciate ligament in the second game. "I was pretty down," McAlister confessed. "I wondered, 'Is this really worth it? Am I good enough?' I began to think it wasn't meant to be, but I had this desire to show people that I was better than they'd seen."

After following a rigorous seven-month rehabilitation regimen, McAlister enjoyed a solid year in 2003 — seven goals, four assists — but it was just a tease of what was to come. Using his quickness and explosive finishing ability, he roared through the past season, scoring a school- and conference-record 22 goals. Eleven of them were game-winners, including both goals in the Final Four victories. McAlister received a standing ovation at the banquet for a marvelous year that culminated in national acclaim: the 2004 Division II Soccer Player of the Year Award, first-time All-America honors and selection in Sports Illustrated magazine's "Faces in the Crowd" section honoring amateur athletes.

While McAlister was primed for a breakthrough season, Jeremiah Doyle wasn't even supposed to be on the team. The lean, 6-foot-5 goalkeeper from Vancouver, Wash., was a freshman on the Redhawks' 1998 Final Four NAIA tournament team, but quit the squad two years later after coaches benched him for a game. He left school, returned home and was working at his father's auto-detailing shop last summer when he made the decision to call Fewing and clear up the bad feelings surrounding his departure. "I left on a horrible note and didn't want to go through the rest of my life with that hanging over me," Doyle said. "I needed to apologize."

Before Doyle could call Fewing, Fewing called him. Hearing his former coach on the line, Doyle immediately issued an apology, which Fewing promptly accepted.

"Do you know why I'm calling?" Fewing asked.

"No, why?"

"I want you to come back to the team."

"You're crazy," Doyle reacted. "I haven't played soccer in three years. I'm married. I have a house, a job."

"Tough," Fewing joked. "I forgave you. You owe me."

Returning to the team, Doyle quickly established himself as a major talent and recorded a dazzling season. He finished the season ranked first among Division II keepers in goals-against average. He recorded 13 solo shutouts, tied for eighth best in Division II history and put together a remarkable streak in which he did not allow a goal for 912 minutes and 27 seconds. "I would have been happy if I'd sat on the bench all year," Doyle said, "that's how much I wanted closure. But to come back and win a national championship and have the special bond I have with these teammates — that's storybook stuff."

At the banquet, Fewing paid tribute to the Redhawks' team unity. While acknowledging that his squad was loaded with talent, he attributed success to his players' character and team chemistry. "These players gave us a lot of hard work and dedication," he said. In return, Fewing and his assistant coaches offered instruction, support and, in special circumstances, forgiveness.

Next season, the Redhawks return with the core of their championship team intact. Just three starters graduate. The legacy team will try to add another chapter to its legacy.

PORTRAITS OF SUCCESS

Up close and personal with SU men's soccer's coach and top players

Pete Fewing Coach, 17 years

Which championship is sweeter, 1997 or 2004?
Oh, man, that's like trying to pick between children. I like certain things about one, certain things about the other. But if you measured by how teary-eyed I became, this team definitely left me more emotional. I have a special bond with these guys.

Favorite moment of the season:
Probably the winning goal in the tournament quarterfinals [a 1–0 victory over Incarnate Word]. With the score tied, the announcer was counting down the final seconds of regulation, 10. ...9. ...8. ...Everyone assumed we were going into overtime, but we had a throw-in play to Bobby [McAlister]. He took a quick step, beat his guy and crossed the ball in for Alex [Chursky], who headed it into the net to win the game with three seconds left. It was like a Jamie Moyer change up. The ball took a funny hop and spun crazy right around the goalie. I snapped. I've never run out on field before, but I sprinted out there, running and skipping and pumping my fists in the air like an idiot. It was such a miraculous goal, such a Hail Mary thing.

On his life philosophy:
I like to use a saying from St. Francis, which goes something like "Preach the Gospel every day, and if necessary, use words." In my mind, that means you treat people with love and respect. You put it into practice. ...It's something we try to do with our players. Kids don't care how much you know until they know how much you care.

On game strategy:
I like to focus on what we're doing rather than worrying about the opponent. It's the concept of "they have to deal with us" instead of "us dealing with them."

Things he's learned as a coach:
Not to criticize players right after a mistake happens. If you do, you've dumped a lot of negative things into their heads, and they can't get back into the flow right away. Giving them that little vote of confidence may mean the difference later in the game. ...In general, I try not to act out of impulse. I poked a player in the chest once, which I later realized was very wrong. It's such a violation of personal space that a player almost has a right to take a swing at you. Now, when I'm upset with someone, I put my hand on his shoulder. I stay calm. They know I mean business.

On his relationship with Jeremiah Doyle:
I'll be eternally close to that kid. We went through a tough time, mostly just a matter of immaturity, and finished with such a strong bond. I have him training my son now.

Is SU a soccer school now?
Not yet. We've set a nice foundation, but we haven't put the first floor on yet. I respect what the players have done, but we still have more work to do as a program.

When does next season start?
It already has. We've been doing conditioning at 6:45 in the morning, and it's brutal. I've already thrown up a few times. But our players love it. They want to repeat next year as champions, and I think we can do it. If we go in with the idea that it's a wonderful opportunity to do something very special, then we can do it. If we think, "Oh my gosh, we have to defend this title," then we'll feel a lot of pressure, and it'll be more difficult.

Other players who are on the ball...

Alex Chursky
Junior, communications major

Position: Forward

Hometown/Previous School: Federal Way, Wash./Decatur High School

Chursky will be remembered for his soaring header with three seconds remaining in the Redhawks' 1-0 win over Incarnate Word in the NCAA Division II Quarterfinals. During the 2004-2005 season he was the second-leading scorer on the team, with 9 goals and 8 assists. He was picked for the NCAA Division II All-Far West Region first team. Only a junior, he currently holds seventh place in SU men's soccer history for career goals, having scored 27.

Pat Doran
Junior, business major

Position: Forward

Hometown/Previous School: Bellingham, Wash./Sehome High School

In the 2004-2005 season, Doran mainly focused on setting up other players for their scoring attempts. He dominated the midfield for the Redhawks and led the team with 9 assists. For his efforts, he is currently tied for the third most all-time career assists in SU history, having racked up 23. In the NCAA Division II Final Four, Doran reached a new level of brilliance, controlling the game for the Redhawks in the middle of the field and eventually being named to the 2004 NCAA Division II Final Four All-Tournament team.

Jeremiah Doyle
Senior, Goalkeeper

Season Highlights:
Led the nation with a .47 goals against average and recorded 13 shutouts in the 2004–2005 season. Notched his name in the record books by keeping opponents scoreless for 912 minutes, 27 seconds, the fourth-longest consecutive streak in NCAA Division II history. Drafted by the Seattle Sounders in January 2005 — the 17th overall pick.

Key moment of the season:
After a road game in California, we had a bonfire and we were feeling good because we'd just been ranked nationally. I remember Pete pointing to the bonfire and saying it was like our ranking. The ocean was like our next opponent. It would be easy for an opponent to wash in and take it all away. The message was: Keep the focus on the next game. Take it one game at a time.

What do you like the most about being a goalkeeper?
I like knowing so much is riding on every little play that I make. It's almost like playing an individual sport within a team. ...It's exhilarating to be a keeper. You dive as far as you can, thinking you're so high off the ground, then you catch the ball and come down to prevent a score. That's a beautiful feeling.

What makes a good goalkeeper?
Athleticism, confidence. You gotta be confident. It's one of those positions where you're the [scape]goat a lot, so if you let that get you down, you'll never be a good keeper. ...You have to be able to deal with pressure. Bobby [McAlister] can make 100 mistakes, and if he makes one great play to score, he erases all those mistakes. I make 100 mistakes, and it's 100 goals.

Is SU a soccer school now?
Yeah, I think so. We've beaten SPU [Seattle Pacific University] four games in a row. We've beaten Gonzaga, we defeated Portland and next year we'll take it to the next level. We're establishing something here.

"These players gave us a lot of hard work and dedication."
—Pete Fewing, SU Men's Soccer Coach

Bobby McAlister

Junior, Forward

Season Highlights:
Awarded the 2004 NCAA Division II soccer Player of the Year, All-America Honors; Selected for Sports Illustrated's "Faces in the Crowd" section.

Soccer vs. football as a kid:
I've been playing soccer since I was, like, 3 years old. My dad played professionally, then he started coaching me when I was 5 or 6. I played every day in the backyard. I played year-round. It's all I know, all I remember. It's something I was supposed to do, I guess.

Why Seattle University?
I came for soccer, but the school was a big part of it. I wasn't getting good grades at UW and didn't see myself achieving what I wanted to achieve. When I got here, I buckled down. I have a 3.1 [GPA] now. The nice thing here is the classes are small. The teachers know you, so you can't miss class. It was a matter of maturity, just realizing that soccer isn't forever and that school will help me later in life.

When he is at his best on the soccer field:
When I can get the ball on the ground. I can dribble pretty well and control the ball and shoot. It's a good thing if I can get a guy isolated, one on one. Usually, good things happen when I can use my quickness.

Best goal of the year:
Probably my second goal in the Cal State Bakersfield game. I got the ball at the 50-yard line, dribbled down the left-hand side, and a couple of guys tried to slide in and missed. I think I ended up beating three guys, then I shot it with my left foot into the far corner. That was fun.

On playing for Pete Fewing:
Pete never gets down on you for trying to do something creative. He gives you the freedom to go out and make a big play. That's huge. That's a big edge. If you're worried about being taken off field if you screw up, then you're never going to succeed.

How do you improve on your 2004 season?
They say soccer players don't peak until their late 20s. I can become a lot better. I want to improve my fitness and strength. I'm 5-foot-8, 165, so strength isn't a big part of my game, but it always helps. ■ SU

Santa Maria Rivera

Junior, Spanish major

Position: Midfield/Defense

Hometown/Previous School: Yakima, Wash./Wenatchee Valley College

Rivera's switch from midfield to sweeper before the 2004–2005 season enabled him to lead the Redhawks to their finest defensive year in the team's history. He commanded a defense that allowed only 11 goals in 23 matches on the way to the national championship. Rivera was named to the NCAA Division II All-Far West Region first team, picked for the 2004 NCAA Division II Final Four All-Tournament team and earned the title of Most Outstanding Defensive Player in the Final Four.

Cameron Weaver

Senior, business major

Position: Defense/ Forward

Hometown/Previous School: Kent, Wash./Skagit Valley College

A transfer student, Weaver scored 8 goals during his first year with the Redhawks, earning him the title of the 2004–2005 Great Northwest Athletic Conference Newcomer of the Year. His most memorable goal of the season came during the 2004 Caffé D'Arte Cup contest, when he touched home a cross from Pat Doran to score the game-winning goal in overtime against Seattle Pacific University. He was named the Most Valuable Player of the 2004 Caffé D'Arte Cup.

Seattle U. men reach semis

BY JOHN BOYLE
Special to The Seattle Times

After more than 89 minutes of scoreless soccer, everyone was ready for overtime.

From the coaches, to the players, to the 953 fans that lined Seattle University's Championship Field, everyone was ready for a few more minutes of soccer.

Everyone, that is, except Bobby McAlister and Alex Chursky.

As the clock ticked off its final 10 seconds, McAlister took a throw-in on the right sideline, turned to his left and fired a cross into the box that a streaking Chursky headed home with three seconds left, giving the Redhawks a 1-0 win over the University of Incarnate Word in the NCAA Division II quarterfinals.

"That's the only way I was going to be able to score, just get through the box somehow," said Chursky, who did not practice all week after suffering a left-ankle sprain in last week's second-round win over Cal Sate Bakersfield. "It was fantastic work from Bobby. He just put in a fantastic ball right on top of myhead.

"It was a great feeling. That made it all worthwhile to win the game in front of all the alumni, family, friends and classmates."

The top-ranked Redhawks (20-0-1) advance to the semifinals, where they will meet Dowling College on Dec. 3 in Wichita Falls, Texas.

"We were starting to look at what changes we make for the overtime," said Seattle U. coach Peter Fewing. "I feel like Dick Vermeil. I want to cry after some of these games. It's a great win. That's the best team we've faced all year, no question."

Jeremiah Doyle fought off a strong second-half attack by the Cardinals (18-4-1) to pick up his 13th shutout of the season. The senior goalkeeper returned to Seattle University this fall after a disagreement with Fewing led to his quitting three years ago. Never did he imagine his college career would finish this way.

"When Pete (Fewing) first called me, I didn't even know if I was going to play," said Doyle, who entered the game with the nation's best goals-against average (0.45). "I just wanted to be a part of the team. I thought we'd be mediocre at best and that would be that, but I'd have better closure to it. I can't believe this. That just doesn't happen in soccer, those last-second wins. It's just crazy. I'm blessed to be a part of this."

Just as surprised as Doyle were the Incarnate Word players as they walked off the field in stunned silence.

Asked how shocked his team was by the ending, Cardinals forward Lubo Bogdanov indicated the shock hadn't yet set in.

"Not too much, cause we still can't believe it," he said. "We still don't know what happened."

Metro State 1, Seattle U women 0

Seattle University's women's season came down to a penalty kick as Midwest Region champion Metro State edged the Redhawks 1-0 in Denver.

It was the first penalty kick allowed all season by Seattle (16-4-3), but it proved to be the difference in this match.

Metro State senior Adrianne Almaraz scored on the penalty in the 68th minute to allow the Roadrunners (23-1-0) to advance to the NCAA Division II semifinals in Wichita Falls, Texas. Metro State will play Nebraska-Omaha on Dec. 2.

The Redhawks were outshot 23-8, but Metro State had just a 6-4 advantage in shots on goal.

Seattle U. men win in overtime, to play for title

BY TREY REED
Special to the Seattle Times

WICHITA FALLS, Texas — Two days ago, Seattle University coach Peter Fewing wouldn't bite.

He insisted the Redhawks were making the trip to Texas for one game.

Senior goalkeeper Jeremiah Doyle clearly sees it a little differently after watching his teammates deliver another game-ending goal yesterday. This time it was in overtime as the Redhawks netted two goals in less than eight minutes for a 2-1 over Dowling (N.Y) College in the NCAA Division II semifinals.

Doyle believes his team was meant to win.

"After these last two wins, you can't deny that," Doyle said. "We're definitely the team of destiny."

Two weeks ago, Seattle U. earned a berth in the Final Four with a goal in the final seconds to beat Incarnate Word 1-0.

Yesterday, it was Alex Chursky who began the winning play on a throw-in to Bobby McAlister.

McAlister beat Dowling keeper Neal Kitson to the far post, sending the Redhawks into tomorrow's national championship game.

The Redhawks will face Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, a 4-1 winner over North Carolina-Pembroke at 11 a.m.

No. 1-ranked Seattle (21-0-1) will be seeking its first national title since winning the NAIA championship in 1997.

McAlister checked with Chursky on the winning play, then made a break toward the goal.

"It worked perfect and I saw it coming and just tried to stay over the ball and curled it far post," McAlister said. "We actually worked on that play quite a bit and sometimes it gets monotonous when you're working on throw-in plays, but coach said someday it's going to come down and we're going to score on it.

"Who would have known it would have been overtime in the national semifinals, but it's a good thing we practiced it."

Dowling put the Redhawks in an unfamiliar position when Chris Kenney scored just under five minutes into the game. It was the first time Seattle had trailed since falling behind against Cal Poly Pomona in the third game of the season.

"I said a month that I'd like for us to be down a goal one day, because I know we can come back from it," Fewing said. "I felt like being down by one only four minutes into the game gave us a long time to come back."

The Redhawks need every almost every one of those minutes. The Golden Lions limited the Redhawks to just six shots over the first 75 minutes of play.

The Redhawks' persistence finally paid off in the 87th minute when Cameron Weaver's pass through the midfield was misplayed by Kitson, which allowed Adam Jensen to tie the game at 1-1.

"I just knew that that one had to go in the back of the net," Jensen said. "I was not ready for the season to be over. I had to do whatever I could to get that thing in."

Dowling ended the season at 17-2-5.

"I'm very, very proud of our team because we didn't quit," Fewing said.

Southern Illinois Edwardsville 4, North Carolina-Pembroke 1

Southern Illinois Edwardsville advanced to the title game despite being outshot 16-14.

The Cougars (19-2-2) picked up goals from Michael Burgund, Pete Cacciatore, Victor Pacheco, and Mike Banner.

Redhawks take NCAA Division II crown for first time

BY TREY REED
Special to the Times

WICHITA FALLS, Texas — Seattle University forward Adam Jensen has made a habit of being in the right place at the right time in the NCAA Division II soccer playoffs.

For the second straight game, Jensen netted the Redhawks' first goal, then All-American teammate Bobby McAlister struck the game winner to give Seattle U. a 2-1 win over Southern Illinois-Edwardsville to claim its first NCAA Division II soccer championship.

"I just feel like a set-up man for Bobby," Jensen said. "He's been closing them out for us and it feels great."

The Redhawks (22-0-1) claimed the 1997 NAIA championship with a 25-1-1 record.

Seattle U. advanced to yesterday's championship with a pair of game-ending goals in consecutive games.

The Redhawks earned a spot in the Final Four two weeks ago when Alex Chursky scored in the final seconds to beat Incarnate Word, 1-0.

Then they used a pair of goals in the closing minutes of the national semifinal Friday — including McAlister's winner in overtime — to beat Dowling, 2-1.

RALLY FETES SU'S FIRST NCAA WINNERS

McAlister, Rivera take tourney honors

BY JOHN BOYLE
Special to The Seattle Times

If you see a Seattle University men's soccer player walking around in the next week or so, ask him what time it is.

Odds are he'll smile, look at his watch — the one that says "NCAA champion" on it — and answer, "Championship time is ..."

The Redhawks claimed the NCAA Division II championship Sunday with a 2-1 win over Southern Illinois-Edwardsville in Wichita Falls, Texas.

"When you win a national championship, you have that for the rest of your life," said coach Peter Fewing, who also led Seattle U. to an NAIA title in 1997. "This is such a wonderful group of young men. I'm as honored to work with this group as any team I've ever worked with."

Yesterday, the Redhawks celebrated with classmates, family, friends and alumni at a rally in the university's student center.

The Redhawks rode the momentum of two thrilling finishes into the title game. In the quarterfinals, they beat Incarnate Word of San Antonio on an Alex Chursky goal with three seconds left in regulation.

In the semifinals, Seattle trailed Dowling College of Oakdale, N.Y., 1-0 for most of the game before Adam Jensen tied the score in the final minutes of regulation. Bobby McAlister scored the game-winner in overtime, sending the Redhawks to the title game against SIU-Edwardsville.

In the championship game, McAlister provided the game-winner once again, this time in the 69th minute.

The championship win capped a remarkable 22-0-1 season and gave Seattle U. its first NCAA championship in any sport.

The Redhawks won the title behind McAlister, who spent the season breaking scoring records and earning first-team All-American honors.

"It's awesome. I can't describe it," said McAlister, who scored 22 goals this season, including 11 game-winners, and was named the tournament's outstanding offensive player. "I just can't stop smiling. It's one of those games you just dream about since you're a little kid."

They won with Santa Maria Rivera, a converted midfielder, anchoring their defense as a first-year sweeper. Rivera was named the tournament's outstanding defensive player.

"After we beat Dowling, we knew we were going to win, we knew it was destiny," Rivera said. "It couldn't have happened any other way."

They won with senior captain Nick McCluskey relegated to the sideline with a broken leg suffered in an October win over Seattle Pacific.

And they won with a 24-year old goalkeeper who three years ago quit the team after a disagreement with Fewing. Jeremiah Doyle returned to school and the team this year, earned the starting spot he lost as a junior and posted 13 shutouts.

After most had cleared out after yesterday's rally, Doyle posed for a picture with Fewing and the championship trophy. It was a scene neither of them could have imagined in 2001.

"I'm not happy with the way I handled things back then, but in hindsight it worked out pretty well," Doyle said. "I'm a national champion, and I never thought I'd be a national champion in anything."

Then he looked at his watch and smiled.

It was still championship time.

"This is such a culmination of ...what we've done all year long. This is awesome."

SEATTLE U. WINS NCAA II TITLE

McAlister scores winning goal for second straight game as Redhawks end unbeaten

McAlister scored yesterday's game-winning goal in the 70th minute. Jeff Fishbaugher served a cross into a congested box that somehow found its way to McAlister.

"I don't remember how I got the ball," McAlister said. "I just know I kept flicking it over people and dinking it around. It fell to my feet and I tapped it in."

Cougars goalkeeper Nicholas Frasca came out to make a play on the ball, but McAlister looped it over his head and into the net.

"It was a combination of strangeness that created confusion," SIU-Edwardsville coach Ed Huneke said. "They capitalized on uncertainty."

Seattle U. fought through a stiff wind and solid Cougars possession schemes that created numerous scoring opportunities in the first half.

Still, the Redhawks took advantage of a restart in the 43rd minute to take a halftime lead on Jensen's goal.

Santa Maria Rivera lofted a free kick into the box from near midfield that found Cameron Weaver's head. It was then redirected by Jensen into the net for his third goal of the postseason.

"I felt fortunate to go into the second half without giving up a goal," Seattle U. coach Peter Fewing said. "It was a big bonus and it gave us a lift."

SIU-Edwardsville's Victor Pacheco scored the equalizer in the 49th minute on an unassisted goal from the left wing to tie the score at 1.

After McAlister gave Seattle U. the lead, it held on despite a furious Cougars attack in the final minutes.

"This is such a culmination of some of the efforts of what we've done all year long," senior goalkeeper Jeremiah Doyle said. "This is awesome."

McAlister was tabbed the tournament's most outstanding offensive player, and Santa Maria Rivera was named most outstanding defensive player. Doyle and midfielder Pat Doran were also named to the all-tournament team.

Redhawks wrap up undefeated season, top SIU-Edwardsville

BY TREY REED
Special to the P-I

WICHITA FALLS, Texas – Bobby McAlister wasn't quite on top of his game in the national title game yesterday at the Midwestern State Soccer Field.

But for the second consecutive game, Seattle University's All-American forward was good enough at the right time.

His goal in the 70th minute was enough to lift the Redhawks past Southern Illinois-Edwardsville 2-1 and allowed Seattle U. to claim the NCAA Division II soccer championship.

"I don't think I had my greatest game ever," McAlister said. "But I guess as a forward, if you score a goal, it's all you really have to do."

The Redhawks (22-0-1) finished a magical season with the school's second national championship and first since claiming the 1997 NAIA championship.

McAlister scored his second game-winning goal of the weekend. Jeff Fishbaugher served a cross into a congested box that somehow found its way to McAlister.

"I don't remember how I got the ball," McAlister said. "I just know I kept flicking it over people and dink-ing it around. It fell to my feet and I tapped it in."

Cougars goalkeeper Nicholas Frasca came out to make a play on the ball, but McAlister looped it over his head to create the opening to the net.

"It was a combination of strangeness that created confusion," SIU-Edwardsville coach Ed Huneke said. "They capitalized on uncertainty."

SIU-Edwardsville took advantage of having the wind at its back in the first half, but the Cougars were unable to cash in on scoring chances developed in the midfield.

Seattle U. goalkeeper Jeremiah Doyle withstood a series of shots and made a leaping save of John Matthews' rip from the top of the box. Doyle managed to get a hand on the ball, lifting it just high enough to bound off the crossbar.

"After you see a ball go by you after you get a little touch on it, you sweat a little bit," Doyle said. "But I loved the noise that it made (when it hit the post) after it went by me."

The Redhawks fought through a stiff wind and solid possession schemes that created numerous scoring opportunities in a first half that was controlled by the Cougars.

"They had a number of good rips in the first half," Doyle said.

The Redhawks took advantage of a restart in the 43rd minute to forge a halftime lead.

Santa Maria Rivera lofted a free kick into the box that found Cameron Weaver's head and then was redirected by Adam Jensen into the net for his third goal of the postseason.

SIU-Edwardsville's Victor Pacheco netted the equalizer in the 49th minute with an unassisted goal from the left wing to tie the game at 1-1.

The Redhawks withstood a furious attack in the final minutes.

"It's hard to put into words right now," McAlister said. "There have been no egos this year. It's been unbelievable."

NOTE: McAlister was named the tournament's most outstanding offensive player, while Santa Maria Rivera was named most outstanding defensive player. Doyle and midfielder Pat Doran were also named to the all-tournament team.

2004 NCAA DIVISION II CHAMPIONS

2004 CHAMPIONS

One season, 23 matches, zero losses.

One conference title, one regional title, one national title.

One national coach of the year, one national player of the year, four all-region players, eight all-confernce honorees.

Two thrilling finishes, countless jaw-dropping goals, hundreds of minutes of well-played soccer.

Overall, 2004 can be summed up in three words: One amazing season.

Behind 22 goals from Bobby McAlister and a microscopic 0.47 goals against average from Jeremiah Doyle — along with the help of 28 other players and six coaches — Seattle University went from NCAA Division II newcomer to NCAA Division II champion.

Just four seasons after becoming a full NCAA Division II member and seven years after winning the NAIA national title, the Redhawks put together 23 matches with no losses and just one draw on the way to the school's first NCAA title in any sport at any division.

PETER FEWING

HEAD COACH
18TH SEASON • 207-119-26 CAREER RECORD

2004 NCAA DIVISION II COACH OF THE YEAR • 1997 NAIA COACH OF THE YEAR •
THREE-TIME REGIONAL COACH OF THE YEAR • FOUR-TIME CONFERENCE COACH OF THE YEAR

After accomplishing everything that he could at the NAIA level, Seattle University head coach Peter Fewing wasted no time reaching the pinnacle of NCAA Division II soccer. It might have been his 17th season as a head coach, but it was just his fourth at the NCAA Division II level. And in that fourth year at Division II, Fewing led the Redhawks all the way to the national title — with an undefeated record as icing on the cake.

Fewing added to his 1997 NAIA Coach of the Year honors in 2004 when he was named the NCAA Division II Coach of the Year, which went along with Far West Region and Great Northwest Athletic Conference Coach of the Year honors. In all, Fewing has been named conference Coach of the Year four times and regional coach of the year in three seasons.

Fewing took over a program that had suffered through eight consecutive losing seasons and transformed it into a perennial powerhouse at whatever level the Redhawks are competing. In his 17 years, Seattle has suffered just three losing seasons — never in consecutive years. He has also totaled double digits in wins in 10 of the last 11 seasons.

The all-time winningest soccer coach in school history, Fewing led the men's soccer team to the university's first national championship in 1997 in the program's first trip to the national tournament. He followed that up the following season with a return trip to the NAIA tournament where his team advanced to the Final Four, as well as a quarterfinal appearance in 2000.

During the 1997 NAIA championships season, Fewing led the Redhawks to team records of 25 victories and a 27-match unbeaten streak. The latter of those two records is now in jeopardy after Seattle ran off 23 consecutive unbeaten matches in 2004 with a 22-0-1 record and will need just five matches without a loss to eclipse the 1997 record. Most impressively, last year's 22-0-1 is the school's first undefeated season and just the ninth in NCAA Division II history to complete a season as undefeated national champions.

But Fewing can even add more feathers to an already full cap with last season's tremendous run. The Redhawks' 23-match unbeaten streak is the ninth-longest such streak in NCAA Division II history with a chance to continue to move up that list this season. The 22-win season is also third-best in NCAA Division II history, only behind a pair of teams with 23 wins.

Fewing has placed Seattle University soccer in the national spotlight, not only for its success and intensity on the playing field, but for his players' sportsmanship and academic achievement as well. To his players and colleagues, Fewing is not just a coach, but also a role model, guidance counselor, cheerleader and friend all rolled into one. His 1997 NAIA championship team also received the best sportsmanship award, the first time a team has received both honors.

After a successful career at the University of Washington, Fewing took over as Seattle's head coach in 1988. He played professional soccer with the Seattle Storm from 1985-90. Fewing was a standout player for Seattle's Highline High School, leading the Pirates to the state championship in the program's first year of existence. He also founded the Peter Fewing Soccer Camps, which is now in its 24th year and has become one of the most respected soccer camps in the Pacific Northwest.

Fewing lives in Seattle with his wife Patty and their three children Ian, 15, Nathan, 12, and Gabrielle, 10.

JEFF KOCH

ASSISTANT COACH
17TH SEASON • UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON '89

An all-conference and all-region selection during his career as a goalkeeper at the University of Washington, Jeff Koch has been an assistant coach with Seattle since 1989. Along with Fewing, Koch has overseen the rebirth of Redhawk soccer during his 16 years at Seattle. Under his tutelage, the Redhawks have routinely fielded some of the area's top goalkeepers including NAIA All-Americans Jason Palmer and Andrew Szalay, both of whom participated in the collegiate Senior Bowl. Koch also coached NAIA All-American Brandon Sewell (2001) and 2004 NCAA Division II all-Far West Region goalkeeper Jeremiah Doyle.

BILL COLELLO

ASSISTANT COACH
12TH SEASON • SEATTLE UNIVERSITY '93

A former Seattle University standout, Bill Colello continues to impart his knowledge and experience to the current crop of Seattle University players in his 12th season as an assistant coach. Colello played at Seattle from 1989-92, earning All-American recognition in 1991 and 1992. He was a three-time team captain and MVP, and he was honored as the conference Player of the Year in 1991.

FRANK BARTENETTI

ASSISTANT COACH
10TH SEASON

Frank Bartenetti adds an upbeat, positive attitude to the Redhawk coaching staff that has enhanced the personal and team goal-setting process. He is a motivator that every player and coach on the team respects in the highest regards. Bartenetti brings an immeasurable wealth of experience with winning athletic programs. He was a coach on a local national championship American Legion baseball team as well as an assistant coach on the Seattle University baseball team when it was in existence. He also coached football at Evergreen High School in Olympia. A former CEO of the Pacific Institute, Bartenetti is also a west coast champion cribbage player.

MATT POTTER

ASSISTANT COACH
7TH SEASON • SEATTLE UNIVERSITY '96

Another former Seattle University standout, Potter has been a welcome addition to the coaching staff since returning to the Redhawks. A pesky, hard-working defender, he was an honorable mention all-conference selection on two separate occasions for his tireless efforts in keeping opposing attackers from scoring. After receiving his bachelor's degree in history from Seattle in 1997, Potter earned his master's in education from Western Washington in 1999 where he was an assistant for the men's soccer team. He currently teaches at Eastside High School and serves as the varsity boy's soccer head coach. Potter resides in North Bend with his wife Heather, a former standout on the Seattle women's soccer team.

HERBIE HOFFMAN

ASSISTANT COACH
7TH SEASON • WEST POINT '87

Hoffman joined the men's soccer coaching staff in 1999, shortly after earning a graduate degree from Seattle University. He assists with recruiting duties and specializes in graphic and video production. A native of Maryland, Hoffman was a three-year varsity captain for his Glenelg High School soccer team. He also played collegiate lacrosse while attending West Point. Hoffman received his bachelor's degree from West Point in mechanical engineering in 1987 and received a Masters of Education in student development administration from Seattle University in 1998. He currently is a noise engineer at Boeing.

TOM HARDY

ASSISTANT COACH
2ND SEASON • SEATTLE '98

Tom Hardy is not only a former Seattle University player, but also one of the most decorated players in school history. Hardy played for Seattle from 1993-97 and was a senior when the school won the NAIA title. He was named NAIA Player of the Year in 1997, and he was a three-time NAIA All-American. Hardy scored eight goals as a senior in defense. After his time at Seattle, Hardy as drafted by the Kansas City Wizards and New England Revolution on Major League Soccer as well as the Seattle Sounders before playing professionally for the Vancouver 86ers. He was born and raised in Seattle.

Head Coach: Peter Fewing (18th season)
Assistant Coaches: Jeff Koch, Bill Colello, Frank Bartenetti, Matt Potter, Herbie Hoffman, Tom Hardy

SEASONOUTLOOK

Heading into the first season after winning a national championship, many coaches would simply talk about the importance of defending that title. But talk to Seattle University head coach Peter Fewing, and he will give a completely different story.

Despite heading into the 2005 men's soccer season as the defending undefeated national champions with nearly his entire squad back from one year ago, Fewing is keeping things simple — just like he did in 2004.

"Looking back on the season, it was truly a great and wonderful year," Fewing said. "But we're going to continue to take it one game at a time. We're not going to worry about rankings, and we're not going to worry about an opponent that is three games away.

"Being the defending champions, we're fully aware that people will want to play their best against us, just like we would if we were playing against the defending national champions. We understand that we have a bulls-eye on us, but we still have to play one game at a time."

Continuing on with his philosophy for the 2005 season, Fewing made it clear that records, streaks and titles mean little to him and his Redhawks heading into the new campaign.

"We're not even going to talk about the national championship," Fewing said. "We've put last season behind us, but we understand people will be going for us. Our goal is just to be more fit than last year, playing one game at a time, and playing well.

"We're not concerned with the consecutive win deal. If we lose, then we lose. My concern is that we are prepared and outwork our opponent everytime we step on the field."

Entering the 2004 season, the concern was that Fewing might have too much talent and that finding playing time for all his talented individuals would be difficult. A solid team concept and liberal substitutions made that a non-issue.

If it was a potential problem last year, then Fewing will need to continue that same team concept in 2005 as nine starters and 12 letterwinners return from the national championship squad along with a solid group of freshmen and transfers.

"I think we have created a mindset with the team to put the team first," Fewing said. "Last season, the biggest reason we were successful was because the players were selfless. If we maintain that mentality, we'll be OK with our depth."

One thing is for sure for the 2005 Seattle University men's soccer team: The Redhawks will be deeper and more talented than in 2004, and last year's national coach of the year can't be disappointed with that.

FORWARDS

One of the first things that Fewing brings up when discussing his 2005 squad is that he wants to score more goals than in 2004. Supporters of the Redhawks understand the offense could be facing a tall task to accomplish that feat.

The reason? Seattle scored loads of goals in 2004, and to score more would simply make the Redhawks an offensive juggernaut. Seattle scored 54 goals in 23 matches last year for an average of 2.30 per match — a great average by anyone's standards.

But now, Fewing is looking for more.

"I'm hoping to get more goals than last year," Fewing said. "I'm hoping to be more aggressive in our attach to keep the pressure off of our defenders and goalkeeper. We give our forwards freedom; we let 'em go in the final third. We completely trust their instincts and abilities."

The clear frontrunners for the starting duo up top are Bobby McAlister and Alex Chursky. The 31-goal, 13-assist pair from 2004 clearly works well together and has the offensive capability to achieve Fewing's goal for scoring more in 2005.

McAlister pulled in virtually every award he was eligible for from first-team all-GNAC all the up to the NSCAA/adidas Division II Player of the Year. He scored a conference and school record 22 goals including an amazing 11 goals for game-winners. And McAlister is once again healthy and ready to go in 2005.

Chursky scored nine goals with eight assists and tied a GNAC record for most consecutive matches with a goal or an assist with 10 in the middle of the season. He also scored the thrilling NCAA Quarterfinal winner with three seconds left on the clock against Incarnate Word to send the Redhawks to the Final Four.

"I think that Bobby, Alex and Cameron Weaver have the potential to be the top three forwards and the top combinations in the country," Fewing said. "You can't ignore any of them, because any of them can change the game by themselves."

Pat Doran is a midfield leader but could see time at forward as well in 2005

Weaver, along with senior Pat Doran are both proven goal scorers who could see time either in midfield or forward. Weaver was third in scoring last year with eight goals and two assists, while Doran led the team with nine assists in the middle of midfield. Doran played up top in 2002 and led the team with nine goals and seven assists.

But there will be some major competition for those spots. Junior Adam Jensen proved at the end of 2004 that he is a legitimate goal scorer with four goals in the final five matches — including three goals in four playoff games. He ended the season with seven goals, which was the fourth-highest total on the team.

Also watch for pacy newcomer Conor Chinn who could see significant playing time as a freshman.

MIDFIELD

Fewing will have some decisions to make at midfield. He listed 14 players who have potential to start or see significant playing time in one of the four midfield positions, which once again shows the depth of his team, but will also make things difficult to figure out who the best person or combination for each position will be.

Starting with the central midfield positions, Weaver and Doran will be joined by Anthony Sardon, John Fishbaugher, Eric Forner, Jason Cascio and Luis Gamez in the fight for two starting spots. Also in the mix will be 2004 captain Nick McCluskey, who is returning from a broken leg to make the run for a central midfield position even more interesting.

"All of those players can sit in the center of midfield," Fewing said. "We're just going to have to find the best combination."

Fishbaugher started all 23 matches for the Redhawks last year as a freshman and has the versatility to play everywhere from the middle of midfield, to the flanks, and even in defense. Forner and Cascio were also full-time starters in 2004 but played all of their matches in defense.

McCluskey started in the first 17 matches of the season before his broken leg, while Sardon saw playing time in six matches and Gamez redshirted in 2004.

Fishbaugher could also see playing time on the flanks, as could Jensen, Nick Natale, Cameron Mertens, Chris Hodges, Santa Maria Rivera and newcomer Pat Thomas.

Natale started 16 of 21 matches last year and had four assists, while Rivera was named an all-Far West Region defender after spending the entire season at the back. Mertens and Hodges both redshirted in 2004, while Thomas is a highly touted transfer from Incarnate Word.

"Whoever gets the crosses in to our forwards is going to get the playing time," Fewing said. "We might rotate those positions again like last year because it worked well. But we're going to need great service to our forwards."

DEFENSE

The Redhawks return three of four defenders from the 2004 squad, but as already indicated above, there may be a different look to the Seattle defense in 2005.

Jason Cascio played all of 2004 in defense but could move into the midfield this year

It would be difficult to change a defense that shutout 15 of its 23 opponents and allowed just 11 goals in 2004, but better combinations might actually be out there for Fewing.

"We return three of our four defenders and we have four redshirt defenders who are now eligible and healthy," Fewing said. "We want to defend and protect our goalkeeper, but we also want our defense to get involved in the attack. Without a doubt, though, less shots on goal is a very important factor."

Despite allowing just 11 goals, Seattle did allow 286 shots — or 12.4 shots per match. Strong defending made many of those shots from long range, and with a first-team all-Far West Region goalkeeper like Jeremiah Doyle in goal, those high shot totals didn't amount to much for the opposition.

But Fewing made it clear that the high shot totals will simply need to stop in 2005.

"We just gave up too many shots," Fewing said. "Jeremiah was a big factor in that with his range, but we were far too generous with crosses and shots and that forced Jeremiah to be far too active. We relied on Jeremiah to make saves, and we're going to have to do a better job with that this season."

While GNAC Freshman of the Year Forner returns, along with Cascio and Rivera, five other players will be vying from those same defensive spots: Justin Miller, Hans Esterhuizen, Hodges, Craig Buitrago, and Peter Mullenbach.

Miller was a two-time team MVP at sweeper as a sophomore and junior in 2001 and '02, but has been injured for the past two seasons. He finally appears ready and fit heading into the 2005 season. Esterhuizen is a transfer from Division I University of Washington, while Buitrago saw limited action and Mullenbach redshirted last year.

GOALKEEPER

While Doyle was the player who had the goalkeeper position locked up at the beginning of training camp in 2004, this year will be a much different story. There are no favorites heading into the season as far as Seattle's goalkeeping duties are concerned, and any one of three players could walk away with the starting position.

Chris Sorensen is the lone goalkeeper on the roster with any collegiate experience, and that experience is only 23 minutes from the 2004 season. He made one save and didn't allow a goal in that time.

Chris Natale redshirted last year but made big strides in the spring to bolster his chances at starting, while newcomer Nick Gargiulo is a highly touted freshman from California who is a regional Olympic Development Program goalkeeper as well as a California North State Team member.

"This position is completely up for grabs," Fewing said. "Natale was very good in the spring and he's the biggest of the three guys. Gargiulo comes with the strongest pedigree and he's a great communicator. Sorensen is scrappy and mobile and very aggressive. But we're starting the season with all three considered equal."

FINAL WORD

"We return the majority of our team from last year, but I think that some positions are going to change," Fewing said. "We're not going to change our 4-4-2, we're going to want to be more attack-minded at one end, and we're going to have to protect our goalkeeper at the other."

2004 NSCAA ALL-FAR WEST REGION FIRST TEAM • THREE-TIME ALL-GNAC SELECTION
2003 NSCAA ALL-FAR WEST REGION SECOND TEAM

2004: While Alex Chursky will complete an amazing career at Seattle University this season with his name scattered throughout the scoring records, he will clearly be remembered for one of the most amazing goals in Redhawk soccer history...Chursky scored the game-winning goal in the NCAA Division II Quarterfinals last season in dramatic fashion — with just three seconds remaining in regulation...not surprisingly, Chursky was named first-team all-Far West Region as well as being named to the all-GNAC first team for the third consecutive season...he scored nine goals to go along with eight assists on the season...Chursky is now listed on all three career scoring lists at Seattle (goals, assists, points)...he ranks sixth all-time in points (64) and assists (16), and seventh in goals (24)...was also a GNAC Player of the Week.

2003: Chursky scored eight goals with three assists in 2003...named first-team all-Great Northwest Athletic Conference and second-team NSCAA Far West Region...also an Academic all-GNAC selection...scored two goals twice in 2003, including a 96th-minute extra-time game winner in a 3-2 victory over Seattle Pacific (10/11/03).

2002: Chursky showed why he was one of the top recruits on the West Coast with a breakout freshman season...scored seven goals with five assists to be the third highest scorer on the team...named first-team all-GNAC for his efforts...could have scored more if he didn't miss the team's first five matches due to injury.

Decatur HS: Chursky led Decatur to back-to-back undefeated seasons and class 4A state titles, along with a national top-10 ranking...was named South Puget Sound League MVP and named to the South County Journal all-area team both years...current Decatur single-season scoring record holder with 29 goals in 21 matches...also scored 25 goals as a senior...was one of just 32 players and only one in Washington to be named to the NSCAA High School All-American game, although he did not participate.

Personal: Major is communications at Seattle... former member of Canada's under-20 national team, and scored a goal in his only international appearance, a 2-1 victory over the U.S. under-20 national team at the U.S. Soccer Festival on Aug. 2, 2002...brother Ian recently finished his eligibility at Seattle and is No. 5 all-time in Redhawk history with 28 career goals...father Tony is a former Seattle Sounder and Canada national team goalkeeper...parents are Tony and Donna Chursky.

HOMETOWN: BELLINGHAM, WASH. • PREVIOUS SCHOOL: SEHOME HS
YEAR: SENIOR • POSITION: MIDFIELD/FORWARD • HEIGHT: 6-0 • WEIGHT: 168 • MAJOR: ACCOUNTING

2004 NCAA DIVISION II FINAL FOUR ALL-TOURNAMENT TEAM • THREE-TIME ALL-GNAC SELECTION
2003 NSCAA ALL-FAR WEST REGION SECOND TEAM

2004: Pat Doran is just another one of Seattle's key players that helped the Redhawks win their first NCAA title...his skill in the middle of midfield was recognized when he was named to the NCAA Division II Final Four all-tournament team as well as being named to the all-GNAC first team for the third consecutive season...Doran was the top assist man on the team with nine, and assisted both goals in the Redhawks' 2-1 extra time win over Seattle Pacific in the second annual Caffe D'Arte Cup...scored both of his goals — including the game winner — in a 3-1 win over Cal Poly Pomona (09/01/04)...Doran is now ranked in a tie for No. 3 all-time in Seattle University history in career assists with 23, just eight behind the school record...he is also ranked in a tie for 10th in career points with 49...was also named GNAC Player of the Week.

2003: Doran scored two goals with seven assists as a sophomore...named first-team all-Great Northwest Athletic Conference and second-team NSCAA Far West Region...had two assists in a match twice in 2003, including a 96th-minute extra-time game-winning assist in a 3-2 win over cross-town rival Seattle Pacific (10/11/03).

2002: A first-team all-GNAC award winner as a true freshman, Doran scored nine goals with seven assists in his first year out of high school...had two multi-goal matches and netted a team-high four game-winning goals, including the decisive strike in a 2-1 win over Cal Poly Pomona (09/08/02).

Sehome HS: Doran was named the Northwest League MVP and team MVP after leading his team to the Washington class 3A state title as a senior... scored 24 goals as a senior, 16 as a junior and 13 as a sophomore...three-time first-team all-Northwest League selection...led the Whatcom Rangers club team in scoring for five straight years... was a member of the Washington State Olympic Development Program team...also participated in football, and in addition to being an all-league kicker, he also ran an interception back 65 yards for a touchdown.

HOMETOWN: REDMOND, WASH. • PREVIOUS SCHOOL: REDMOND HS
YEAR: SOPHOMORE • POSITION: DEFENSE/MIDFIELD •
HEIGHT: 5-10 • WEIGHT: 178 • MAJOR: BUSINESS/ECON PRE-MAJOR

2004: John Fishbaugher made an immediate impact on the Redhawk soccer program in his first season of collegiate soccer...played in and started all 23 matches as a freshman, including all four postseason matches on the way to the national title...was one of eight players to start 23 matches in the 2004 season...notched his first career assist on the match-tying goal against Cal Poly Pomona (09/01/04)...his first career goal was the game winner in a 3-0 win over Cal State L.A. (10/01/04)... played midfield for most of the season, but showed his versatility when he filled in on the left side of defense for Jacob Besagno on the final match of the regular season against Western Washington...the Redhawks won that match 1-0 to complete their first undefeated regular season in school history... could play anywhere in the midfield or defense in the 2005 season, but his versatility will likely find him a spot on the field.

Redmond HS: Fishbaugher was named the King-Co MVP and was a two-time first-team all-KingCo selection during his time at Redmond HS...was also a two-time pick to the all-Eastside Journal team as well as being named to the first-team all-state team...scored 15 goals and set the school's all-time assist record during his time at Redmond.

ERIC FORNER 19

HOMETOWN: CARMICHAEL, CALIF. • PREVIOUS SCHOOL: JESUIT HS
YEAR: SOPHOMORE • POSITION: DEFENSE •
HEIGHT: 6-1 • WEIGHT: 185 • MAJOR: BUSINESS & ECONOMICS PRE-MAJOR

2004 GNAC FRESHMAN OF THE YEAR

2004: Eric Forner made quite an impression on the GNAC opposition in his first season competing at the collegiate level...with his defensive prowess shutting down the opposition, Forner was named the GNAC Freshman of the Year... the honor was well deserved with Forner joining with the rest of a young defense to allow more than one goal in just two matches in all of 2004...that defense also had NCAA Division II national bests in shutouts (15) and goals against average (0.47), as well as earning nine consecutive shutouts at one point of the season...that defense also allowed just one goal in a stretch of 12 matches in 2004 as well...came in and immediately made an impact, playing in all 23 matches for the Redhawks as a freshman, and also started all 23...was part of a defense that allowed just 11 goals in 23 matches.

Jesuit HS: Forner came to Seattle by way of California powerhouse Jesuit HS in Carmichael, near Sacramento...during his three seasons at the varsity level, Jesuit won three Delta League and three CIF Sac-Joaquin Section titles...named Delta League MVP and Defensive Player of the Year as a senior...also competed on Jesuit's rugby team.

Personal: Forner is a business and economics pre-major at Seattle...also competes on the U.S. Rugby national under-19 team...has seven caps for the national side with his international debut coming on July 21, 2004 in a 54-0 rout over Guyana... has scored two tries for the national side, including one in his most recent international appearance on April 17, 2005 against Korea...the U.S. under-19 team is 4-1-2 in matches that Forner has played... parents are Peter and Fe Forner.

BOBBY McALISTER 9

HOMETOWN: FEDERAL WAY, WASH. • PREVIOUS SCHOOL: UNIVERSITY OF WASHINGTON
YEAR: SENIOR • POSITION: FORWARD • HEIGHT: 5-9 • WEIGHT: 170 • MAJOR: PUBLIC RELATIONS

2004 NSCAA/ADIDAS DIVISION II NATIONAL PLAYER OF THE YEAR • 2004 FIRST-TEAM ALL-AMERICAN • 2004 NCAA DIVISION II FINAL FOUR OUTSTANDING OFFENSIVE PLAYER • 2004 FIRST-TEAM ALL-FAR WEST REGION • 2004 FIRST TEAM ALL-GREAT NORTHWEST ATHLETIC CONFERENCE

2004: Bobby McAlister put together an amazing junior season to clearly designate himself as the offensive leader of the Redhawks' 2004 national title run... was named first-team all-GNAC, first-team all-Far West Region, first-team All-American and the NSCAA National Player of the Year after scoring a school and GNAC-record 22 goals on the season...also broke a school and GNAC record for single-season game-winning goals with 11...was also named the GNAC co-Athlete of the Year for all sports, and was named the NCAA Division II Final Four Offensive Player of the Tournament after scoring game-winning goals in both the national semifinal and final...had a pair of hat tricks on the year (vs. Cal State Dominguez Hills (08/26/04) and Montana State-Billings (09/25/04))...currently ranks No. 3 at Seattle University in career goals with 34 and No. 4 in career points with 77...was also a two-time GNAC Player of the Week selection.

2003: McAlister made quite a splash in his first season competing for the Redhawks...he scored seven goals with four assists while starting all 17 matches...had two multi-goal matches, including a 6-0 win over Cal State San Bernardino (10/18/03) in which he scored the game winner...had two assists in the Redhawks' 4-0 win over Humboldt State (10/26/03)...was third on the team in scoring and took more shots (60) than anyone else on the squad...was a second-team all-Great Northwest Athletic Conference selection.

2002: McAlister opened the 2002 season on fire, scoring all of the team's goals in the first three matches of the season for a total of five in that span...a torn ACL in that third match ended his season and forced a medical redshirt...all five goals still count in his career stats.

University of Washington: McAlister originally played collegiately with Washington and made four appearances with two starts in 2001 before a groin injury put him on the shelf for the remainder of the year...also made five appearances for the Huskies as a freshman.

Kennedy Prep: A four-year letterwinner at Kennedy Prep, McAlister led the Lancers to class 3A state titles in his freshman and senior seasons...recorded a hat trick in both the semifinals and championship match of the state tournament as a senior...earned first-team all-South Puget Sound League and team Offensive MVP honors in both his sophomore and senior seasons and was named the South County Journal all-area player of the year...tallied 38 goals and 22 assists his senior season after a 22-goal, 15-assist sophomore campaign...missed his entire junior year with a knee injury...in 1997, he helped his club team Solaris become the first American team to win the prestigious Newcastle (England) Invitational Youth Tournament...was a member of the state and regional Olympic Development Program teams and was named MVP of the 1994 state tournament with Solaris.

Personal: Major is public relations at Seattle...father James used to play for the Seattle Sounders... parents are James and Hope McAlister.

NICK McCLUSKEY 4

HOMETOWN: FEDERAL WAY, WASH. • PREVIOUS SCHOOL: DECATUR HS
YEAR: SENIOR • POSITION: MIDFIELD • HEIGHT: 5-10 • WEIGHT: 175 • MAJOR: BUSINESS

2003 SECOND TEAM ALL-GNAC • 2004 HONORABLE MENTION ALL-GNAC

2004: Constantly referred to as the heart and soul of the team, Nick McCluskey returns to the lineup for his senior season...played in and started 17 matches as a junior before a broken leg ended his season in the Redhawks' 2-1 extra time win over Seattle Pacific (10/30/04)...scored three goals in 2004, including the game winner in the early season in a 3-2 win over San Francisco State (09/06/04)...despite missing the final six matches of the season, McCluskey was still awarded honorable mention all-GNAC honors...despite scoring just three goals, scoring goals is not McCluskey's No. 1 priority...he is a team leader on and off the field and makes his presence known with a lead-by-example work rate during play.

2003: Moving back to the midfield after spending much of his freshman season up top, McCluskey was still able to find a way of scoring...scored three goals with one assist in 2003...earned second-team all-Great Northwest Athletic Conference honors...his goals came at the most opportune times, with two of his three goals counting as gamewinners...he netted back-to-back gamewinners near the end of the season in a 2-0 win over Western Washington (10/25/03) and a 4-0 win over Humboldt State (10/26/03).

2002: McCluskey moved up top as a freshman as injuries hampered the attack and he responded with four goals and five assists...his 13 points were fourth best on the team that year...scored his first career goal in an 8-1 win over Humboldt State (09/22/02)...also netted his first career multi-goal game with two goals in a 10-0 win over Northwest Nazarene (10/27/02).

Decatur HS: A four-year letterwinner for Decatur, McCluskey helped the Gators to back-to-back undefeated seasons and a pair of Washington class 4A state titles...a two-time team captain, he was named first-team all-South Puget Sound League both years...a South Valley Journal all-area selection...won five state titles with his club team and was a member of the Washington Olympic Development Program state team...also played football and wrestling at Decatur...shared the school's Male Athlete of the Year award with current Redhawk Jason Bressler and was a finalist for The Seattle Times Male Athlete of the Year.

Personal: Major is business at Seattle...parents are Mike and Deena McCluskey.

FR. STEPHEN SUNDBORG, S.J.

PRESIDENT
SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Fr. Stephen V. Sundborg, of the Society of Jesus, became president of Seattle University in July 1997. He leads a comprehensive, independent university of 6,800 undergraduate and graduate students and 1,000 faculty and staff members.

Since becoming president, Fr. Sundborg's key objectives have been to enhance academic excellence, and to develop resources to support a growing student population. During Father Sundborg's tenure, Seattle University has built a 64,000 square foot Student Center, a new law school, residential housing, the School of Theology and Ministry, and is currently constructing a Center for the Performing Arts.

President Sundborg is strongly committed to promoting social justice, a core value of the Jesuit Catholic education. He actively supports programs that encourage students, faculty, and staff to make a difference, whether in the local community or in developing countries. Such a commitment led to Seattle University's decision to host a homeless encampment during February 2005—an unprecedented move by a university. During his presidency, Fr. Sundborg has bestowed honorary degrees on such social justice luminaries as Nelson Mandela, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, Corazon Aquino, and Walter Cardinal Kasper.

In addition to his responsibilities as president of Seattle University (the third largest non-profit organization in Washington state), Fr. Sundborg is chair of United Way of King County Board of Directors, a trustee of the Fred Hutchinson Cancer Care Center; and a board member of the YMCA of Greater Seattle and the Seattle Organizing Committee of the Pacific Rim Sports Summit.

A native of Alaska, President Sundborg was ordained in Seattle in 1974, and completed his doctoral studies in spirituality at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome in 1982. He taught theology at Seattle University from 1982-1990, was appointed rector of the Seattle University Jesuit community in 1986, and served as provincial of the Northwest Jesuits from 1990-96. He is the 21st president to lead Seattle University since its founding in 1891.

WENDY GUTHRIE

DIRECTOR OF ATHLETICS
SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Hired in the summer of 2004, Wendy Guthrie was picked as the new leader of the Department of Athletics at Seattle University. Guthrie assumed her new position on June 30, 2004.

Since Guthrie's arrival at Seattle University, she has been a major in player in the swift turnaround of the Redhawk athletic department. Her achievements after just one year include the approval of a $37.5 million renovation of the Connolly Center, pushing forward the $1.8 million renovation of Championship Field, and the approval of the Redhawks' new Web site, as well as implementing new policies and procedures on a regular basis.

Guthrie came to Seattle after spending the past eight years at the University of San Diego where she served as the Associate Director of Athletics and Senior Woman Administrator from 1996-2002. From January 2003 until she left San Diego, Guthrie took the lead role in developing a new residential learning program at the university.

As one of the leading architects in establishing the Pacific Coast Softball Conference, Guthrie has served as commissioner since its inception in 2002. She also served as a faculty member in the Sports Management Graduate Program at the University of San Francisco. While serving as associate athletic director at the University of San Diego, Guthrie was a member of the senior management team and served as the tournament director for the 201 and 2002 West Coast Conference Men's and Women's Basketball Championships. She also co-coordinated the first "Salute to Women's Athletics" fundraiser at the university.

Earlier in her career, Guthrie worked for SportsMark, a corporate hospitality management group at the Summer Olympics in Atlanta, Ga. in 1996. She also held a position as Director of Awards Ceremonies and Special Events Manager for the Torch Run at the 1995 U.S. Olympic Festival in Denver, Colo. While working at the Colorado Sports Council, she served as a sports liaison in canoe/kayak for the USOF-'94.

Guthrie was also the Assistant Athletic Director and Senior Woman Administrator at Saint Francis College in Loretto, Pa., during the 1995-96 academic year, and served an athletic administration fellowship at Springfield (Mass.) College from 1993-94. Guthrie was also the Assistant Director of Admission at Whittier (Calif.) College from 1991-93.

A product of Salem, Ore., Guthrie graduated from South Salem High School in 1987 and received her bachelor's degree in business administration from Whittier College in 1991. She earned her master's degree in athletic administration from Springfield College in 1995. Guthrie was a three-time team MVP on the Whittier cross country team from 1988-90. She was also an all-conference selection in each of those three seasons and earned all-conference track and field honors in 1990.

2004 NCAA DIVISION II NATIONAL CHAMPIONS

CHAMPIONSHIP FIELD

Formerly named the Seattle University East Sports Field, Championship Field was renamed for the 1998 season after the men's soccer team won the 1997 NAIA national title. But whether competing at the NAIA or NCAA Division II level, Championship Field has developed into one of the best home field advantages on the West Coast. Since beginning play at Championship Field, Seattle holds a 78-22-7 record in 11 years for an amazing .762 winning percentage. That number becomes more impressive when considering that Seattle has never had a losing season record at Championship Field and the Redhawks' record at home over the past four years is 29-4-0 (.879).

While wins have come with regularity, there are several highlights that have stood out over the past decade. In 1996, Seattle opened the season with a 1-0 win over crosstown NCAA Division I University of Washington, while in 2002, the Redhawks posted 10 goals in a 10-0 drubbing of Northwest Nazarene. But few could argue with the last two wins of 2004 as some of the most thrilling soccer ever at Championship Field. First was a 3-0 win over Cal State Bakersfield to win the school's first NCAA Division II Far West Region title. Then came the thrilling 1-0 win over Incarnate Word in the NCAA Division II Quarterfinals to send Seattle to its first Division II Final Four. The one goal came with three seconds remaining in the match when Bobby McAlister sent a cross into Alex Chursky for a spectacular header that snuck inside the far post for the win.

Seattle 3, CS Dominguez Hills 2 (OT)
August 26, 2004

What turned out to be an undefeated season started with a scare at Championship Field. Perennial Far West Region contenders Cal State Dominguez Hills came to Seattle and pushed the Redhawks to overtime before Bobby McAlister completed a hat trick and pulled out the win with an unassisted goal just more than halfway through the first period of extra time.

Seattle 3, Cal Poly Pomona 1
September 1, 2004

What appears on paper to be a trivial 3-1 win over Cal Poly Pomona actually turned out to be quite important by the end of the season. Kory Felix's second-minute goal marked the only time during the regular season that Seattle trailed in a match. That lasted less than 18 minutes as Pat Doran scored the equalizer and the game-winner, followed by an insurance goal from Alex Chursky.

September 10, 2004

The defending national champions were ranked No. 2 in the nation and undefeated when they came into Seattle and gave the Redhawks a scare on Championship Field. Seattle appeared to be in good shape with a goal apiece from Jacob Besagno and Cameron Weaver in the first half, but Chico State wouldn't go away, pulling to within one goal at 2-1 and 3-2 before running out of time. September 19, 2004

Despite a sluggish performance in California's hot Inland Empire, Seattle stayed unbeaten with a 3-0 win that was closer than the final score indicated. Bobby McAlister notched his five game-winning goal and scored his 10th and 11th goals of the season. Alex Chursky finished off the scoring, while Jeremiah Doyle picked up his fourth shutout in the first of what would eventually be nine consecutive clean sheets.

Seattle used an early lead to rest some players as they prepared to head to California later that evening for a pair of tough matches. The Redhawks had a flight scheduled just hours after the match, so Bobby McAlister's two first-half goals allowed head coach Peter Fewing to rest his team in preparation for the flight and a match the next day at Cal State L.A. McAlister's 15th and 16th goals also broke the GNAC record for goals in a season. Jeremiah Doyle needed just one save for the clean sheet.

SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891 as a Jesuit Catholic men's college, Seattle University has grown in size and stature to become the largest and most diverse independent university in the Pacific Northwest, with a student population of more than 6,800.

Seattle University's 48-acre campus houses eight schools: Arts and Sciences, Science and Engineering, Nursing, Education, Theology and Ministry, Law, Business and Economics, and the Matteo Ricci College. The 2004 U.S. News and World Report ranks Seattle University among the top 10 schools in the west that offer a full range of masters and undergraduate programs, and Seattle University is among the Princeton Review's list of the top colleges in the United States.

In its 113-year history, Seattle University has been consistent in its commitment to academic excellence. Teaching, strengthened by active scholarship, is the faculty priority. Small class sizes, and the personal attention given by Seattle University professors and administrators, help students meet the rigorous demands of the curriculum.

One of 28 Jesuit Catholic universities in the U.S., Seattle University draws upon the Jesuit educational philosophy to develop critical thinkers and compassionate leaders able to promote a more just and humane world.

Seattle University's location in the heart of a great city and dynamic region provides learning, service, cultural and career opportunities for students. With the university's emphasis on experiential learning, students enhance their classroom experience by working on projects with local companies, interning in local schools or hospitals, participating in study-abroad programs, and other learning opportunities.

The true measure of the university's excellence is the success of its graduates. Seattle University's 43,000 alumni include distinguished individuals in business, public affairs, education, the performing arts, athletics, science and technology, and other fields.

ABOUT THE GNAC

The Great Northwest Athletic Conference, which is comprised of 10 NCAA Division II schools, begins its fifth season of athletic competition this fall. The 10 schools are located in five different states, including five in the state of Washington: Central Washington University, Saint Martin's University, Seattle University, Seattle Pacific University, and Western Washington University.

The GNAC, which was officially founded on July 1, 2001, also includes the University of Alaska Anchorage, the University of Alaska Fairbanks, Northwest Nazarene University (Idaho), Western Oregon University, and Humboldt State University (Calif.).

Prior to the formation of the GNAC, all 10 schools were members of the PacWest Conference.

Three of the schools in the conference — Alaska Anchorage, Alaska Fairbanks and Seattle Pacific — were charter members of the PacWest, which was created in May, 1992 with the merger of the Great Northwest Conference and the Continental Divide Conference.

Fine GNAC members — Central Washington, Humboldt State, Saint Martin's, Western Oregon and Western Washington — joined the PacWest prior to the 1998-99 season. Central Washington, Saint Martin's and Western Washington were previously members of the Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference, which Western Oregon was a member of the Cascade Conference. Humboldt State was a member of the Northwest California Athletic Conference.

Seattle University and Northwest Nazarene, from the Northwest and Cascade conferences, joined the PacWest prior to the 1999-2000 season.

Richard Hannan, who served terms as the Athletic Director at Southwest Texas State University, Weber State University and at Lewis-Clark State College, serves as the Commissioner for the Great Northwest Athletic Conference. He also previously coached basketball at Lewis-Clark State College.

The GNAC sponsors championships in seven men's and seven women's sports, including football, volleyball, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's basketball, baseball, softball, men's and women's indoor track and field and men's and women's outdoor track and field.

NCAA Division II

BRING YOUR "A" GAME

Pick a number of college sports fans and ask them what it means to be an NCAA Division I, II or III member. Most of them probably will say that Division I is "big," Division II is "midsize" and Division III is "small." There is some truth in the observations, but the distinctions among the three divisions have much more to do with philosophy than with size.

Here are features that make Division II athletics unique:

Division II student-athletes generally come from the area in which their institution is located. They are effectively integrated with the overall student body. Many Division II coaches and administrators perform other jobs or functions at their institutions, including teaching. Most Division II student-athletes pay for school through a combination of scholarship money, grants, student loans and employment earnings. Teams are encouraged to play other teams from their region, thus reducing expense and missed class time. The division's philosophy emphasizes participation, and its financial aid requirement helps ensure quality competition.

Division II brings its "A" game in the way it balances academics and athletics.

Division II provides an excellent environment for student-athletes. It maintains a highly inclusive structure for student-athletes in NCAA governance matters: The annual summit between the Division II Student-Athlete Advisory Committee and the Division II Management Council serves as a model for athlete-administrator communication. Division II also benefits student-athletes by having the most opportunities per capita to compete in national championships.

The number of national championships in Division II is about the same as Divisions I and III. For 2005-06, Division II national championship competition will be offered in the following sports:

Men	Women
Baseball	Basketball
Basketball	Cross country
Cross country	Field hockey
Football	Golf
Golf	Lacrosse
Lacrosse	Rowing
Soccer	Soccer
Swimming and diving	Softball
Tennis	Swimming and diving
Indoor track	Tennis
Outdoor track	Indoor track
Wrestling	Outdoor track
	Volleyball

In addition, Division II institutions and student-athletes will be eligible to compete in National Collegiate (all division) Championships in women's bowling, men's gymnastics, women's gymnastics, men's volleyball, men's water polo and women's water polo. Coed national championships also are conducted in all divisions in fencing, rifle and skiing.

Academics

Division II has adopted legislation and created programs to better ensure that student-athletes acquire quality educations and graduate.

In January 2004, the Division II membership approved two legislative changes that increased academic requirements for enrolled student-athletes.

The first change mandated that Division II student-athletes be required to attain a 1.800 grade-point average after earning 24 credit hours, a 1.900 GPA after earning 48 hours and a 2.000 GPA after earning 72 hours and thereafter.

The second change required that student-athletes must have earned at least six credit hours from the previous term. The new rule helps ensure that transfer student-athletes were legitimate students during the previous term and that enrolled student-athletes are progressing toward a degree semester-by-semester.

Division II also has initiated a new measure of academic performance through creation of the Academic Success Rate. The new measure will provide graduation-rate data on all Division II student-athletes, including transfers and those not receiving athletically related financial aid. Two pilot studies using the new measure produced a graduation rate about 10 percent higher than what was measured through federal government methodology.

Division II also has established a Degree-Completion Grant Program to assist student-athletes who are just short of completing their degree but whose athletics eligibility has expired.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIELD

In late 2005, Seattle University began the renovation of Championship Field, the school's home for men's and women's soccer since 1994. It was originally the Seattle University East Sports Field, but was renamed Championship Field in 1998 after the men's soccer team won the 1997 NAIA National Championship. In 2004, the two teams combined for a 20-0-2 record at Championship Field as the women's team won the Far West Region while the men's team won the Division II National Championship.

The university raised 1.5 million dollars for the refurbishment of Championship Field. The major portion of the renovation was the establishment of the permanent grandstand. Instead of 150 temporary seats, the field will encompass 650 permanent seats that will be at least partially covered. The changes also include a new scoreboard, press box, and sound system.

"I am extremely excited about the renovation of Championship Field. To have at our disposal a facility that matches the tradition of the Seattle University soccer programs is a dream come true. This will be one of the major selling points to attract top-notch talent to Seattle University, and it will hopefully lead to great success on a regional and national level," head women's soccer coach Julie Woodward said.

"I think it's going to be one of the most special collegiate venues on the West Coast," men's soccer head coach Brad Agoos said. "Having a small, intimate atmosphere will make Championship Field an ideal place to come watch a game."

The natural Bermuda grass field was used at Qwest Field for the exhibition match between Real Madrid and D.C. United on August 9, 2006, and shipped to Championship Field within the next couple of days. Thanks to this donation by the Seattle Seahawks, all future student-athletes who play on Championship Field can say with certainty that they played on the same field as David Beckham and Freddy Adu.

"This contribution by the Seattle Seahawks and Qwest Field furthers our goal of making Championship Field one of the prominent intercollegiate soccer facilities on the West Coast," said Associate Athletic Director Eric Guerra.

The new Championship Field saw its first competition on Thursday, August 24, 2006, as the women's soccer team hosted Cal State Monterey Bay. Maryann Boddy scored the first goal of the season at the 33:41 mark of the match, assisted by Ashley Porter and Ana Gutierrez. The Redhawks won that match, 4-0, and finished the 2006 season with an 8-2-2 record at the new Championship Field.

The university hired Berger Partnership as the architect and Ferguson Construction to perform the renovation. Special thanks to former men's soccer coach Pete Fewing for having the vision to initiate the project, Joe Zavaglia and Vince Volpe for acting as co-chairmen of the project committee, and John Meisenbach and Larry Nejasmich for their generous donations that played a major role in the completion of the new field.

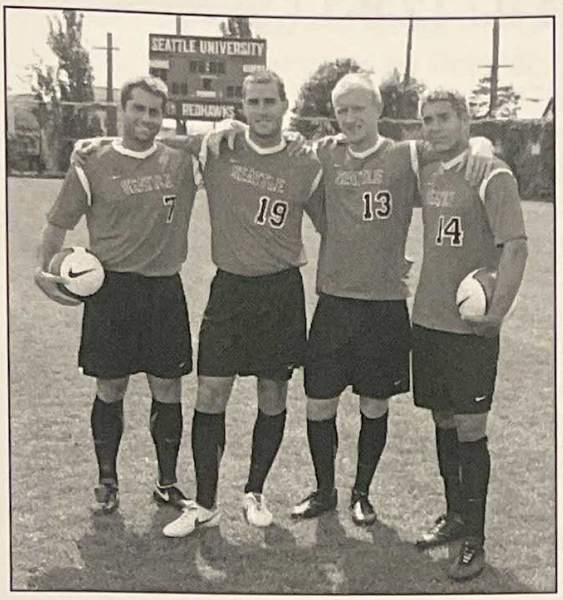
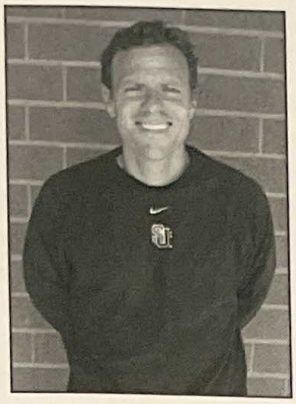
THE 2007 SEATTLE UNIVERSITY MEN'S SOCCER TEAM





BRAD AGOOS
Head Men's Soccer Coach - Seattle University
Second Season As SU Head Coach
Career Coaching Record: 12-8-1 (.595)
Coaching Record at Seattle U.: 12-8-1 (.595)

With one year as head coach under his belt, Brad Agoos has brought his own style to the Seattle University men's soccer porgram and kept the winning tradition of the program going. In his first season, he led the Redhawks to their fifth GNAC title in six years and their second Far West Region title over the past three seasons.

On May 3, 2006, Agoos was named the eighth head coach in the history of the two-time national championship men's soccer program. The combination of playing at a high level and coaching at the Division I level helped Agoos establish credibility with his new team, and the Redhawks responded with a 9-3 start to the 2006 season. After a small bump in the road, Seattle won its final two matches to earn a share of the GNAC title. At the Far West Regional in Carson, Calif., Seattle upset top seed Cal State Dominguez Hills and second seed Cal State Los Angeles to advance to the Elite Eight. During the postseason, Jason Cascio was named GNAC Player of the Year, and seniors Adam Jensen and Hans Esterhuizen earned Academic All-America recognition.

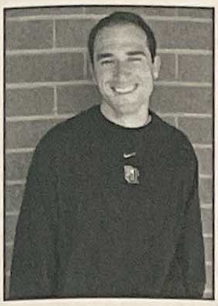
Before coming to Seattle, Agoos was an assistant soccer coach at Cal-Berkley for six seasons after a seven year professional career. During the 2005 season, Cal made its fifth-consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance and first-ever Elite Eight showing, while producing two NCAA All-Americans in Calen Carr and Tyson Wahl. It marked the first time in 27 years that Cal has had an All-American, and the first time in program history that two players have received honors in the same year.

Agoos (pronounced "AY-gus") played with the Quick Den Haag of the Dutch Third Division in 1999, as well as playing for the AC Santa Barbara of the Costa Rican First Division, the Worcester Wildfire of the A-League, D.C. United of Major League Soccer, along with three seasons in the USISL and one season in Germany.

In the coaching ranks, Agoos was a volunteer coach in 1998 for the University of San Francisco and in 1996 for the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, which advanced to the NCAA Final Four. Agoos was also a player and coach for the Vermont Voltage (PDSL). In addition, he has expertise developing youth players, including in 1994-95 when he coached the Park Sharon Soccer Club in Charlotte, N.C. Agoos' credentials include a U.S. Soccer Federation "A" badge and a KNVB Trainer Coach III license.

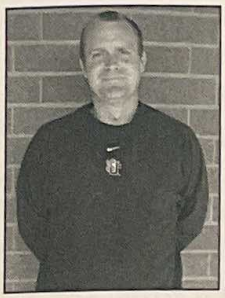
Prior to joining the professional ranks, Agoos won three national championships as a midfielder at the University of Virginia from 1989-93, under Bruce Arenas, former national team head coach and current head coach and general manager of the MLS New York Red Bulls. Agoos was named MVP of the 1993 ACC Tournament and currently ranks third all-time for assists in Cavalier history.

Brad's brother Jeff Agoos, a long-time member of the U.S. national team and a five-time MLS champion, is the assistant general manager for the Red Bulls.



ANTHONY SARDON
Assistant Men's Soccer Coach

Anthony Sardon begins his second season as an assistant coach for the Seattle University men's soccer team. This is Sardon's seventh season with the Redhawk program, having played on the team from 2001 to 2005. A member of the 2004 NCAA Division II National Championship squad, Sardon has helped SU achieve an 85-24-4 record (.770) as both a player and an assistant coach. His only collegiate goal came on October 27, 2002, against Northwest Nazarene. Besides his experience last year with the Redhawks, Sardon has also served as an assistant coach at Eastside Catholic High School in Bellevue, Wash. Originally from Sacramento, Calif., Sardon was a top player at Jesuit High School in Carmichael, Calif. He has kept the pipeline from Jesuit High to Seattle University open, as four players on the 2007 Redhawk roster are graduates of Jesuit High School. Sardon received his bachelor's degree in marketing and is presently enrolled in Seattle University's Master of Sports Administration and Leadership program.



ANDY KLUBBERUD
Assistant Men's Soccer Coach

Andy Klubberud returns for his second season as the goalkeeper coach for the Redhawks. He played at Evergreen State College in Olympia, Wash., from 1992 to 1996, earning team MVP and Second Team All-Region honors in 1995. He was also a team captain for the Geoducks in 1995 and 1996. He is the brother of former Seattle University standout Arne Klubberud, who holds a share of the record for most assists in a season (14 in 1997) and is second on the all-time list for career assists (29).

ALEX CHURSKY
Assistant Men's Soccer Coach

Alex Chursky, one of the top goal scorers in Seattle University history, rejoins the program as an assistant coach. Chursky is fourth on Seattle's all-time points and goals lists and tied for fifth on the all-time assists list. He finished his collegiate career in 2005 with 32 goals and 20 assists for 84 total points. Chursky scored one of the most famous goals in program history, laying out parallel to the ground and sending a header just inside the far post with three seconds remaining in regulation in the 2004 NCAA Division II Elite Eight match against Incarnate Word on November 21, 2004, at Championship Field. Chursky also assisted on the game-winning goal 4:08 into overtime in the NCAA Semifinal match against Dowling on December 3, 2004, in Wichita Falls, Texas.

2007 SEATTLE UNIVERSITY MEN'S SOCCER PREVIEW

The Seattle University men's soccer program would love to celebrate the 40th anniversary of soccer at Seattle University with the program's third national championship in ten years. Five of the top seven scorers from the 2006 GNAC and Far West Region championship squad are back, supplemented by a group of newcomers expected to challenge right away for playing time.

Brad Agoos begins his second season as head coach at Seattle University, continually implementing his system as he maintains the winning tradition. He is helped this year by alums Anthony Sardon and Alex Chursky, both of whom understand the importance of a successful soccer team at Seattle University. Andy Klubberud is back for his second year as the goalkeeper coach, making sure Seattle's last line of defense is strong.

"I believe that it is beneficial to keep the alumni involved in the program, and I am happy to have Anthony and Alex as assistant coaches," Agoos said. "Andy has done a great job with the keepers and I am confident that he will continue to be an important part of this program."

GOALKEEPERS

Agoos believes he has three outstanding goalkeepers that can keep the Redhawks in matches this season. Jordan Jennings (Tacoma, Wash.) became the starting goalkeeper at the end of the 2006 season, helping the team defeat Seattle Pacific and Cal State Dominguez Hills. After a year on the bench, redshirt freshman Max Walker (Lake Tapps, Wash.) has been coming on strong looking for playing time, while transfer Emerson DeOliveira (Normandy Park, Wash.) will bring his experience from the University of San Francisco into the fold.

"The competition for the starting goalkeeper position will be strong," Agoos said. "Jennings and DeOliveira both bring Division I experience to the table, and Walker has improved tremendously in the last year and will push the other keepers for playing time this season."

DEFENSE

A veteran group of defenders will do their best to keep the opposition at bay, led by seniors Eric Forner (Sacramento, Calif.) and Dustin Allbery (Spokane, Wash.). Juniors Chris Hodges (Redmond, Wash.) and Peter Mullenbach (Lodi, Calif.) are healthy after suffering injuries that cut short their 2006 campaigns and will also be depended on to provide a major defensive contribution in 2007. Redshirts Lamar Kumangai-McGee (Spokane, Wash.) and Derek Rogalsky (Richland, Wash.) and freshman David Raney (Lynnwood, Wash.) could see playing time during the 2007 season.

MIDFIELD

John Fishbaugher (Redmond, Wash.), an all-conference and all-region performer, returns for his final year after picking up five goals and six assists in 2006. He will be joined by veterans Andrew Kreiter (Billings, Mont.), Mutanda Kwesele (Seattle, Wash.), and Sean Rawson (Hood River, Ore.). Freshmen Nick James (Kirkland, Wash.) has made an immediate impact during preseason practices and looks to earn some playing time in the middle right from the start of the season.

Other midfielders looking for time on the pitch include junior Luis Gamez (The Dalles, Ore.), redshirt freshman Chris Shin (Vancouver, Wash.), and true freshmen Alex McCrackin (Rio Linda, Calif.), Sean Morris (Bothell, Wash.), Thomas Bento-Nystad (Sacramento, Calif.), and C.J. Hamel (Seattle, Wash.). Ian Forner (Sacramento, Calif.) will be redshirting this season due to injury, but is working hard to be back in the spring.

2007 SEATTLE UNIVERSITY MEN'S SOCCER PREVIEW

FORWARD

Jason Cascio (Gilbert, Ariz.) is back after scoring 16 goals and being named GNAC Player of the Year in 2006. Cameron Mertens (Kennewick, Wash.), the GNAC Co-Freshman of the Year, is back after an injury ended his 2006 season prematurely. Agoos, who moved Cascio from defense to forward at the start of last season, is hoping for a similar result by making the same move with junior Ian Walsh (Novato, Calif.). Freshman Jake Ellig (Richland, Wash.) has started preseason practice strong, while Wesley Van Hooser (Lake Stevens, Wash.) and Brandon Hamer (Carmichael, Calif.) also hope to spend some time in the Seattle front line.

SCHEDULE

Scheduling was made a little easier with the addition of Montana State Billings and Saint Martin's to the GNAC slate. However, the Redhawks face a daunting challenge early in the season, as the first five matches will take place away from home, including rematches at Cal State Dominguez Hills and at Cal State Los Angeles from last year's Far West regional tournament.

Seattle University and Seattle Pacific are co-favorites in the preseason GNAC coaches poll, making the matchups between the two teams ones to watch. The crosstown rivals first meet on October 13 at Championship Field, and then they end the regular season on November 3 at Interbay Stadium. However, the Redhawks cannot look past any opponents if they want to return to the NCAA Tournament.

"We will be playing some of the best teams on the West Coast, especially early in the season. Besides our matches with SPU, we will also have tough home matches against teams like UC San Diego and Incarnate Word, so we will be tested from beginning to end this season," said Agoos.

John Fishbaugher will lead the Seattle University men's soccer team from his midfield position in the 2007 season.

2006: Fishbaugher was named NSCAA Second Team All-Region and Daktronics First Team All-Region, as well as First Team All-GNAC and Academic All-GNAC. He was named GNAC Player of the Week on August 28 after scoring Seattle's first goal of the season against Chico State and earning two assists in a 3-0 victory over Sonoma State. He scored the game-winning goal on a penalty kick early in the second half against Seattle Pacific. He assisted on Seattle's first goal of the postseason against Cal State Dominguez Hills, and scored just two minutes into the regional final against Cal State Los Angeles. He also scored Seattle's final goal of the 2006 season in the Elite Eight match at Fort Lewis College.

2005: Named 2005 All-GNAC team honorable mention, Fishbaugher was one of five SU men's soccer team members to be named to the 2005 GNAC Men's Soccer Academic Team.... Fishbaugher played in 19 matches for the Redhawks, starting 18... Fishbaugher scored his lone goal of the season off of a Cameron Weaver assist in a 5-2 win at Cal Poly Pomona Oct. 3... Fishbaugher fed two assists in 2005.

2004: Fishbaugher started all 23 matches as a freshman, including all four postseason matches on the way to the national title...was one of eight players to start 23 matches in the 2004 season...notched his first career assist on the match-tying goal against Cal Poly Pomona (09/01/04)...his first career goal was the game winner in a 3-0 win over Cal State L.A. (10/01/04).

Redmond HS: Fishbaugher was named the KingCo MVP and was a two-time first-team all-KingCo selection during his time at Redmond HS...was also a two-time pick to the all-Eastside Journal team as well as being named to the first-team all-state team...scored 15 goals and set the school's all-time assist record during his time at Redmond.

Personal: Fishbaugher is a biology major at Seattle. Born October 7, 1985, his parents are Bob and Kim Fishbaugher.

2006: Cascio was named GNAC Player of the Year after leading the conference with 16 goals and 33 total points. He finished 21st in Division II in goals per game (0.84) and 33rd nationally in points per game (1.74). Cascio was also named both NSCAA and Daktronics First Team All-Region. He scored twice in Seattle's 4-1 victory over Cal State Stanislaus. He entered the starting lineup on Sept. 2 and responded by scoring a goal in six straight matches, including the game-winning tally in four straight contests (Sept. 5 - Sept. 17). He put together another four-match scoring streak, capped with two goals at Western Washington and a goal against Seattle Pacific to help the Redhawks win a share of the GNAC title.

2005: Cascio was one of five SU men's soccer players named to the 2005 GNAC Men's Soccer Academic Team. Though a defender, Cascio helped the Redhawk offense, offering up an assist in a 3-1 victory over Fresno Pacific Aug. 25 to open SU's season. Almost a month later, Cascio would knock his first goal of the season Sept. 24 against Western Washington in a 3-0 victory. Cascio also had an assist in a 4-0 shutout in a rematch against Western Washington Oct. 16, then knocked in his second and final goal of the season against Grand Canyon in a 2-1 loss Oct. 21.

2004: Cascio walked directly into the starting lineup from high school and worked within a defense that allowed just 11 goals in 23 matches....as a freshman, Cascio played two of his best matches of the year at the NCAA Division II Final Four...Cascio was consistently used as a marking back against the opposition's top offensive player to great success...also had three assists on the year, including a game-winning assist in the Redhawks' 2-0 win over Humboldt State (09/30/04)...also had assists in back-to-back matches in 2004.

Hamilton HS: Cascio was a goal scorer in high school...scored 24 goals his senior year to lead his Huskies to a regional title...was named the region player of the year as well as being named to the all-state team...also competed in football and baseball at Hamilton.

Personal: Cascio is a liberal studies major at Seattle. Born March 5, 1986, his parents are Bob and Lisa Cascio.

2006: Forner was one of four players to start all 21 matches for the Redhawks. He picked up both his goal and his assist in Seattle's 8-0 victory over Chaminade (Sept. 13). He was a major part of the defense that notched four shutouts and gave up only 37 goals during the season. For his efforts both on the field and in the classroom, he was named First Team All-GNAC and Academic All-GNAC.

2005: Forner was named to the 2005 GNAC Men's Soccer Academic Team, one of five SU men's soccer players to be given the honor... Forner started 18 of 19 matches for SU in 2005... An integral part of the Redhawk defensive, helping SU limit opponent shot production to .084 for the season and shutout six teams in 2005... Offensively, Forner also contributed by offering up two assists in 2005.

2004: Forner made quite an impression on the GNAC as his defensive prowess in shutting down the opposition earned him the GNAC Freshman of the Year award...the honor was well deserved with Forner joining with the rest of a young defense to allow more than one goal in just two matches in all of 2004...that defense also had NCAA Division II national bests in shutouts (15) and goals against average (0.47), as well as earning nine consecutive shutouts at one point of the season...came in and immediately made an impact, playing in all 23 matches for the Redhawks as a freshman, and also started all 23...was part of a defense that allowed just 11 goals in 23 matches.

Jesuit HS: During Forner's three seasons at the varsity level, Jesuit won three Delta League and three CIF Sac-Joaquin Section titles... named Delta League MVP and Defensive Player of the Year as a senior...also competed on Jesuit's rugby team.

Personal: Forner is a business and economics pre-major at Seattle. He has also competed on the U.S. Rugby national under-19 team. Born February 4, 1986, his parents are Peter and Catherine Forner.

2006 SEATTLE UNIVERSITY MEN'S SOCCER REVIEW

After winning the Division II National Championship in 2004, the Seattle University men's soccer team failed to reach the postseason in 2005. The team went through a coaching change, with Brad Agoos stepping in as the program's new head coach. At the beginning of the 2006 season, there was uncertainty about who would come forward and lead the Redhawks towards another conference title and a possible postseason berth.

Four minutes into the first match of the season against Chico State, John Fishbaugher scored. Three minutes later, Pat Thomas converted on a penalty kick. Chico State cut the Seattle lead to one twice, but the Redhawks extended it back to two goals each time. Despite a goal by Chico State with 31 seconds remaining in the second half, Seattle held on and won its season opener, 4-3. Seattle maintained that momentum, defeating Sonoma State, 3-0, and Cal State Stanislaus, 4-1, to open the season 3-0. That winning streak would end as Cal State Dominguez Hills defeated Seattle, 3-0, in the Redhawks' final match of the season-opening homestand.

After falling behind 2-0 at Cal State San Bernardino, Seattle scored two goals in the final ten minutes of regulation to force overtime. Even though the Redhawks eventually lost that match, the confidence to play well on the road carried into the next match, as Seattle took a 2-0 lead, withstood a comeback by UC San Diego, and used a goal by Jason Cascio early in the second half to defeat the Tritons, 3-2. Seattle would travel to Hawaii and defeat Hawaii Pacific, 4-1, and Chaminade, 8-0, to improve its record to 6-2.

The Redhawks increased their winning streak to five matches with back-to-back home victories over Grand Canyon (2-1) and Simon Fraser (4-0). Cascio again saved the day for Seattle, scoring the game-winning goal with 5:49 remaining in the second half against Grand Canyon. After a 3-0 loss to Division I school Portland, Seattle used tough defense and a goal by Cascio in the 61st minute to defeat Western Washington, 1-0.

Cruising along with a 9-3 record, Seattle hit a major bump in the road, first dropping a home match to San Francisco State, 1-0, despite outshooting the Gators 22-5. The Redhawks then fell behind Seattle Pacific early and could not recover, losing at Interbay Stadium to the Falcons, 2-1. That was followed by 3-2 losses at Notre Dame de Namur and at Grand Canyon that put Seattle's postseason hopes in serious jeopardy.

Seattle overcame an early goal by Western Washington, as Cascio scored twice to help the Redhawks defeat the Vikings in Bellingham on October 25, 3-1. On Senior Day, Thomas and Fishbaugher converted on penalty kicks and Cascio scored his 16th goal of the season to give SU a 3-1 victory over Seattle Pacific, earning the Redhawks a share of the conference title. The next couple of days would be nervous ones, as the team wondered whether or not it did enough to earn a postseason berth.

The committee felt that the team had done enough, placing Seattle University as the fourth seed in the Far West Region. The Redhawks took advantage of that opportunity, upsetting regional host Cal State Dominguez Hills in the first round, 2-1, and then winning a shootout over Cal State Los Angeles to win the Far West Region and advance to the Elite Eight. Traveling to Durango, Colo., for the national quarterfinals, Seattle fell behind Fort Lewis College early and never recovered, suffering a 5-2 loss to be eliminated from the NCAA Tournament.

The Seattle University men's soccer team received numerous honors for its excellent season. Cascio, finishing 21st in the country in goals per game (0.84), was named GNAC Player of the Year. He was joined on the GNAC All-Star Team by Thomas, Fishbaugher, Adam Jensen, and Eric Forner. Cameron Mertens, who scored twice and also picked up three assists before getting hurt late in the year, was named GNAC Co-Freshman of the Year. Cascio also earned NSCAA First Team All-Region recognition, while Fishbaugher, who finished the season with five goals and six assists, was voted Second Team All-Region.

In the classroom, Jensen, Forner, and Fishbaugher all earned Academic All-GNAC honors, as did Hans Esterhuizen, Luis Gamez, and Peter Mullenbach. Jensen and Esterhuizen would go on and pick up First Team Academic All-District honors, making them eligible for Academic All-America consideration. Jensen would be named Second Team Academic All-America, while Esterhuizen earned Third Team Academic All-America mention. Jensen would also be named both Seattle University and GNAC Male Scholar-Athlete of the Year after posting a 3.9 grade point average while earning his degree in biochemistry.

Other players emerged for the Redhawks during the 2006 season. Andrew Kreiter finished third on the team with six goals, while Dustin Allbery led the squad with eight assists during the season. Jordan Jennings took over as the starting goalie late in the season and picked up three victories, including the wins at Western Washington and against Seattle Pacific at the end of the regular season and at Cal State Dominguez Hills in the NCAA Tournament.

In 2006, Jason Cascio was named GNAC Player of the Year after scoring 16 goals during the season.

With a full year of experience playing in Agoos' system, the Seattle University men's soccer program will look to continue the success fostered in 2006. Having won five conference titles in six years and advancing to the Elite Eight in two of the past three seasons, the Redhawks have a solid base from which to build on in 2007.

Senior Hans Esterhuizen was one of the top performers on the 2006 SU men's soccer team, both on the field and in the classroom.

40 Years of Seattle University Men's Soccer (1967 - 2007)

On October 14, 1967, Seattle University premiered a new varsity sport, as the men's soccer team played its first ever match, losing 2-0 to Washington State at Interbay Stadium. The first victory for the program came on October 19, as Seattle defeated Charles Wright Academy, 4-1. After a 1-0 loss to a team of Boeing employees, the squad would win its final six matches, including two victories over Seattle Pacific, a 3-0 win at Western Washington, and a season-ending 3-0 victory over the University of Washington.

Forty years and 686 matches later, the Seattle University men's soccer program is still going strong, as it is the second-oldest varsity program among the school's 14 current sports, behind only men's basketball. Led by all-conference performers Terry Donahue and Wendall Smith, Seattle earned double digit victories in a season for the first time in 1978, thanks to victories over Portland, Oregon State, and Saint Mary's. In 1991, Seattle would finish with a 13-6-1 record, starting a current stretch in which the squad has finished at .500 or better in 15 of the last 16 seasons. Seattle has won at least ten matches in seven consecutive years, improving the overall record of the program to 346-287-53, a .543 winning percentage.

In 1997, Seattle lost its first match of the year to Westmont, 2-0, but would not lose again that season. After finishing the regular season 18-1-1, Seattle defeated Pacific and Pacific Lutheran in the NCIC Tournament, followed by wins over Western Washington and Simon Fraser at the Pacific Northwest Regional Tournament. A 3-2 win over top-ranked Illinois-Springfield was followed by 2-2 tie with host school Birmingham-Southern, enabling Seattle to win its pool and advance to the NAIA semifinals. Sean Cassidy scored nine minutes into overtime to give Seattle a 3-2 win over William Carey, and George Czarnowski scored in the second overtime period of the championship match to lead Seattle over Rockhurst College, 2-1, and give SU its first-ever national championship!

Seattle University celebrated its championship by renaming the east sports field Championship Field, and the men's soccer team nearly brought another title back to the First Hill campus in 1998. After a 13-5-2 regular season, Seattle defeated George Fox and Simon Fraser to repeat as NAIA Pacific Northwest Regional champions. After tying Birmingham-Southern, 1-1, and defeating Green Mountain College, 4-1, to win its pool and advance to its second straight NAIA Final Four, Seattle lost to Illinois-Springfield, 1-0, ending hopes of repeating as national champions.

The move from NAIA to NCAA Division II did not stop the winning tradition of the men's soccer program. The 2004 season started with a 3-2 overtime victory over nationally-ranked Cal State Dominguez Hills behind a hat trick by Bobby McAlister, and the team kept on winning. Seven straight wins, followed by a 1-1 tie at UC San Diego, followed by 11 more wins, including a 2-1 overtime victory over crosstown rival Seattle Pacific. Seattle's run in the NCAA Tournament started with a convincing 3-0 win over Cal State Bakersfield. In the Elite Eight, in a match seemingly headed for overtime, a header by Alex Chursky with three seconds remaining in regulation sent Seattle past Incarnate Word, 1-0, and to the Division II Final Four. Chursky assisted on McAlister's overtime goal in the 2-1 win over Dowling in the national semifinals. In the national championship, McAlister's 22nd and final goal of the 2004 season came with 20 minutes left in the second half and proved to be the game winner, as Seattle defeated Southern Illinois-Edwardsville, 2-1, to win its second national championship in program history.

Now, as Seattle embarks on a return to Division I, the men's soccer program is in prime position to lead the way. The team is coming off its second Division II Far West Regional title in three years, and Seattle has won at least a share of the GNAC title in five of the past six seasons. Head coach Brad Agoos and the Seattle University athletic administration, staff, and student-athletes are confident that the winning tradition can continue.

ACADEMICS AT SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Seattle University is dedicated to educating the whole person, to professional formation, and to empowering leaders for a just and humane world.

In 2006-07, Seattle University was not only one of the best programs in Division II in athletic competitions, but also in academic performance.

That statement was solidified on July 18, when Seattle University received the 2006-07 GNAC Academic All-Sports Award. The award is based on the cumulative grade point averages of all the athletes on the official team rosters of the ten GNAC sports. Three Seattle University teams (men's cross country, men's soccer, softball) finished with the best cumulative GPAs in their respective sports, while three more squads (volleyball, women's soccer, women's cross country) finished second in their sports.

Five different Seattle University teams were honored in 2006-07 for their academic performances by their sports' coaches associations. In February, the SU men's and women's cross country teams received All-Academic Team recognition from the United States Track and Field and Cross Country Coaches Association (USTFCCCA), while the Redhawk men's and women's swim teams received the Academic All-American Swim Team award from the College Swim Coaches Association of America (CSCAA) in March. In July, the volleyball squad earned the Team Academic Award from the American Volleyball Coaches Association (AVCA).

The College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA) runs its own Academic All-America program, and in 2006-07 several Seattle University student-athletes were honored. Five Redhawk student-athletes (Chris Coley, Hans Esterhuizen, Ana Gutierrez, Adam Jensen, Ashley Porter) earned Academic All-America honors, with Gutierrez becoming the first SU student-athlete in over 20 years to receive First Team Academic All-America recognition. They qualified for the Academic All-America honor by being voted First Team Academic All-District. Eight other Seattle University student-athletes (Jenny Burrows, Nathan Freeman, Lindsey Gall, Kaitlyn Jackson, Melissa Mulick, Cassy Smith, Leigh Swanson, Nikole Thompson) also earned Academic All-District recognition during the 2006-07 academic year.

Adam Jensen and Ana Gutierrez, both senior soccer players, were first named Seattle University Scholar-Athletes of the Year and then earned the GNAC Male and Female Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors. Gutierrez is now a nominee for the NCAA Woman of the Year Award. Jensen also received the John S. Ju Award from the College of Science and Engineering and the Mission Award for Outstanding Leadership in Academic Excellence. Also at the 2007 Undergraduate Commencement Ceremony, softball student-athlete Kelli Marek received the Matteo Ricci College Award for Excellence.

ERIN ENGELHARDT - Assistant Athletic Director for Student-Athlete Support & Eligibility/SWA

Erin Engelhardt begins her second year in the Seattle University athletic department as an assistant athletic director and coordinator of student-athlete support and eligibility. Engelhardt's primary responsibility is to ensure the academic success of all student-athletes as well as devise and implement educational and holistic development programs. In addition to coordinating student services, Engelhardt oversees all academic progress and eligibility matters, including initial, transfer, and continuing. She serves in a significant leadership role in assisting the Athletic Director with the overall administration of the department, particularly in issues that involve students.

SARAH BEE - Faculty Athletic Representative

Sarah Bee, a member of the accounting faculty in the Albers School of Business and Economics, took over as Seattle University's faculty athletic representative in May 2007. As the university's FAR, Bee is the chair of the Athletics Advisory Board and also acts as primary liasion between the athletic department and the faculty in matters such as student-athlete attendance and performance in the classroom. Her teaching interests are Accounting Information Systems -Internal Controls and Management Accounting. Her research areas include accounting information systems, ethical issues in academic programs, and internal control issues in NCAA programs. She has also been a major contributor to the success of the men's basketball annual banquet and auction.

THE RETURN TO NCAA DIVISION ONE

Q-and-A about SU's move to Division I

Q; How did Seattle University decide to start the process of returning to Division I?

A: In September 2006, Seattle University President Fr. Steve Sundborg called for the creation of the Athletic Alignment Study Task Force, a committee of 22 administrators, staff, faculty, students, and alumni to explore the possibility of Seattle University returning to Division I. After a seven-month review, the task force made its recommendation to the Seattle University Board of Trustees that the university begin the process of moving back to Division I membership within the National Collegiate Athletic Association (NCAA). On May 10, 2007, the Board of Trustees unanimously accepted the report of the task force, clearing the way for Seattle University to apply to the NCAA for Division I membership.

Q: So is Seattle University a Division I school this year?

A: No, for the 2007-08 academic year, Seattle University will be competing as a Division II institution. The athletic teams are eligible for titles within the Great Northwest Athletic Conference as well as NCAA Division II Tournament and Championship appearances. This is what the NCAA calls their exploratory year, as representatives from the national organization will collect data to ensure that Seattle University has met initial benchmarks to become eligible for Division I status.

Q: When does Seattle University become a full Division I member of the NCAA?

A: Provided the athletic department meets the standards set by the NCAA, the school will enter a reclassification year in 2008-09, when it will play a mixed schedule and not be a part of either Division I or Division II. In 2009-10, Seattle University will be expected to play a full Division I schedule. Other than two sports that can be "fast tracked", no Seattle University athletic team will be eligible for NCAA Division I championships until 2012-13. The two sports that the institution marks for "fast track" will be eligible to play for NCAA titles beginning in 2010-11. So basically, Seattle University will become a full Division I member with all rights beginning in 2012-13.

Q: Has Seattle University secured a conference home for its move to Division I?

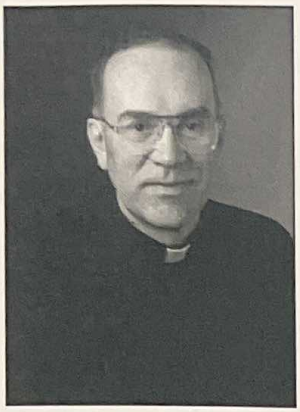
A: Once Seattle University leaves the Great Northwest Athletic Conference after the 2007-08 season, it will become an indepedent school until a conference invites it to apply for membership. While talk centered around the West Coast Conference during the school's exploration in 2006-07, there are other possibilities for conference homes. It is also a possibility that different sports will land in different conferences until the school is invited into one conference for all of its sports.

Q: When will Seattle University men's basketball reach The Big Dance?

A: The move to Division I will take time, and the administration of Seattle University has made it clear that this process will be done the Seattle University way, that no shortcuts will be taken just to make a team competitive. So while it is the goal of every SU squad to reach postseason competition, no timeline can be established for when that will happen. When a team from Seattle University reaches the postseason, it will be celebrated, but coaches and staff will be given time to build their programs up to be competitive at the Division I level.

Q: So why make the move to Division I, especially when the athletic program has started to find success at the Division II level?

A: The feeling of the present Seattle University administration is that moving the athletic program to Division I will bring it to the same level as the rest of the university. Back in 1980, when the decision was made to leave Division I, Seattle University was a completely different university than it is right now. The average student was in their mid-20s, did not live on campus, and cared only about getting the degree and moving on with life. Now, this is a more traditional institution, with students who care about a full collegiate experience. With this move, Seattle University will become the 20th Jesuit university to compete athletically at the Division I level. In the administration's opinion, this will enhance the Seattle University experience, both for student-athletes and students alike.



FATHER STEPHEN V. SUNBORG, S.J.
President - Seattle University

Father Stephen Sundborg, of The Society of Jesus, became president of Seattle University in July 1997. He leads a comprehensive, independent university of more than 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students and 1,000 faculty and staff members. He has recently agreed, at the request of the Board of Trustees, to serve a third five-year team as president of Seattle University.

Since becoming president, Father Sundborg's key objectives have been to encourage student-centered education, enhance academic excellence, and develop resources to support a growing student population. During his tenure, Seattle University has built a new law school, a student center, and student residences. Father Sundborg is strongly committed to promoting social justice, a core value of the Jesuit Catholic education. He actively supports programs that encourage students, faculty, and staff to make a difference, whether in the local community or developing countries. As President, Father Sundborg has bestowed honorary degrees on such social justice leaders as Nelson Mandela, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, and Corazon Aquino.

Father Sundborg grew up in the Territory of Alaska. He entered the Jesuits in 1961 and was ordained a priest in Seattle in 1974. He completed his doctoral studies in spirituality at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome in 1982. He taught theology at Seattle University from 1982-1990, was appointed Rector of the Seattle University Jesuit community in 1986, and served as Provincial of the Northwest Jesuits from 1990 to 1996. Father Sundborg is the 21st president to lead Seattle University since it was founded in 1891.

WILLIAM HOGAN
Athletic Director - Seattle University

Entering his second year as the Director of Athletics at Seattle University, William (Bill) Hogan has already made a significant impact not only on the athletics program, but within the university as a whole. Thanks to his leadership, the department stabilized over the past year, and he oversaw one of the most successful years in school history, both athletically and academically. Most importantly, he spearheaded the move by the University to begin the process of returning to Division I status.

In competition, Hogan witnessed the women's soccer, men's soccer, and men's basketball teams winning GNAC titles and advancing to their respective NCAA Tournaments. The men's soccer team won the Far West Region and advanced to the Elite Eight, while the men's basketball squad won its first NCAA Tournament game in 43 years. The softball and men's swimming teams also reached their best postseason result, with the softball team advancing to the NCAA West Regional title game and the men's swim team finishing ninth nationally at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships. Academically, the department won the GNAC Academic All-Sports title, with two SU student-athletes, Ana Gutierrez and Adam Jensen, earning GNAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors. Gutierrez and Jensen were two of five SU student-athletes to receive Academic All-America recognition.

Before coming to Seattle University, Hogan led the University of San Francisco athletics department from 1991 to 2006. Hogan was named Regional Athletic Director of the Year by the National Association of College Athletic Directors for 2000-2001.

ERIC GUERRA

Assoc. A.D. for Compliance, Internal Operations, & Welfare

Joining Seattle University Athletics in July of 2005, Guerra begins his third year as a member of the senior administrative staff. In his role, Guerra is responsible for the administrative oversight of compliance and rules education, internal business operations, and student welfare and (athletic) performance. Guerra oversaw the exchange of information to the SU Athletic Alignment Study Task Force that led to the university's decision to apply for NCAA Division I membership.

JASON BEHENNA

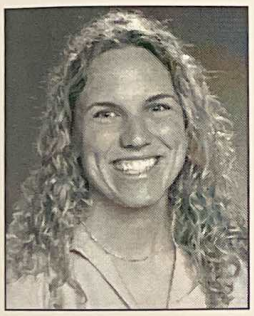
Sports Information Director

Jason Behenna joined the Seattle University athletic department as Sports Information Director on August 1, 2006. Behenna is responsible for the statistics and media releases for Seattle's 14-sport intercollegiate program as well as the maintenance of the athletics website and the design and production of media guides and game programs. He has also served as an administrator for several NCAA Tournament trips, including the SU softball team's trip to the West Regional in Turlock, Calif., in 2007.

TROY KIRBY

Ticket Manager/ Publications

After over a year as the sports information graduate assistant, Troy Kirby joins the athletic staff full time as the ticket manager and publications coordinator. Kirby will oversee all ticket sales and campaigns, as well as coordinate the design and publication of all athletic department guides and brochures. Over the past year, Kirby was responsible for the design of the Seattle University media guides, camp brochures, and gameday programs. He has also initiated several programs to increase ticket sales to SU events.



MARK ESCANDON

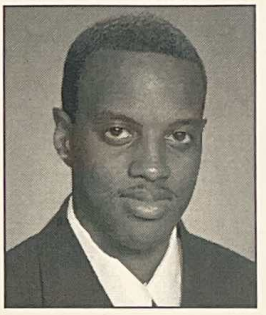
Athletic Trainer

The Seattle University training staff consists of two full-time athletic trainers, Mark Escandon and Gwen Johnson, and a part-time trainer at SU, Kyle Stanley. Johnson is the primary trainer for the SU women's soccer squad. Escandon, Seattle University's head trainer, begins his 12th year at the school, while Johnson starts her third year in the department. Johnson came to Seattle University from Stanford, where she worked with the nationally-ranked women's volleyball and water polo teams.

KELLY LYNCH

Senior Admin Assistant

Kelly Lynch joined the administrative staff of the Seattle University athletic department in the summer of 2006. Her duties include assisting Athletic Director Bill Hogan and Associate Athletic Director Eric Guerra with several of their duties as well as helping Seattle's coaches and other administrators with budget issues and other office efficiencies. A native of Chicago, Illinois, Lynch has enrolled in the Master of Public Administration program at Seattle University.

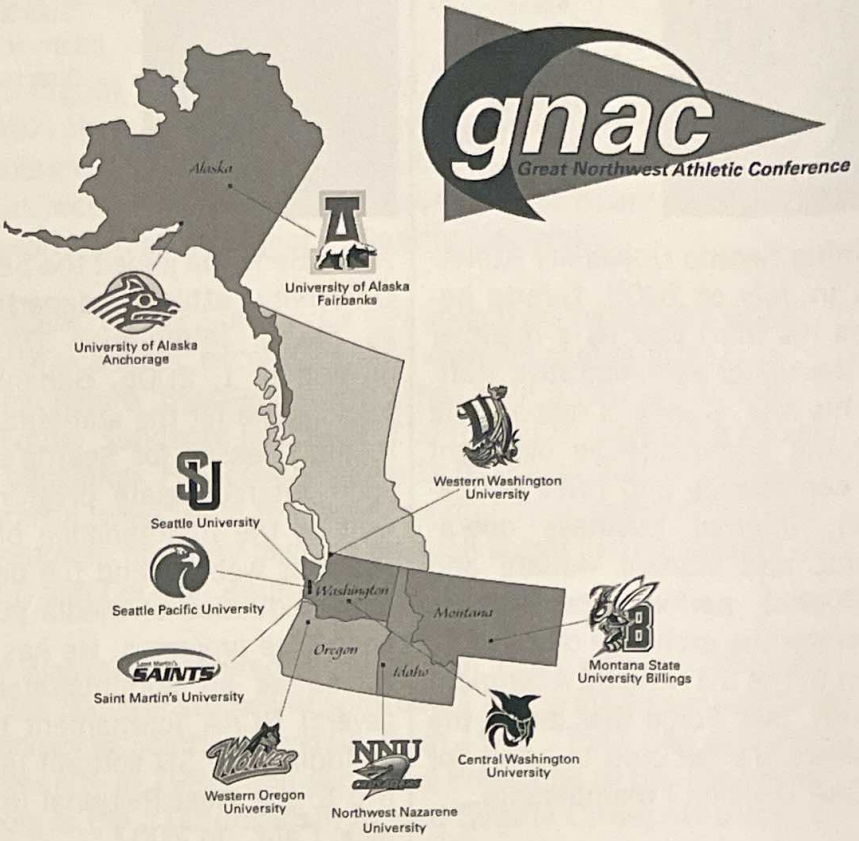


JAMA'L CHUKUEKE

Game Management, Promotions, and Events

Jama'l Chukueke joined the Seattle University athletic department in the summer of 2006 as the Coordinator of Game Management, Promotions, and Events. He is responsible for the operations of all home athletic events, including in-game promotions, as well as the coordination of other services such as concessions and security. In the winter and spring, Chukueke, a former track athlete at Lock Haven University, is a volunteer assistant coach for the SU track and field squad.

Great Northwest Athletic Conference



The Great Northwest Athletic Conference, which is comprised of ten NCAA Division II schools, begins its seventh season of athletic competition this fall. The ten schools are located in five different states, including five in the state of Washington: Central Washington University, Saint Martin's University, Seattle Pacific University, Seattle University, and Western Washington University.

The GNAC, which was officially founded on July 1, 2001, also includes the University of Alaska Anchorage, the University of Alaska Fairbanks, Northwest Nazarene University, Western Oregon University, and, beginning in the 2007-08 academic year, the University of Montana Billings.

Prior to the formation of the GNAC, all ten schools at one time or another were members of the PacWest Conference.

Four of the schools in the conference - Alaska Anchorage, Alaska Fairbanks, Montana State Billings, and Seattle Pacific - were charter members of the PacWest, which was created in May 1992 with the merger of the Great Northwest Conference and the Continental Divide Conference.

Four other GNAC members - Central Washington, Saint Martin's, Western Oregon, and Western Washington - joined the PacWest prior to the 1998-99 season. Central Washington, Saint Martin's, and Western Washington were previously members of the Pacific Northwest Athletic Conference, while Western Oregon was a member of the Cascade Conference.

Seattle University and Northwest Nazarene, from the Northwest and Cascade conferences, joined the PacWest prior to the 1999-2000 season.

Richard Hannan, who served terms as the athletic director at Southwest Texas State University, Weber State University, and Lewis-Clark State College, has been the commissioner of the Great Northwest Athletic Conference since its creation in 2001.

The GNAC sponsors championships in six men's and seven women's sports: women's volleyball, men's and women's soccer, men's and women's cross country, men's and women's basketball, men's baseball, women's softball, men's and women's indoor track and field, and men's and women's outdoor track and field.

SEATTLE UNIVERSITY™

Founded in 1891 as a Jesuit Catholic men's college, Seattle University has grown in size and stature to become the largest and most diverse independent university in the Pacific Northwest, with a student population of more than 6,800.

Seattle University's 48-acre campus houses eight schools: Arts and Sciences, Science and Engineering, Nursing, Education, Theology and Ministry, Law, Business and Economics, and the Matteo Ricci College. The 2004 U.S. News and World Report ranks Seattle University among the top 10 schools in the west that offer a full range of masters and undergraduate programs, and Seattle University is among the Princeton Review's list of the top colleges in the United States.

In its 113-year history, Seattle University has been consistent in its commitment to academic excellence. Teaching, strengthened by active scholarship, is the faculty priority. Small class sizes, and the personal attention given by Seattle University professors and administrators, help students meet the rigorous demands of the curriculum.

One of 28 Jesuit Catholic universities in the U.S., Seattle University draws upon the Jesuit educational philosophy to develop critical thinkers and compassionate leaders able to promote a more just and humane world.

Seattle University's location in the heart of a great city and dynamic region provides learning, service, cultural and career opportunities for students. With the university's emphasis on experiential learning, students enhance their classroom experience by working on projects with local companies, interning in local schools or hospitals, participating in study-abroad programs, and other learning opportunities.

The true measure of the university's excellence is the success of its graduates. Seattle University's 43,000 alumni include distinguished individuals in business, public affairs, education, the performing arts, athletics, science and technology, and other fields.

If you look anywhere, you are bound to see our alumni.

In the 1960's and 1970s, Seattle University had more former players in the NBA than any other college.

Our graduates become doctors, lawyers, business owners, newspaper editors, legislators and world leaders.

An SU graduate was the first American to climb Mt. Everest, another won a landmark case in front of the U.S. Supreme Court, and still another is building the world's tallest structure in Dubai.

Below is only a small list of our distinguished alumni.

CHAMPIONSHIP FIELD

In late 2005, Seattle University began the renovation of Championship Field, the school's home for men's and women's soccer since 1994. It was originally the Seattle University East Sports Field, but was renamed Championship Field in 1998 after the men's soccer team won the 1997 NAIA National Championship. In 2004, the two teams combined for a 20-0-2 record at Championship Field as the women's team won the Far West Region while the men's team won the Division II National Championship.

The university raised 1.5 million dollars for the refurbishment of Championship Field. The major portion of the renovation was the establishment of the permanent grandstand. Instead of 150 temporary seats, the field will encompass 650 permanent seats that will be at least partially covered. The changes also include a new scoreboard, press box, and sound system.

"I am extremely excited about the renovation of Championship Field. To have at our disposal a facility that matches the tradition of the Seattle University soccer programs is a dream come true. This will be one of the major selling points to attract top-notch talent to Seattle University, and it will hopefully lead to great success on a regional and national level," head women's soccer coach Julie Woodward said.

"I think it's going to be one of the most special collegiate venues on the West Coast," men's soccer head coach Brad Agoos said. "Having a small, intimate atmosphere will make Championship Field an ideal place to come watch a game."

The natural Bermuda grass field was used at Qwest Field for the exhibition match between Real Madrid and D.C. United on August 9, 2006, and shipped to Championship Field within the next couple of days. Thanks to this donation by the Seattle Seahawks, all future student-athletes who play on Championship Field can say with certainty that they played on the same field as David Beckham and Freddy Adu.

"This contribution by the Seattle Seahawks and Qwest Field furthers our goal of making Championship Field one of the prominent intercollegiate soccer facilities on the West Coast," said Associate Athletic Director Eric Guerra.

The new Championship Field saw its first competition on Thursday, August 24, 2006, as the women's soccer team hosted Cal State Monterey Bay. Maryann Boddy scored the first goal of the season at the 33:41 mark of the match, assisted by Ashley Porter and Ana Gutierrez. The Redhawks won that match, 4-0, and finished the 2006 season with an 8-2-2 record at the new Championship Field.

The university hired Berger Partnership as the architect and Ferguson Construction to perform the renovation. Special thanks to former men's soccer coach Pete Fewing for having the vision to initiate the project, Joe Zavaglia and Vince Volpe for acting as co-chairmen of the project committee, and John Meisenbach and Larry Nejasmich for their generous donations that played a major role in the completion of the new field.

BRAD AGOOS
Head Men's Soccer Coach - Seattle University
Third Season As SU Head Coach
Career Coaching Record: 27-11-2 (.700)
Coaching Record at Seattle U.: 27-11-2 (.700)

Now in his third year as head coach, Brad Agoos has brought his own style to the Seattle University men's soccer porgram and kept the winning tradition of the program going. In his first two seasons, he has led the Redhawks to a 27-11-2 overall record, back-to-back GNAC titles and two straight NCAA Division II tournament appearances, including their second Far West Region title over the past three seasons. Now as the program begins the transition to Division I, Agoos has brought in a talented group of newcomers that, along with the returning players, should give the Redhawks every chance to quickly become competitive at the next level.

During the 2007 season, Agoos led the team to a 15-3-1 record, including a 6-1-1 record within the GNAC to earn the team its sixth conference title in seven years. After finishing the season on an 11-match unbeaten streak, Seattle University advanced to its second straight NCAA Division II tournament, and midfielder John Fishbaugher earned First Team All-America recognition. Fishbaugher and forward Jason Cascio were signed by the Seattle Sounders of the United Soccer League and are presently making significant contributions to the local professional club.

On May 3, 2006, Agoos was named the eighth head coach in the history of the two-time national championship men's soccer program. The combination of playing at a high level and coaching at the Division I level helped Agoos establish credibility with his new team, and the Redhawks responded with a 9-3 start to the 2006 season. After a small bump in the road, Seattle won its final two matches to earn a share of the GNAC title. At the Far West Regional in Carson, Calif., Seattle upset top seed Cal State Dominguez Hills and second seed Cal State Los Angeles to advance to the Elite Eight. During the postseason, Cascio was named GNAC Player of the Year, and seniors Adam Jensen and Hans Esterhuizen earned Academic All-America recognition.

Before coming to Seattle, Agoos was an assistant soccer coach at Cal-Berkley for six seasons after a seven year professional career. During the 2005 season, Cal made its fifth-consecutive NCAA Tournament appearance and first-ever Elite Eight showing, while producing two NCAA All-Americans in Calen Carr and Tyson Wahl. It marked the first time in 27 years that Cal has had an All-American, and the first time in program history that two players have received honors in the same year.

Agoos (pronounced "AY-gus") played with the Quick Den Haag of the Dutch Third Division in 1999, as well as playing for the AC Santa Barbara of the Costa Rican First Division, the Worcester Wildfire of the A-League, D.C. United of Major League Soccer, along with three seasons in the USISL and one season in Germany.

In the coaching ranks, Agoos was a volunteer coach in 1998 for the University of San Francisco and in 1996 for the University of North Carolina-Charlotte, which advanced to the NCAA Final Four. Agoos was also a player and coach for the Vermont Voltage (PDSL). In addition, he has expertise developing youth players, including in 1994-95 when he coached the Park Sharon Soccer Club in Charlotte, N.C. Agoos' credentials include a U.S. Soccer Federation "A" badge and a KNVB Trainer Coach III license.

Prior to joining the professional ranks, Agoos won three national championships as a midfielder at the University of Virginia from 1989-93, under Bruce Arenas, former national team head coach. Agoos was named MVP of the 1993 ACC Tournament and currently ranks third all-time for assists in Cavalier history.

Brad's brother Jeff Agoos, a long-time member of the U.S. national team and a five-time MLS champion, is the Scouting Director for the New York Red Bulls of Major League Soccer.

Seattle University head men's soccer coach Brad Agoos speaks at the October 5, 2007 banquet celebrating 40 years of soccer at Seattle University. As part of the ceremony, SU soccer legends Tom Hardy, Bobby McAlister, and Joe Zavaglia became the first soccer players inducted into the Seattle University Athletic Hall of Fame.

ASSISTANT COACHES

ANTHONY SARDON
Assistant Men's Soccer Coach

Anthony Sardon begins his third season as an assistant coach for the Seattle University men's soccer team. This is Sardon's eighth season with the Redhawk program, having played on the team from 2001 to 2005.

A member of the 2004 NCAA Division II National Championship squad, Sardon has helped SU achieve an 100-27-5 record (.777) as both a player and an assistant coach. His only collegiate goal came on October 27, 2002, against Northwest Nazarene. In 2003, Sardon earned Academic All-GNAC honors.

Besides his experience over the past two seasons with the Redhawks, Sardon has also served as an assistant coach at Eastside Catholic High School in Bellevue, Wash. Originally from Sacramento, Calif., Sardon was a top player at Jesuit High School in Carmichael, Calif. He has kept the pipeline from Jesuit High to Seattle University open, as three players on the 2008 Redhawk roster are graduates of Jesuit High School. Sardon received his bachelor's degree in marketing and is presently enrolled in Seattle University's Master of Sports Administration and Leadership program.

ALEX CHURSKY
Assistant Men's Soccer Coach

Alex Chursky begins his second season as a graduate assistant coach in the Seattle University men's soccer program.

One of the top goal scorers in Seattle University history, Chursky is fourth on Seattle's all-time goals list with 32 career goals, fourth on the all-time points list with 84, and tied for fifth in school history for career assists with 20. Chursky scored one of the most famous goals in program history, laying out parallel to the ground and sending a header just inside the far post with three seconds remaining in regulation to give Seattle University the victory in the 2004 NCAA Division II Elite Eight match against Incarnate Word on November 21, 2004, at Championship Field. Chursky also assisted on the game-winning goal 4:08 into overtime in the national semifinal match against Dowling on December 3, 2004, in Wichita Falls, Texas.

Chursky, a former member of Canada's Under-20 national team, attended Decatur High School in Federal Way, Wash., where he led the team to back-to-back undefeated seasons and state titles. He graduated from Seattle University with a degree in communications and is presently enrolled in the Master of Sport Administration and Leadership program.

ARON HYDE
Men's Soccer Goalkeeper Coach

Aron Hyde is back for his third season with the women's soccer program, and he has joined the men's soccer program as well in 2008, acting as goalkeeper coach for both squads.

During his first two seasons at Seattle University, Hyde helped develop Kaitlyn Jackson into one of the top goalkeepers in Division II. A two-time First Team All-GNAC selection, Jackson started all 41 matches during her junior and senior seasons, posting a 32-6-3 record with a 0.51 goals against average, 21 shutouts, and an .814 save percentage.

Hyde has several years of coaching experience and currently works for local club team Emerlad City FC where he serves as assistant goalkeeper coach and head team coach for two of the club boys teams. Hyde also serves as goalkeeper coach for Highline Premier FC. He is also involved with Washington State ODP, Region IV Staff Coach and NSCAA GK staff instructor.

Hyde also has a vast playing experience which includes Walsall, Millwall, and Wycombe Wanders, teams from his native England. He also played at Judson College (NAIA) and also spent a season as a trainer player for Major League Soccer's Chicago Fire. He has his USSF A license and USSF GK license and is currently working towards the completion of his UEFA B Coaching License. Originally from Birmingham, England, Hyde is presently enrolled in the Master of Sports Administration and Leadership program at Seattle University.

SARA LEADY
Men's Soccer Team Manager

Sara Leady begins her third season as team manager for the men's soccer program. Among her duties are filming matches and practices, making sure the team's uniforms and equipment are clean and organized, and other duties assigned to her by the coaching staff.

Besides her duties with the men's soccer team, she also helps the women's soccer and men's basketball programs as their team manager. Leady has also been the athletic department's "go-to" woman in terms of signing the National Anthem before numerous SU athletic events.

A junior at Seattle University, Leady is majoring in English literature with a minor in fine arts. Hailing from Anderson, South Carolina, Sara's parents are Chuck and Gina Vavra, and Steve Leady and Terry Smith.

During Seattle University's seven seasons in the Division II Great Northwest Athletic Conference, the team won six conference titles and advanced to the national tournament three times, including two Far West Region titles and the 2004 National Championship. That is the foundation upon which the program will build as it joins the rest of the athletic department in the reclassification to Division I.

There are 19 players returning from the 2007 roster, along with six newcomers, giving head coach Brad Agoos the depth needed to compete at the next level. With 16 freshmen and sophomores, Agoos will have the experience necessary when the men's soccer team, as one of the "fast-tracked" programs, becomes eligible for NCAA postseason competition in 2010. But the focus is on the 2008 season, and making sure the tradition of successful soccer teams is kept alive.

With only three home matches, the team will look to the upperclassmen for leadership as it makes those initial road trips to California, Oregon, and Florida. The team will be facing some of the best squads at not only the Division I level, but also from Division II and NAIA. The defense will be solid, with both goalkeepers and several defenders returning. With the top four scorers from last season having graduated, the coaches will be looking for new players to take on the scoring responsibilities.

GOALKEEPERS

Judging from the preseason, it looks like the rotation between senior Jordan Jennings (Tacoma, Wash.) and junior Emerson De Oliveira (Normandy Park, Wash.) will continue. The two goalies combined for eight shutouts, a .776 save percentage, and a 0.67 goals against average last season. Each player brings different skills and strengths between the pipes, a factor Agoos hopes to use to his advantage. Sophomore Max Walker (Lake Tapps, Wash.) continues to threaten the other two for playing time with his work ethic in practice.

DEFENSE

The defense took a hit when it was revealed that sophomore David Raney (Lynnwood, Wash.), one of the developing stars of the Redhawk program, would miss the season due to injury. However, the depth of this year's squad will give Agoos some choices as to who will take Raney's place. Seniors Chris Hodges (Redmond, Wash.) and Lamar Kumangai-McGee (Spokane, Wash.) are the experienced members of the SeattleU backline. They will be joined by sophomore Derek Rogalsky (Richland, Wash.), and freshmen Will Banchero (West Seattle, Wash.) and Demaci Roussos (Sacramento, Calif.).

MIDFIELD

It hurts the team anytime a First Team All-American like John Fishbaugher leaves the program, but there are several student-athletes ready to take his place. Luis Gamez (The Dalles, Ore.) returns to the active lineup after sitting out the 2007 season with an injury. Fellow seniors Andrew Kreiter (Billings, Mont.) Mutanda Kwesele (Seattle, Wash.), and Sean Rawson (Hood River, Ore.) will also help stabilize the center of the field for the Redhawks.

After missing all of the 2007 season due to injury, midfielder Luis Gamez is back to lead the Redhawks into the transition to Division I.

Sophomore Sean Morris (Bothell, Wash.) saw significant playing time last season in his first year and looks to continue his development. Redshirt freshmen C.J. Hamel (Seattle, Wash.) and Alex McCrackin (Rio Linda, Calif.) have a year of practicing at the collegiate level under their belt, but they will still fight first-year players Kyle Peterman (Boise, Idaho), Marshall Kosaka (Burien, Wash.), Elliot Richards (Seattle, Wash.),and Tyler Hanson (Federal Way, Wash.) for playing time.

FORWARD

Graduates Jason Cascio and Cam Mertens scored 18 of the team's 41 goals in 2007, leaving a hole in the front that may take a little time to fill. Ian Walsh (Novato, Calif.), Nick James (Kirkland, Wash.), Jake Ellig (Richland, Wash.), and Wesley Van Hooser (Lake Stevens, Wash.) all hope to prove that they can be the one depended on to score the important goal. Brandon Hamer (Carmichael, Calif.) has looked great during preseason workouts and will also see significant playing time this season. Freshman John Bardwell (Seattle, Wash.) will bring size and strength to the position for Seattle University.

SCHEDULE

It is difficult enough for most men's soccer programs to put a schedule together, because there are not a lot of collegiate teams in existence. Because this is Year One of the reclassification process, it was even harder for the Seattle University men's soccer program to find opponents, especially ones to come to Championship Field to play, because of the NCAA guidelines about countable matches. Therefore, the Redhawks will have only three home matches in 2008, starting with Chico State on Sept. 5 and followed by Cal State Bakersfield on Oct. 4 and Simon Fraser on Nov. 1.

Nine matches against Division I opponents are on the docket this season, starting with contests against Cleveland State and North Florida at the UC Irvine College Classic on Labor Day weekend. A weekend excursion to the Sunshine State to face Florida Gulf Coast and Florida Atlantic is also on the schedule, as are trips to San Jose State and Portland. Seattle University will also face Concordia University and Fresno Pacific, two top NAIA programs, on the road, and will renew the rivalry with Seattle Pacific at Interbay Stadium on Oct. 14.

The 2007 Seattle University men's soccer team looked to build on the success of their 2006 campaign, where they advanced to the Elite Eight of the NCAA Division II National Championship. Head coach Brad Agoos returned 19 players from the 2006 squad and entered the 40th anniversary of men's soccer at SU with hopes of returning to the tournament and winning their third national championship.

Seattle entered the first game of the season against Humboldt State as the number 12 team in the nation. Seattle would go on to shutout Humboldt 3-0 with goals by Jake Ellig and Ian Walsh, and earned their first win of the season. Seattle opened the young season with 2-1 wins over Sonoma State and Cal State Stanislaus.

The Redhawks entered their showdown with Cal State Dominguez Hills, the team they eliminated in the first round of the tournament the year before, as the sixth ranked team in the country. The game's first half ended in a 0-0 draw, but Dominguez Hills broke through during the 67th minute as a shot deflected off of goalie Emerson DeOliveira. They would add another goal in the 87th minute to hand Seattle their first loss of the season.

Seattle finished their five game road swing through California in dramatic fashion. The final game saw Seattle take on sixth ranked Cal State L.A. The game was a defensive battle throughout, as both teams only managed eight shots each for the game. The Redhawks finally broke the tie as Sean Rawson fed Cameron Mertens who beat the goalie and notched the only goal of the game as the Redhawks prevailed 1-0 in the upset.

The Redhawks entered their first conference match with a 5-1 record and a top 25 national ranking. Coming into the game with momentum was not enough as Montana State Billings handed Seattle their second loss of the season. Seattle was disappointed with the loss, but was able to bounce back and get a 1-0 victory over Western Washington as Fishbaugher collected his second goal of the season. The win set up a quick rematch with Montana State Billings at Championship Field.

The second game between the two schools in ten days did not disappoint. During the second overtime, Jason Cascio received an Ian Walsh pass and scored his third goal of the season as Seattle pulled out the 1-0 victory.

Seattle continued their dominance throughout the next few games as they beat UC San Diego 2-0, and then scored another conference win over Saint Martin's 3-1, before going on a scoring spree against the University of Mary, winning 6-1. The Redhawks got two goals apiece from Dustin Allbery and Mertens, as well as one by Andrew Kreiter and Chris Hodges.

Combined with their six goals from the previous game, Seattle scored 20 goals in a four game span including a 2-1 victory over Seattle Pacific at home and an 8-1 victory at Saint Martin's. During the Saint Martin's game, Jason Cascio recorded a hat trick and added an assist to give him five goals and six points in two games.

Seattle would finish the regular season with wins over Western Washington and Incarnate Word. In the finale, SU took on Seattle Pacific as Jason Cascio scored his 13th goal of the season in the 64th minute. SPU would tie the game with a goal in the 85th minute, and the two played to a 1-1 tie. Seattle ended the regular season 6-1-1 in conference to win the GNAC title.

The Redhawks entered the post season as the number two team in the Far West region and were matched up against Sonoma State. The Seawolves jumped out to an early lead and Seattle was unable to recover as they were eliminated 2-0 in the first round.

As a team, Seattle finished 10th in the nation in goals against, allowing just 13 during the season. They were also 12th nationally with a .816 win percentage. Individually, Seattle placed eight members on the Academic All-GNAC squad, two on the CoSIDA Academic All-District team, and nine Redhawks were awarded All-GNAC honors. Allbery, Cascio, and Fishbaugher were selected to the Daktronics All-Region teams. John Fishbaugher also became the first Seattle player to earn first team NSCAA All-American honors since 2004.

TOM HARDY

An extremely skilled and intense athlete, Tom Hardy was highly valued as a leader both on and off the field. In 1996, he received second team NAIA All-American honors as well as being named to both the All-Pacific Northwest Region and All-PNWAC first teams. He suffered an injury that forced him to miss the spring 1997 season, but he came back in the fall to lead Seattle University to its first-ever national championship. Hardy was named NAIA Men's Soccer Player of the Year as well as both Outstanding Defensive Player and Most Valuable Player of the 1997 NAIA Men's Soccer National Championship. He graduated Seattle University with a degree in ecological studies. Hardy was drafted by the Kansas City Wizards of Major League Soccer and played with the New England Revolution, the Seattle Sounders, and the Vancouver 86ers. He returned to his alma mater and was an assistant coach on the Division II National Championship team of 2004.

BOBBY McALISTER

Bobby McAlister was a dominating offensive star for the men's soccer team from the moment he transfered from the University of Washington. He opened the 2002 season by scoring all five of the team's goals in the first three matches before missing the rest of the season with an ACL injury. In 2003, McAlister rebounded by scoring seven goals in 17 matches for the Redhawks and was named second team All-GNAC. In 2004, he set the school's single-season goal-scoring record with 22 goals in 23 games. His final goal of the 2004 season was the game-winner in the national championship game. He earned Player of the Year honors and was named to the All-Tournament Team. He also earned All-American and All-Region honors in 2004. He returned in 2005 and posted six goals and four assists for 16 points, good enough for first team All-GNAC honors. He still holds 18 GNAC season and career records and is third on Seattle University's all-time points list with 93 career points.

JOE ZAVAGLIA

Joe Zavaglia spearheaded the birth of the men's soccer program in 1967, providing the program with the foundation on which it would build towards two national championships in a seven-year span. He served as captain of the team from 1967-70. Zavaglia won three Most Inspirational Awards and was named All-Northwest Conference in 1969 and 1970. He was in charge of putting together the schedule for the first year of competition. The team would finish with a 7-2 record, including wins over Seattle Pacific, Western Washington, and the University of Washington. In 1970, Zavaglia was named Outstanding College Student-Athlete for his achievements on the field and in the classroom. He served two terms as Second Vice-President of the student body, was president of the Alpha Phi Omega fraternity, and entered the U.S. Army after graduation. After 33 years working for various banks, he created Zavaglia Consulting, assisting community banks with retail and small banking needs.

JASON PALMER

When he left Seattle University after the 1997 season, Jason Palmer had rewritten the record books in the goalkeeping categories. A four-year starter, Palmer compiled over 8,600 minutes in the net. He amassed a 1.00 goals against average throughout his career. In 1997, he totaled 2,621 minutes, giving up only 24 goals in 28 contests for a 0.82 goals against average. He made 100 saves and recorded a single-season record 13 shutouts, including eight shutouts in a row from October 4 through October 25. After earning honorable mention All-America recognition in 1995 and third team All-America honors in 1996, Palmer was one of four SU players to be named first team NAIA All-America in 1997. Palmer made a crucial save during SU's regional final contest against Simon Fraser, helping the team earn a 3-2 overtime victory to advance to its first-ever national tournament. After back-to-back victories over William Carey and Rockhurst College to win the NAIA title, Palmer earned recognition as outstanding goalkeeper of the tournament.

KURT SWANSON

Kurt Swanson is the most prolific scorer in Seattle University men's soccer history. In his four seasons, Swanson tallied 129 career points which included 58 career goals and 13 career assists. His point total and goals scored tops the Seattle University all-time lists. The 13 assists are good for number nine on the all-time list. Swanson helped guide the 1997 men's team to the NAIA National Championship and was honored with First Team All-American honors. In his senior year, Swanson took his team back to the Final Four and was named as a 1998 NAIA Second Team All-American. He was also honored as an NAIA Scholar Athlete in both his junior and senior seasons. During his four active years on the squad, the team compiled a 68-23-10 record, a .722 winning percentage. Aftere graduating Summa Cum Laude from SU with a degree in biology, he finished in the top ten of his class at the University of Washington School of Dentistry and is a dentist in Bellingham, Washington.

1997 MEN'S SOCCER TEAM

Since Seattle University was founded in 1891, it had never won a national championship ... until 1997. On Sept. 5, 1997, the team lost to Westmont College, 2-0. It would not lose another match the rest of the season. Having joined the Northwest Conference of Independent Colleges, the squad rolled to a 15-0-1 conference record. In the NCIC conference tournament, the Chieftains defeated Pacific, 3-1, and Pacific Lutheran, 5-1, to advance to the NAIA regionals. After an easy 5-0 win over Western Washington, Seattle University exorcised one of its longtime demons, defeating Simon Fraser, the team who had denied Seattle University the regional title in the previous three seasons, by a 3-2 count. At the national tournament, the Chieftains faced the top seeded University of Illinois-Springfield as well as host school Birmingham Southern in round-robin play. Seattle University advanced to the national semifinals, and then defeated William Carey and Rockhurst to earn the 1997 NAIA national title.

IN THE CLASSROOM

The Seattle University student-athletes in general, and the men's soccer team specifically, enjoyed another outstanding year not only in athletic competition, but also in the academic world. The men's teams combined for a 3.086 grade point average, while the women's teams posted a 3.344 GPA as a group.

The men's soccer team combined for a 3.034 grade point average. Eight members of the team earned Academic All-GNAC honors: John Fishbaugher, Eric Forner, Chris Hodges, Andrew Kreiter, Mutanda Kwesele, Cameron Mertens, Peter Mullenbach, and Sean Rawson. In addition, Fishbaugher and Hodges earned ESPN The Magazine First Team Academic All-District honors from the College Sports Information Directors of America (CoSIDA).

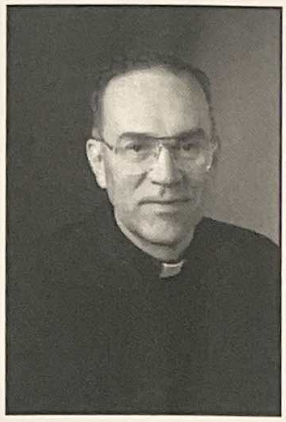
On May 10, 2007, the Board of Trustees of Seattle University approved the recommendation of the Athletic Alignment Task Force to begin the process of reclassifying to NCAA Division I status. Even though the 2007-08 season was the final one at the Division II level, some of the athletic teams got a taste of the competition at the Division I level.

On November 3, 2007, the SU men's basketball team, led by seniors Ryan Coldren (top photo) and Travis Welt (middle photo), traveled to Lexington, Ky., to face the University of Kentucky Wildcats in an exhibition game. The women's swim team hosted a dual meet against Loyola Marymount University, and both the men's and women's swim teams competed against Pac-10 schools at the Husky Invitational hosted by the University of Washington in Federal Way, Wash. The SU softball squad again played a close game against the University of Washington at Husky Softball Field during the fall season. The cross country and track & field squads also participated in several competitions hosted by the University of Washington.

The 2008-09 season is Year One of the reclassification process. In Year Three (2010-11), the men's and women's soccer teams will be eligible for NCAA postseason competition, with the rest of the department becoming postseason eligible in 2012-13, when Seattle University is a full-fledged Division I member of the NCAA.



FR. STEPHEN V. SUNDBORG, S.J.
President - Seattle University

Father Stephen Sundborg, of The Society of Jesus, became president of Seattle University in July 1997. He leads a comprehensive, independent university of more than 7,000 undergraduate and graduate students and 1,000 faculty and staff members. He has recently agreed, at the request of the Board of Trustees, to serve a third five-year team as president of Seattle University.

Since becoming president, Father Sundborg's key objectives have been to encourage student-centered education, enhance academic excellence, and develop resources to support a growing student population. During his tenure, Seattle University has built a new law school, a student center, and student residences. Father Sundborg is strongly committed to promoting social justice, a core value of the Jesuit Catholic education. He actively supports programs that encourage students, faculty, and staff to make a difference, whether in the local community or developing countries. As President, Father Sundborg has bestowed honorary degrees on such social justice leaders as Nelson Mandela, Archbishop Desmond Tutu, and Corazon Aquino.

Father Sundborg grew up in the Territory of Alaska. He entered the Jesuits in 1961 and was ordained a priest in Seattle in 1974. He completed his doctoral studies in spirituality at the Pontifical Gregorian University in Rome in 1982. He taught theology at Seattle University from 1982-1990, was appointed Rector of the Seattle University Jesuit community in 1986, and served as Provincial of the Northwest Jesuits from 1990 to 1996. Father Sundborg is the 21st president to lead Seattle University since it was founded in 1891.

DR. ROBERT KELLY
Vice President for Student Development

Dr. Robert Kelly is the Vice President for Student Development at Seattle University. In his role he provides leadership for the advocacy, development and coordination of co-curricular initiatives, services and activities to promote the academic, personal, spiritual, and professional development of all students.

Prior to this position, he served as Assistant Vice President at Seattle University, Associate Dean of Students at The University of Vermont and Coordinator of the Academic Integrity at The University of Maryland. Rob received a Ph.D. in Education Policy, Planning and Leadership from the University of Maryland, a master's degree in Higher Education and Student Affairs Administration from the The University of Vermont and a Bachelors degree in Political Science from Loyola College in Maryland,where he serves on the Academic Affairs Committee of the Board of Trustees.

Dr. Kelly's research focuses on areas administrative ethical decision-making in Higher Education and the ways in which college students' experiences with diversity prepare them for active citizenship and leadership.

DR. WILLIAM HOGAN
Director of Athletics

Entering his third year as the Director of Athletics at Seattle University, William (Bill) Hogan has already made a significant impact not only on the athletics program, but within the university as a whole. Thanks to his leadership, the department has stabilized and grown over the past two years, and he's overseen two of the most successful years in school history, both athletically and academically. Most importantly, he spearheaded the move by the University to begin the process of returning to Division I status.

Last season, Hogan watched on as both the women's and men's soccer, and softball teams went on to compete in the NCAA Tournament. The softball team set a new school record for wins (38) and went on to win the GNAC championship. Men's swimming finished with their best showing at the Division II level with an eighth place finish, and crowned an individual National Champion (Jakob Jiracek) in the 200m Breaststroke. Seattle University placed 8 different athletes on the first team All-Academic All-District teams, and Ashley Porter and Chris Coley were the first SU student-athletes to be named All-Academic All-Americans for two consecutive years.

In his first year, Hogan witnessed the women's soccer, men's soccer, and men's basketball teams winning GNAC titles and advancing to their respective NCAA Tournaments. The men's soccer team won the Far West Region and advanced to the Elite Eight, while the men's basketball squad won its first round game. The softball and men's swimming teams also reached their best postseason result, with the softball team advancing to the West Regional title game and the men's swim team finishing ninth at the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships. Academically, the department won the GNAC Academic All-Sports title, with two SU student-athletes, Ana Gutierrez and Adam Jensen, earning GNAC Scholar-Athlete of the Year honors.

Hogan led the University of San Francisco athletics department from 1991 to 2006. He oversaw the development of athletics facilities and initiated scholarship- and revenue-generating programs to strengthen athletic programs at USF. Hogan was named Regional Athletic Director of the Year by the National Association of College Athletic Directors for 2000-2001. In addition to his responsibilities as athletics director, Hogan also served as part-time faculty member in USF's business administration and graduate sports management programs.

Prior to his role at USF, Hogan was with his alma mater Saint Joseph's College in Indiana, serving as both athletics director and head men's basketball coach. He was also a tenured associate professor at Saint Joseph's and voted Professor of the Year by students.

Hogan holds a master's in Business Education and a doctorate in Educational Administration from Bowling Green State University.

SEATTLE UNIVERSITY

Founded in 1891 as a Jesuit Catholic men's college, Seattle University has grown in size and stature to become the largest and most diverse independent university in the Pacific Northwest, with a student population of more than 6,800.

Seattle University's 48-acre campus houses eight schools: Arts and Sciences, Science and Engineering, Nursing, Education, Theology and Ministry, Law, Business and Economics, and the Matteo Ricci College. The 2004 U.S. News and World Report ranks Seattle University among the top 10 schools in the west that offer a full range of masters and undergraduate programs, and Seattle University is among the Princeton Review's list of the top colleges in the United States.

In its 113-year history, Seattle University has been consistent in its commitment to academic excellence. Teaching, strengthened by active scholarship, is the faculty priority. Small class sizes, and the personal attention given by Seattle University professors and administrators, help students meet the rigorous demands of the curriculum.

One of 28 Jesuit Catholic universities in the U.S., Seattle University draws upon the Jesuit educational philosophy to develop critical thinkers and compassionate leaders able to promote a more just and humane world.

Seattle University's location in the heart of a great city and dynamic region provides learning, service, cultural and career opportunities for students. With the university's emphasis on experiential learning, students enhance their classroom experience by working on projects with local companies, interning in local schools or hospitals, participating in study-abroad programs, and other learning opportunities.

The true measure of the university's excellence is the success of its graduates. Seattle University's 43,000 alumni include distinguished individuals in business, public affairs, education, the performing arts, athletics, science and technology, and other fields.

If you look anywhere, you are bound to see our alumni.

In the 1960's and 1970s, Seattle University had more former players in the NBA than any other college.

Our graduates become doctors, lawyers, business owners, newspaper editors, legislators and world leaders.

An SU graduate was the first American to climb Mt. Everest, another won a landmark case in front of the U.S. Supreme Court, and still another is building the world's tallest structure in Dubai.

Below is only a small list of our distinguished alumni.
